CHICAGO ASKS U. S. RELIEF

A FAIR DEAL IS CERMAK PLEDGE TO DOWNSTATE

Democratic Factions Draw Together

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 2.—[Special.]—Democratic primary wounds were brought close to the healing point tonight by Mayor Cermak of Chicago, Henry Horner, nominee for governor, and other leaders at a meeting here of the state delegation to the national convention of June 27.

Speaking at a dinner of the delegates, the state candidates and Democratic newspaper editors at the St. Nicholas hotel, Mayor Cermak disowned any desire to "boss" the Democratic party of Illinois, either in the convention or any other political situation. He pleaded for better understanding between Chicago and downstate and said Judge Horner would be governor for the entire state. This nonsectionalism was stressed also by Judge Horner. Both speeches were received with prolonged applause.

Igoe Goes on Committee.

But even earlier substantial progress had been made toward curing the bruises of the strenuous primary battle. They had succeeded in persuading Michael L. Igoe to accept election to the convention resolutions committee in the national convention. He was a candidate in the primary against Horner. And they had half persuaded the third candidate, Bruce A. Campbell, to take charge of the election campaign.

The election of Illinois' member on the resolutions committee, it was disclosed, was necessitated at this time by the plan of the national committee to have the resolutions committee meet and begin its work in Chicago on June 23, four days before the convention opens. And it was whispered that the plan further provides that the Illinois member is to be one of a subcommittee of five to undertake the advance drafting of the platform.

Igoe, now national committeeman, but almost certain to be replaced by Cermak in the caucus of the delegation on the eve of the convention, was reluctant to accept the grueling task of platform building, but it was argued that because of his experience in that work at New York in 1924 and at Houston in 1928, when he was secretary of the committee, and because of his long battle for repeal of prohibition, he was the one man in the delegation best fitted for the assignment.

Cermak Urges Mutual Trust.

Mayor Cermak began his speech by saying the Democratic convention and not the Republican meeting of June 14 will name the next President and urging that before going into the convention the delegates should learn to know and trust each other, should straighten out any differences that might exist, and concede the right of every one to record and vote his own convictions. He said that under Republican misrule there had grown up a spirit of distrust between downstate and Chicago that ought not to exist.

"To my mind," he said, "there is no foundation for it. I know Chicago perhaps as well as any person living there and I can honestly say for Chicago that we consider ourselves no better and no worse than the citizens of the rest of the state.

"We ask nothing for Chicago that we would not grant to the rest of the state.

No Previous Agreements.

"I do not know whether any of you here has positive convictions with reference to the Democratic candidate for President. But this I can tell you on my honor, that the Chicago delegates have never met before tonight nor had a discussion on the subject. As for myself, I feel I have a mandate from the Democrats of Illinois to vote for James Hamilton Lewis and to do everything possible toward having him named at the convention. This mandate I shall obey and continue to vote for him so long as there remains a possibility of having him nominated.

"Beyond that I have no second choice. I hope there will be no need for a second choice, but should that need occur then let us meet again, dispassionately discuss the candidates, and cast our vote for the man we regard as best fitted to serve not only the Democratic party but the whole nation.

"If in such an event we can agree and cast our votes as a unit it would be a splendid thing to do. But every one of us ought to pledge himself tonight that no effort will be made

Business Leaders Attack Tax Eaters

MAP FIGHT HERE TO SLASH COST OF GOVERNMENT

Cite Rising Burden Throughout U. S.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

Leaders of American business yesterday presented forceful demands that the Roman holiday of the tax eating governments give way immediately to a new era of the strictest economy.

MARK GRAVES.

Delegates representing trade, financial, and agricultural organizations came from the four corners of the nation to join in the National Conference for the Reduction of Government Expenditures, which opened a two day session at the Hotel La Salle.

Demands End of Paternalism.

Speakers called for an end to the extravagant bureaus and commissions of the federal government. They said the army of public pay rollers, federal, state, and local, has fed too long at the tax trough. The aroused business men hit at the coddling paternalism of the government and called for a return of the times when citizens and industries were self-serving and independent.

They pictured a national peril existing because of governmental extravagances. Definite demands for elimination of expenditures were voiced, and these are to be crystallized today into resolutions which will be presented to congress, to the President and his cabinet, and to the impending conventions of the Democratic and Republican parties.

Hundreds of millions must be saved by the federal government alone if sanity in taxation is to be restored, the conference was told. Billions must be lopped off the total expenditures of all public governments, it was declared, and there was a promise that the conference, before it ends, will present a program by which these economies may be practically effected.

Rossetter Named Chairman.

George W. Rossetter, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, which sponsored the conference, was elected chairman of the metting. In starting off the proceedings he declared that if the taxpayers do not win their battle against the tax spenders "then representative government is lost to the world."

Dr. Charles M. Thompson, dean of the college of commerce and business administration of the University of Illinois, chairman of the taxation committee of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, called upon the leaders of commerce to counteract the effect of delegations sent to Washington and to state capitals for the purpose of taking money out of the public treasuries.

"You should send strong delegations there to insist that these people be kept away from the treasuries," Dr. Thompson declared.

He said that a survey conducted by the committee of which he is chairman showed that one-half of the overwhelming increase in tax levies in recent years has resulted from the creation of new functions.

Explains Tax Increases.

Dr. Thompson emphasized that he didn't want to be understood as favoring the abolishment of all these new functions, but he mentioned some of them to show the trends of government. In the field of education, which he cited by way of example, taxes have risen by reason of free textbooks, athletics, vocational education, play features, free feeding.

"All this has cost and is costing an enormous lot of money," Dr. Thompson said. He mentioned also the public libraries, public swimming pools, public welfare. The poor farm used to be shunned and feared, Dr. Thompson declared, but he said that in his home county the "poor farm"—not longer identified by such a crass name—is one of the county's most magnificent buildings.

Free clinics, hard roads, visiting nurses, these have added enormously to the tax burden, Dr. Thompson said.

ONE OF THOSE RARE OPPORTUNITIES WHICH GREAT MEN GRASP

SAYS LET HOOVER, COOLIDGE, SMITH, 2 MORE, RUN U. S.

Washington, D. C., June 2.—[Special.]—A bill calling for creation of a "national recovery committee," to be composed of President Hoover, former President Calvin Coolidge, Alfred E. Smith, a Republican senator and a Democratic representative, was introduced in the house today by Representative Lorin H. Black [Dem., N. Y.].

The committee would be given complete power to change the laws of the United States affecting economic matters during the recess of congress. In effect, said Mr. Black, it would be delegated the powers usually enjoyed by congress. A fund of 500 million dollars would be appropriated for the use of the committee. Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Smith would receive compensation at the rate of $1,000 a month.

"There is so much uncertainty about the immediate business future," said Mr. Black, "that an emergency committee should function during the recess so that the United States might not be engulfed by its own statutes. My bill calls for a practical delegation of all legislative power by the congress for a period of time when congress will not be in a position to use its power."

SEIZE SPITALE, LINDY KIDNAP AID, FOR QUIZ

New York, June 3 [Friday].—(AP)—"Salvy" Spitale, one of the emissaries to the underworld named by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in his hunt for his kidnaped baby, was taken to a police station for questioning early today when raiding police found him in the Playtime club in the theatrical district.

When police searched him they found a loaded revolver, for which he had a permit. Five other men were taken into custody, including Julie Behrman, recently acquitted of a speakeasy slaying. Two quarts of alleged whisky were taken in the raid.

Irving Bitz, co-emissary with Spitale by designation of Col. Lindbergh, appeared at the police station and was seeking a bondsman in case one were needed.

Aimee McPherson Hutton Seriously Ill in New Orleans

Los Angeles, Cal., June 2.—[Special.]—The Rev. Aimee McPherson Hutton is critically ill in New Orleans, according to a telegram to Angelus Temple officials tonight from David L. Hutton Jr., her husband, with whom she has been on a vacation tour since April. Her condition turned for the worse after they arrived in Louisiana from Guatemala, Hutton advised. Mrs. McPherson Hutton had been stricken with an attack of heart disease in Guatemala.

Thousands of Veterans Move on Washington

Washington, D. C., June 2.—(AP)—The government today turned an inquiring eye on communistic activities as thousands of war veterans marched and rode toward the nation's capital to demand immediate payment of their bonus.

A tented city was arranged to house the former soldiers who were on the move in Texas, Illinois, Michigan, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Ohio, Louisiana, Florida, and Oklahoma.

Government enforcement agencies, who cannot under the law do more than observe the communists' actions, are turning over to police in cities through which the marchers pass their reports, which indicate that the communists have seized upon the movement to promote their doctrine.

1,500 Lobby for Vote.

Leaders of the veterans already here—some 600 billeted in vacant buildings and an estimated 900 more "floating" through charity houses—vehemently deny that communists have inspired their march. They are lobbying in congress for signatures to the Patman petition to call the bonus bill up for a vote. They obtained eleven today. The petition now has 118 of the necessary 145 signers.

Meanwhile, Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, asked detectives to contact Emanuel Levin, a communist leader, and "invite" him to confer with the police head on his activities in Washington.

Levin, who came here from New York yesterday, claims the bonus march originated with the Workers' Ex-Service Men's league, communist affiliate.

A midnight show will be given in a local theater tonight to supplement funds to feed the veterans. Tags will be sold at a wrestling match. Glassford has about $400 now. He is feeding the campers on 6 cents a day. As long as funds and food are available they can stay, he says.

Police Rig Up Showers.

Thus far there has been no difficulty or disorder. Police rigged up showers today. A medical inspection showed the veterans generally free of disease.

Press and private reports to police say more than 5,000 veterans have started or are about to start for Washington. Between 200 and 500 left Camden today. Two hundred more were near Wilmington, Del., on foot. About 400 were on a freight train en route from Pittsburgh. All are expected to arrive within 24 hours.

In addition, groups were forming in scores of widely scattered cities from coast to coast, preparing to start between now and Sunday.

Yanks Invade Canada; Seize a Rum Runner

SWEETSBURG, Que., June 2.—(AP)—Arthur St. Martin, high constable of Brome county, said tonight warrants had been issued for the arrest of four Americans for the abduction early today of Armand La Lanne from St. Armand across the international boundary to Burlington, Vt. La Lanne, who jumped $500 bail some time ago in Burlington in connection with a rum running case, later was surrendered to United States authorities at Burlington, Martin said.

The Brome county official said the names of the alleged abductors were known and that the warrants charged kidnaping and violence. He declined to make public the names of the men named in the warrants. St. Martin expressed indignation at the affair. He said that La Lanne was a Canadian citizen, and that "they had no right to take the law into their own hands like that." He said he was taking up the matter with the attorney general at Quebec.

Warrant Issued by U. S.

St. Martin said he understood a bench warrant had been issued by United States authorities for La Lanne's arrest and that there was no reason why his return to the United States could not have been attempted by lawful methods.

The abduction followed a terrific battle in Lalanne's home at St. Armand, police said.

Arthur Demegue, who lived with Lalanne in the village of Morses Line, near the border, told police the four men came to the house about 11 o'clock last night. One of them rang the doorbell and Demegue, answering, was knocked unconscious. He told police the men were armed with clubs and revolvers.

Lalanne also was knocked senseless before being carried across the border, St. Martin said.

Surrender Him to U. S.

Burlington, Vt., June 2.—(AP)—Armand Lalanne, abducted early today from a house in St. Armand, Que., and brought in an automobile across the international border, was surrendered today to United States officials who had sought him since he jumped $500 bail in a liquor running case a year ago.

Lalanne was turned over to United States District Attorney Harry B. Amey by Fred Yudas of Burlington and three companions whose names were not made known. Yudas was Lalanne's bondsman in the liquor running case. A bondsman, Amey said, had every right to use force if necessary to produce a defaulting prisoner in court, at reports that the abduction had caused indignation among Canadian officials.

Freed on $500 Bail.

Lalanne was arrested at Swanton on Dec. 1, 1931, charged with transportation of 157 bottles of wine and with assault upon an officer. He was released on $500 bail and failed to appear when his case was called in federal District court in April of that year. Last month his bail was ordered forfeited.

Lalanne bore several bruises and there was blood on his face when he was turned over to federal officials today.

2 SMART COPS USE THEIR HEADS AND SAVE THEIR FACES

Policemen Kyran Phelan and Patrick McInerney of the detective bureau, riding in an automobile yesterday at Michigan avenue and Monroe street, saw Irene Stevens riding in another car. With her were three women and a man.

Miss Stevens, who is 41 years old, is a shoplifter with a long record. The policemen suspected that she had been at work. They desired to arrest her, but did not dare to. They recalled that every time she was taken into custody, no matter where, it was her custom to throw off all her clothing and to shout that the blushing policemen were disrobing her.

Guile was needed. So Phelan and McInerney followed the automobile to 42d street and Cottage Grove avenue, where they accused the driver of speeding and took all the occupants to the central station. Miss Stevens was willing, she said, to accept a speeding ticket. But when a matron arrived and she learned she was arrested as a shoplifting suspect she started to follow her disrobing custom. It didn't matter, as a matron was there to put her in a cell.

In the car were found fifty neckties that had been stolen from a loop store. With Miss Stevens were Anna Fay, Betty Harley, Lillian Douglas, and Albert Harris. All were held.

NINETY REPORTED DEAD AS STORM SWEEPS RUMANIA

LONDON, June 2.—(AP)—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Bucharest tonight said 80 persons had been killed and the same number injured in a hurricane at Ismail, Rumania. Many buildings were wrecked, the dispatch said, describing the damage as enormous.

Ten Killed in Another Town.

BUCHAREST, June 2.—(AP)—Ten persons were reported killed today in a terrific rainstorm at the village of Matchja, in the Dobrudja district. Scores of persons were injured and there was heavy property damage, including a great loss of cattle.

Bridge Beginner Draws 13 Hearts, Calls for Help!

Three guests of Mrs. Robert Hall sat down with her in her home at 6445 West 34th street, Berwyn, last night to instruct her in the fundamentals of auction bridge. Mrs. Hall, according to the story vouched for by James Cronquist, Mrs. Anton Schmidt, and Miss Genevieve Fischer, picked up her first hand, remarked in a puzzled tone that she didn't know how to bid it, and displayed the cards. She had drawn thirteen hearts.

SENATORS DRAW LOAN BILLS AT HOOVER BEHEST

Program Calls for Cash to States.

Senate and house conferees reach complete agreement on new tax bill to balance budget in 1933; will reach house floor today and may be signed by President tomorrow. Page 3.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 2.—[Special.]—While two members of the cabinet, Ogden Mills and P. J. Hurley, were delivering a slashing attack today upon the Wagner and Garner Democratic relief programs, providing for huge federal expenditures for "pork barrel" public works Senators Lewis and Glenn of Illinois presented Chicago's relief fund situation direct to President Hoover.

The Illinois senators called the President's attention to the fact that the state had been unable to dispose of all its relief bonds, with the result that Chicago and other centers would have to stop relief work within a few days unless federal funds were made available.

Crisis for 110,000 Families.

Advices from Chicago were that the relief stations there which have been aiding 110,000 families because of unemployment must be closed Sunday unless the tax notes authorized by the state legislature can be sold. There is no present buyer unless the United States Reconstruction Finance corporation is permitted by congress to be a purchaser.

Chicago and Illinois, it is emphasized, are not asking for a gift but for a loan which will be guaranteed by the state's securities. It is said that aside from the representations made by the two senators the President has received appeals from leading bankers and business men of Chicago for this loan authorization.

Authorizes Relief Bills.

As a result the President authorized Senators Glenn and Lewis to introduce emergency relief bills authorizing the Reconstruction Finance corporation to loan up to 300 millions to states now unable for one reason or another to care adequately for their unemployed. One section would permit the corporation to purchase the poor relief securities offered by states but for which no market has been found.

The bills to be introduced by the Illinois senators would be so phrased that Illinois relief bonds could be disposed of through the relief corporation.

Senators at White House.

Senator Glenn called at the White House in the morning. Senator Lewis in the afternoon. Their calls disclosed that President Hoover is now attempting to divide the big federal relief program into three separate bills. One would deal with emergency relief, one with the projects of a self-liquidating nature to be financed through the finance corporation, and the third with the so-called pork barrel public works projects.

Explaining that he had been invited by the President to help formulate legislation for Illinois, Senator Lewis said it was also planned to have the legislation apply to other states.

"I told him he would have my support and I would do everything in my power to put the legislation in form."

Plan Speedy Enactment.

The Hoover program, as set forth today, calls for the speedy enactment of legislation taking care of the emergency relief needs of states but so framed that the states will be required to take early action to assure repayment. Early action also would be sought on a separate bill.

One already has been introduced by Representative Willis Hawley [Rep., Ore.] which would permit the reconstruction corporation to make loans to states, or any political subdivision thereof, or any corporation for the purpose of enabling them to finance the construction, replacement, or reconstruction of sound and useful projects which would provide employment which would be of such a profit making nature that the government ultimately would, in theory at least, stand a chance to being repaid. By passing the above bills separately, the administration hopes to kill all chances of the passage of pork barrel public building projects.

Mills Before Committees.

The general subject of relief centered all day in the appearance of Secretary of the Treasury Mills before senate and house committees. Questions put to him by Senators James Couzens [Rep., Mich.], Robert J. Bulkley [Dem., O.], and Carter Glass [Dem., Va.] disclosed that the administration program of arranging for granting so-called self-liquidating loans to states and corporations for nonfederal construction purposes is due for vigorous attack when it reaches the senate floor. Both Couzens and Bulkley argued that the government would be placed in the position of making loans to private corporations, competing against each, if the Garner, Wagner, or administration programs were approved.

Senator Couzens denounced the suggestion that the government make loans to automobile or other competing corporations. Senator Glass in his turn assailed the whole program of direct relief for the states as "humbug," asserting he would be ashamed of his state if the governor asked for federal aid.

Wonder How Far To Go.

It was apparent during today's hearings, however, that the bars for government aid to the states, and even private corporations, are now down and that the whole question in issue is how far should the government go.

Secretary Mills before the house ways and means committee late today asserted that the Garner bill as now written would take the government perilously far into the field of private business and state responsibility.

Passage of the Garner bill, according to Mr. Mills, would find private citizens attempting to make loans of from 5 to 100 dollars from the Reconstruction corporation on such collateral as cows, automobiles, or what have you.

Discusses Garner Bill.

"The Garner bill," said Secretary Mills, "can be divided into three parts. Part one would authorize the appropriation of a sum of 100 million dollars to be disbursed by the President for the relief of persons residing in the United States, which he may disburse either as gifts or loans of money in any way he sees fit. Part two would broaden the powers of the reconstruction finance corporation and extend its borrowing authority by one billion dollars so as to authorize it to make a loan to any individual or corporation, public or private, for almost any purpose. Part three would authorize appropriation of one billion 100 million dollars for public works such as rivers and harbors, flood control, postoffice construction and road building. This constitutes a total of two billion 200 million dollars.

"It is difficult to find words adequate to characterize this proposal from the standpoint of the public finances. After a great effort to bring our budget into balance by drastic economies and by imposing on the people of the United States the most severe taxation ever imposed in peace times for the all important purpose of preserving unimpaired the credit of the United States government and thus laying a foundation for economy recovery, this bill would undo all our efforts, unbalance the budget on a huge scale, impair the credit of the United States government, destroy the confidence of the people in their government and indefinitely postpone all hope of early recovery.

Only Two Ways Open.

"Where do you expect to get these funds? There are only two ways in which the government obtains funds: First, by taxation; second, by borrowing. The new tax bill has gone to the extreme in raising new revenue. The bill, therefore, does not contemplate raising these billions by taxation, but by borrowing. But borrowing contemplates a willing lender, and where are you to find lenders willing to advance their funds to a government with a large public debt, with a budget unbalanced on such scale as is contemplated in this bill and for the purposes contemplated in this bill.

"I have asked the office of the supervising architect to give me an estimate of the actual number of men that will receive employment, directly and indirectly, on public building projects during the fiscal year 1933 if this bill is adopted, in addition to the projects already provided for during that year. The total number of men who will receive employment, directly and indirectly, is 30,448, from a total authorized amount of $283,409,000.

"Only one-quarter of this sum can actually be expended during the fiscal year 1933, but here's the point, gentlemen: after the fiscal year has passed, after this amount has been spent, after the unemployment emergency may be gone, I hope, the remaining 75 per cent of this huge amount will remain authorized and appropriated for and a lot of it under contract. Now do you understand why impartial critics call this a 'pork barrel' rather than an unemployment relief bill? To give relief to 30,448 men during the next 12 months the taxpayers of the country are to be asked to squander a large part of $283,409,000 over a course of years.

"As I read the bill the corporation would be authorized to do a general banking throughout the United States in competition with all of our commercial banks. It might even go further and carry on a chattel mortgage business on a fairly large scale. I don't say that it would, but I do say that the language is so broad as to authorize the Reconstruction Finance corporation to lend to any individual for almost any purpose on almost any security that the corporation deems adequate.

Opposes "Personal" Loans.

"It is utterly impracticable for the Reconstruction Finance corporation to go into the personal loan business.

"Finally, as to section one, it introduced definitely the principle of direct relief to the individual by the federal government, whether it be called a dole or by any other name. This is a complete and radical departure from the well established principles and practices followed by our nation ever since its birth. It is an abandonment of the principle of local responsibility and the entering upon a road the end of which no man can foresee. When we consider the immense population of this country, its vast extent, and how distant the federal government inevitably is from the average citizen, we realize how difficult it is for the citizen to exercise any supervision over the expenditure of public funds, and we are shocked at the possibility of waste, favoritism, maladministration and political pressures which the introduction of the federal government into the field of private charity may entail."

Would "Unbalance Budget."

Secretary Mills told the senate banking committee that adoption of the 500 million dollar federal public works program would unbalance the budget, shake public confidence, prove ineffective in putting large numbers of men to work and tend to retard business recovery.

"The proposal to provide for public works construction through the creation of an emergency construction fund of 500 millions, is open to very serious objection," Mr. Mills said. "To reduce to the simplest terms, what is actually contemplated is the creation of a special or extraordinary budget in the amount of 500 million dollars, to be covered by a special bond issue, the spending of approximately 300 million additional for public works, and under certain conditions permitting the capitalization of approximately 200 million dollars of public work items otherwise included in our ordinary budget for the fiscal year 1933. If this provision should become law, it will automatically unbalance that budget by 300 million dollars.

"Once we concede away the principle of a balanced budget, all our defenses are down."

Assailed as Free Grab.

The debate during Secretary Mills' appearance before the senate banking committee reached its highest pitch during the discussion of direct federal relief legislation. After Mr. Mills had assailed the 300 million dollar relief section in the Wagner bill as a free grab for the states, Senator Robert F. Wagner [Rep., N. Y.] challenged the secretary to write a better section. Mr. Mills responded by suggesting adoption of the language of the Hawley administration relief bill introduced yesterday.

The Hawley bill, according to Mr. Mills, placed greater safeguard around the loans to states, and afforded the government a better prospect of being repaid. This measure permits the finance corporation to make emergency loans to any state for relief of distress upon a showing to the satisfaction of the corporation as to the necessity for funds.

The corporation may make such loans by the purchase or underwriting of bonds of such states for periods not exceeding five years. No such loans shall be made except upon the application of the chief executive of the state pursuant to authorization of its legislature and upon the direct and unconditional obligation of such state to repay such loan.

Grants May Be Withheld.

In event a state does not repay on schedule the government is authorized to withhold federal grants of aid to states until the default has been remedied.

"If this 300 million dollar relief section is to become a handout for the states then I'm against it," Mills said. "That's what it amounts to under the Wagner and Garner plans. I'd be ashamed of my state if the governor of that great commonwealth came to Washington to ask the federal government for alms under its provisions."

"I would be, too," agreed Senator Glass [Dem., Va.]. "I'm satisfied Virginia never will ask for federal funds. I think this whole idea of loaning relief funds to states is humbug.

"Well," answered Secretary Mills, "most of the states will be here for aid if this measure goes through as now written."

3 Federal Relief Plans Compared

Washington, D. C., June 2.—(AP)—In their major details the unemployment relief plans of senate Democrats, President Hoover, and Speaker Garner compare as follows:

SENATE DEMOCRATIC PLAN.

Distress relief—Loans of 300 million dollars through the reconstruction corporation to states for direct relief. Repayment through deductions from future federal aid funds. Allocations based on population.

Construction loans—Creation of one billion 460 million dollar fund under the reconstruction corporation to loan to state, county, or municipal governments or private corporations for self-liquidating construction of a public character.

Federal public works—Issue of 500 million dollars in bonds to finance a federal construction program of projects already authorized but not appropriated for.

Agricultural relief—Allocation of 40 million dollars through the reconstruction corporation for financing the export of agricultural products.

ADMINISTRATION PLAN.

Distress relief—Loans from 300 million dollar fund under reconstruction plan as under the Democratic plan, but state governors would have to submit to legislatures plan for refunding, and loans would only be made on showing of real need.

Construction loans—Addition of one billion 500 million dollars to the borrowing power of the reconstruction corporation for loans on self-liquidating projects to states, counties, municipalities, or private corporations.

Federal public works—No expansion of the budget program.

Agricultural relief—Fifty million dollars from the reconstruction corporation to the farm board for loans to cooperatives and a similar sum to the secretary of agriculture for financing agricultural exports.

GARNER PLAN.

Distress relief—Appropriation of 100 million dollars to be used in President Hoover's discretion.

Construction loans—Creation of billion dollar fund under reconstruction corporation for loans without restriction to states, counties, municipalities, and private industry.

Federal public works—Bond issue of $1,224,084,327 for federal public construction.

Agricultural relief—Use of some of the billion dollar construction loan fund under the reconstruction corporation for financing agricultural exports.

OPEN DRIVE FOR MONEY TO SAVE RELIEF STATIONS

Unemployment relief officials opened a drive yesterday to obtain money to save relief stations, which have been disbursing aid to 111,000 families in Cook county, from closing Sunday.

SEWELL L. AVERY.
Moffett Photo.

They worked on a twofold plan, the ultimate object of which is the authorization by congress for the Reconstruction Finance corporation to loan up to $300,000,000 to state governments for relief purposes. The states would deposit as collateral the relief securities which they have been unable to sell. This would solve the Chicago situation, since the Illinois emergency relief commission has $6,250,000 in state tax warrants which it has been unable to market.

Need $2,800,000 for June.

Pending action by congress, business leaders of Chicago will be asked to make emergency purchases of the warrants. It is hoped in this way to get enough cash to operate the relief stations until congress acts. It will require $2,800,000 to keep the stations open until July 1.

Invitations to attend a luncheon today at the Chicago club were sent out yesterday to eighty-eight business leaders of Chicago. The telegrams were signed by Sewell L. Avery, chairman of the mayor's advisory committee; Philip R. Clarke, president of the Central Republic bank; Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank; James R. Leavell, president of the Continental Illinois bank; Attorney Silas H. Strawn, and George A. Ranney, vice president of the International Harvester company.

"We will try to get enough subscriptions for the relief tax warrants tomorrow to act as a stopgap and continue the relief work until congress can act," said Mr. Clarke, who headed the organization which sold $12,500,000 worth of the warrants earlier in the year. "Meanwhile, every citizen of Chicago can help by urging his congressman and senators to speed action on the bill authorizing relief loans by the Reconstruction Finance corporation."

500,000 Facing Hunger.

The relief commission issued a statement yesterday, as follows:

"The complacency with which citizens of Chicago have accepted the announcement that all funds are exhausted and that the relief stations will have to close next Saturday night indicates that they either do not appreciate the seriousness of the situation that will result, or that they believe funds from some source will be forthcoming.

"The fact that between 5 and 6 hundred thousand people will be without food leaves no doubt as to the seriousness of the situation.

"As to the prospect of obtaining the $100,000 a day necessary to keep the stations open, the people of Chicago should realize that every effort has been and is being made, but so far without success."

Delegations of unemployed called on bankers and Mayor Cermak yesterday to urge action to keep the relief disbursement flowing. One group, headed by Miss Lea Taylor, daughter of Graham Taylor of the Chicago Commons Settlement, saw Mr. Traylor and Mr. Clarke. Another, led by Karl Borders, Socialist and social worker, visited Mayor Cermak.

U. S. Architect Beaten in Louvain Inscription Case

PARIS, June 2.—The Belgian supreme court today ruled against Whitney Warren, New York architect, in his suit against Louvain university for leaving the inscription, "Destroyed by German fury; rebuilt by American generosity," off the facade of the university library. The architect was ordered to pay the costs.

WYOMING TOWN TURNS DOWN A NEW POSTOFFICE

Riverton, Wyo., June 2.—(AP)—Riverton placed itself in a unique position among American cities today by turning down a $70,000 federal appropriation for a proposed postoffice.

The Lions club, representing most of the business men in the town, learned the appropriation was being considered by congress. A meeting was called and a recommendation passed that congress save the money.

"We respectfully request that our delegation does not urge this item but rather insists upon strict economy in all public expenditures," the club telegraphed the Wyoming delegation in congress.

"We believe such an appropriation is uncalled for and the poorest economy at this time. Our citizens want to see the budget balanced."

Commons Passes Bill for Control of Coal Production

LONDON, June 2.—(AP)—The house of commons tonight gave third reading, the equivalent of passage, to the government's coal bill, which seeks to control production, supply and sale of coal in the British industry for a five year period. The vote was 291 to 52.

AGREE ON TAX BILL TO BALANCE BUDGET IN 1933

Conferees of Senate and House Reach Terms.

Washington, D. C., June 2.—[Special.]—The new tax bill was pushed swiftly today through its next to final stage of legislative approval. Sitting late into the night the conference committee of senators and representatives completed their work of reconciling the differences between the tax measure as passed by the house and as passed by the senate. Ending a thirteen hour session, they announced that they had agreed in full on a measure certain to balance the budget at the end of the fiscal year 1933.

For the senate—Senators Smoot [Rep., Utah], Watson [Rep., Ind.] Reed [Rep., Pa.], Harrison [Dem., Miss.], and King [Dem., Utah].

For the house—Representatives Collier [Dem., Miss.], Crisp [Dem., Ga.], Rainey [Dem., Ill.]; Hawley [Rep., Ore.], and Treadway [Rep., Mass.].

May be Law by Saturday.

Their completion of their work tonight means that the bill will go before the house tomorrow for final approval and then to the senate. The agreement of both houses is looked for, so that it may be possible for President Hoover to affix his signature on Saturday and thus complete the long five months' job of finding new taxes to meet next year's expected deficit.

Pending its submission to the house the conference committee gave out no details of the bill as approved, but it is known to embody the senate's income tax rates and in general to follow the senate bill as a whole. Senator Watson of Indiana said "it balances the budget absolutely."

Expense Cuts Not So Easy.

While speed marked the last legislative steps necessary to take an extra 1 billion 115 million dollars from the American taxpayer, the job of cutting government expenditures through the 238 million economy bill now in the senate lagged and loitered.

There was much debate; there was no action. The discussion stuck on the snag of a 10 per cent pay cut for federal employés expected to result in a saving of 121 millions

A revision of the flat cut plan recommended by the special economy committee which prepared the bill is likely. At least there will be a fight, and delay. The senate's radical group is solidly against a cut which will hit the smaller salaried employés.

Against this group the members of the committee are lined up solidly.

Wants Employés Fired.

One of the high points of the debate over the economy bill was the speech of Senator M. M. Logan [Dem., Ky.] calling the measure "a sham, a delusion, and a snare." He declared that instead of cutting salaries, congress ought to fire employés. Federal salaries were none too high for those that deserved salaries, he said; and those that deserved none ought to be dismissed. He thought it unfair to penalize all, including the efficient, in order to preserve the jobs of the 25 per cent which he said could be dropped without at all hurting the government service.

"Keep the Efficient."

Senator Logan charged congress with seeking to fool the public.

"We shall base our economies on cutting the small salaried employé, then go home and say, 'You know we have done the best we could. Didn't we cut our own salaries?'" the Kentuckian declared. "We are satisfied to take 120 millions from the employés of the government while Circe's daughters gnaw at the very vitals of the republic."

A senator's salary, he said, "was barely enough for him to live on."

Bratton for Moderation.

Senator Sam G. Bratton [Dem., N. M.] agreed with the Kentucky senator about the excessive number of employés, but he did not believe dismissals should be by "leaps and bounds."

"It is true that we have built a government that is too big and too broad and too complicated," Senator Bratton said. "It has grown in every direction. It is a bureaucracy and a commission everywhere. It is an accumulation that has covered the years and perhaps we are all to blame for it."

There must be retrenchment, Senator Bratton said, and he believed congress would be in the mood to carry it through. But he believed it wrong to order wholesale dismissals during this period of unemployment.

Favors Sliding Scale.

As indicative of the attitude the radical group will take Senator George W. Norris [radical Rep., Neb.] proposed an amendment, which will be passed on later, to exempt salaries under $1,500 and then impose the following schedule of cuts, calculated to bring about a saving of only some 25 millions: Those of $1,500 to $2,500, cut 5 per cent; $2,500 to $4,000, cut 10 per cent, $4,000 to $5,500, cut 15 per cent; $5,500 to $7,500, cut 20 per cent; more than $7,500 cut 25 per cent.

Senator Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.] proposed to exempt the salaries of all those receiving $2,500 or less.

Heading another group, Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.], one of the economy committee who has been a leader in the fight for economy, and who proposed the original 10 per cent cu. in all appropriation bills, introduced statistics from the shipping board and the postoffice department showing, he said, the payment of more than 100 millions in ocean and air mail subsidies.

LEAPS WITH SLAIN GIRL INTO VOLCANO

Fiery lava flowing from Kilauea volcano in Hawaii into fire pit of which Portuguese jumped with body of high school pupil who had rejected him. He had kidnaped her, taken her to the volcano, where he shot her. He then left a note telling of his act and jumped with the body in his arms.

LEAPS TO DEATH IN VOLCANO WITH GIRL HE LOST

Jumps Into Firepit After Shooting Her.

HILO, Hawaii, June 2.—(AP)—William Nunes, rejected suitor of Margaret Enos, a high school student, jumped with the girl to death in the Halemaumau firepit of Kilauea volcano today. Officers said Nunes apparently killed the girl before the leap. He was a Portuguese.

With powerful glasses Hawaiian National Park rangers located the bodies of the pair on a ledge 800 feet below the brink of the 1,200 foot deep pit.

Miss Enos rejected Nunes' offer of marriage two days ago. Officers said he entered her home early today and, with a pistol, forced her to leave.

Margaret's sister, Mrs. Manuel Furtado, with whom she lived, grappled with Nunes. He shot her in one hand and then escaped with the girl.

Park rangers found Nunes' rented motor car on the brink of the firepit at noon. It was spattered with blood. On a seat was an automatic pistol and a note which read:

"Ten minutes to eight. Margaret died instantly. She did not suffer. And now I must pay."

The firepit is the traditional home of Pele, Hawaiian goddess of fire. In olden times no one dared approach the pit without first offering ohelo berries as a sacrifice.

Whether ancient Hawaii made human sacrifices to the volcano is a disputed point, although such a situation provided a striking climax some years ago for the play, "The Bird of Paradise."

LOBBYISTS URGE U. S. LOAN FOR COAST AQUEDUCT

Los Angeles, Cal., June 2.—[Special.]—W. P. Whitsett, chairman of the board of the Metropolitan Water district, today made the first official announcement here that emissaries representing Los Angeles and its sister cities were in Washington working to have the federal Reconstruction Finance corporation purchase "all or a considerable part" of the 220 million dollar bond issue for construction of an aqueduct bringing Colorado river water to Los Angeles.

The legality of the issue was upheld in a ruling of the California Supreme court at San Francisco today.

Whitsett revealed that W. E. Weymouth, chief engineer and general manager for the Metropolitan district, and James H. Howard, counsel for the district, are the men in Washington.

They are meeting committees of the house of representatives, members of the senate, and cabinet members, and according to word sent back to Los Angeles, already have obtained favorable impressions from Gen. Dawes and President Hoover for selling the water district bond issue to the government.

BRITAIN URGED TO EXTEND VOTING RIGHTS IN INDIA

Special Privileges for Women Recommended.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 2.—Lord Lothian's Indian franchise committee, which recently returned from a three months' investigation of India, issued its report tonight with recommendations constituting a definite move toward the ultimate goal of adult franchise throughout the country.

The committee's task was to prepare a scheme for extension of the present British Indian electorate for both provincial and central legislatures in order to fit them for the work of a responsible government.

Plan to Raise Electorate.

The main recommendations are [1] to raise the present electorate from roughly 7,000,0000 to 36,000,000; [2] to award the right to vote to 6,600,000 women as against 315,000 at present; [3] to secure a large representation of the "depressed classes" on the electoral roll; [4] to give a substantially increased representation to labor.

The committee said that its investigations show the adult franchise in India is not immediately practicable on the grounds that it is not administratively feasible now because of a shortage of suitable electoral personnel, including police and women officials necessary to deal with the Purdal system, and also because of the present conditions of illiteracy and the rudimentary stage of organization of the political parties.

Interest in Politics Grows.

Agreement was expressed with the view of Sir John Simon's commission that there should be such an extension of the franchise as is reasonably practical. Supporting this view, the committee said that the interest taken in politics in India is now much greater than is often realized, that the radio will help to overcome the impediment of illiteracy, that the present franchise gives predominance to certain classes of the population while excluding others almost altogether, and that if a responsible government is to be made stable the legislatures must be more representative of the people.

Concerning the position of women, the committee calculated that the effect of the recommendations would be the enfranchisement of 43.4 per cent of the adult men and 10.5 of the adult women. It is considered essential to place enough women on the polling lists to provide an effective lever in establishing reforms concerning women and children.

The committee proposes various means of dealing with the depressed classes, estimated at 35,000,000, but leaves the adoption of methods to the local governments.

DOG BITES DETECTIVE'S SON.

BABY RECOVERS FROM OPERATION UNDERGONE HOUR AFTER ITS BIRTH

New York, June 2.—(AP)—Officials of the Prospect Heights and Brooklyn Maternity hospital disclosed today that an appendix operation had been successfully performed on an infant immediately after birth.

The child, a boy, was born to Mrs. Florence Bryan on May 23. It weighed but three pounds and physicians who observed a serious hernia involving the appendix decided an immediate operation was imperative.

Forty minutes after the child was born he was in his crib, the operation successfully completed. The boy has since gained weight and in a few days will be able to leave the hospital with his mother.

Hospital officials believed it to be the first time such a serious operation had been performed successfully so soon after birth.

DIVORCE ENDS MARITAL STRIFE OF THE KEGELS

The marital strife of Dr. Arnold H. Kegel, former health commissioner, and Mrs. Marie Sahlin Kegel came to a close yesterday when Mrs. Kegel was granted a divorce on grounds of cruelty by Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude.

The hearing, held in Judge Trude's chambers, was uncontested.

She will receive a $2,000 settlement in lieu of alimony, and the furniture of the Kegel home. Dr. Kegel retains custody of their adopted son, Bobby, for the time being.

MELLON WEARS KNEE BREECHES FOR A QUEEN

LONDON, June 2.—(AP)—Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon's policy on the issue of trousers vs. knee breeches has been defined thus: Breeches when he is invited merely as Mr. Mellon and not as ambassador, and trousers at any function comparable to White House functions back home.

Mr. Mellon wore silk breeches last night at the Derby day dinner given by Lady Ellesmere at Bridgewater house, which was attended by the queen and the duchess of York, while the king was host at the traditional Derby day stag dinner at Buckingham.

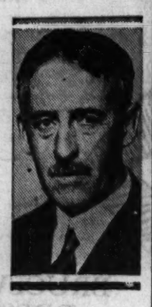
U. S. FALLS INTO CANCELLATION TRAP IN LONDON

Economic Parley Merely Another Lausanne.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 2.—[Special.]—Official Washington awoke to the realization today that President Hoover and Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson have committed the United States to participation in a world economic conference at London that probably entails consideration of revision if not cancellation of the 11 billions of war debts Europe owes this country.



HENRY L. STIMSON.
[Acme Photo.]

Republican and Democratic leaders were greatly exercised over the development, predicting political repercussions of vast import. The suggestion was heard in more than one quarter that the reaction to the course of the administration will be manifested by the adoption of platform planks by both the Republican and Democratic national conventions declaring against reduction of the war debts designed to thwart concessions in that direction by the American delegates at London.

U. S. Victim of Intrigue.

The consent of the Hoover administration to participate in the conference is involved in a maze of intrigue which is the subject of no end of speculation in diplomatic and official circles. The actual developments are shrouded by the veil of official secrecy. The incontrovertible facts are that the British and French maneuvered in every conceivable way to draw the United States into the forthcoming Lausanne conference on the revision of German reparations and war debts, the Europeans being unwilling to reduce reparations unless the United States were willing to reduce the war debts which they have been paying from the proceeds of reparations.

The eagerness of the European powers to get the United States into the conference was merely a fresh manifestation of their steadfast determination to make no sacrifices of their own.

Dodge One, Fall Into Other.

The President and Mr. Stimson declined the invitation to the Lausanne conference, informing the powers that the United States has no interests in German reparations and that the war debts are still regarded by the United States as unrelated to reparations. Hence there would be nothing for the United States to discuss at Lausanne.

Then a few days ago it transpired that the Hoover administration had consented to participate in a world economic conference at London for the consideration of the stabilization of commodity prices and other economic questions pertaining to the world-wide business depression.

Today for the first time it became clear that this London conference is to be merely the Lausanne conference with a different name and a different locale. The Lausanne conference is to consider revision of reparations, with America absent, adjourn, and reconvene at London to consider world economic questions with America present.

Originated with Mellon?

Just how the administration became involved in this commitment is not clear. According to the state department the invitation to the London economic conference came from the British embassy and was accepted in a communication to the British government dispatched through American Ambassador Mellon. But from London comes the version that the original suggestion was made by Mr. Mellon to Mr. MacDonald.

There are two theories current here. One is that the British government trapped the United States into the Lausanne reparations and war debts revision conference under another name. The other is that Mr. Hoover, who proposed to congress a reopening of the debt settlements together with Mr. Mellon, who is on record as intensely interested in modification of the terms of the British debt, conceived the idea of invoking a debt revision conference in the guise of an economic conference.

Making U. S. the Goat.

Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.], ordinarily a stanch administration supporter, was unable to stomach this new venture in foreign policy.

"There has been a good deal of maneuvering to get us to take part in an economic conference," said Senator Reed today. "Until this time we have held off. I can only express the personal hope that we will not take part. No matter how disguised, the purpose is to consider international debts. I feel that in case we take part in it the effort will be made to put upon us the cost of all concessions made to Germany, and if we stand rigidly against it will put us in an attitude of opposition. Inevitably we would then appear as the one obstacle to the settlement of problems of the world. I am not willing to be put into that position."

In consenting to participate in the conference Mr. Hoover had reason to believe he would be supported by the advocates of international action to increase the price of silver. The senate a year ago and the house committee on coinage recently proposed an international conference for this purpose.

MRS. EMILY CLARKE, OF CHICAGO FAMILY, ASKS RENO DIVORCE

Reno, Nev., June 2.—[Special.]—Mrs. Emily Ryerson Clarke, member of a prominent Chicago family, filed suit for divorce here today against George Hyde Clarke, owner of a large estate near Cooperstown, N. Y. They were married in 1915 and have seven children.

With her bill Mrs. Clarke filed copies of two settlements, one governing custody of the children, who range in age from 8 to 15, and the other settling certain properties upon her. The bill charges extreme cruelty.

Mrs. Clarke was the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ryerson of Chicago. Her father lost his life in the Titanic disaster in 1912. Her mother, Mrs. Emily Borie Ryerson, was remarried in 1927 to Forsythe Sherfesse, financial advisor to the Chinese government. She and Mr. Sherfesse now live in Washington, D. C.

CONFUSION GROWS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 2.—Confusion seems to be growing over arrangements for a world economic conference in which the initiative has been taken either by Great Britain or the United States.

Today a news agency dispatch from Washington, D. C., said that the United States will consent to attend the conference at Lausanne if the basis is broadened so as to include the questions of commodity prices, currency, and tariffs as well as debts and reparations.

Merely a Suggestion.

This caused astonishment here, for neither the foreign office nor the American embassy heard anything of such a decision and neither is it believed to be official. Speculation was that some official in Washington has approved the suggestion that the Lausanne conference be confined to war debts and reparations in which it it understood that America will not participate and that this parley will be succeeded immediately by an economic conference at some nearby place with the same delegates and official American observers.

Meantime speculation concerning the scope of the conference indicates that the British at any rate would like to raise the questions of currency, rehabilitation of silver, failure of the gold standard, and coördination of the central banks of the world and perhaps the establishment of a new world bank at an international conference.

BRITISH EXCLUDE IRISH IN TALKS ON OTTAWA PARLEY

Refuse to Make New Pact with Free State.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 2.—The position of the Irish Free State at the imperial economic conference at Ottawa in July was discussed in the house of commons today when J. H. Thomas, secretary for dominions, in answer to a query, said that the Irish Free State had been excluded from discussions which the government has been carrying on with the dominions.

J. H. THOMAS.
[Assoc. Press Photo.]

Thomas said that the reason the Free State has been excluded is because it has broken a previous agreement, and the British felt that no good purpose would be served in trying to make new agreements.

Takes Rap at Irish.

There also is no reason to believe that the Free State would attach any more importance to a treaty made at Ottawa than to one made at London, he said. Asked if this meant that the Free State were to be excluded from Ottawa, Thomas said that this had nothing to do with Britain. The Free State is attending on the invitation of the Canadian government, he pointed out, and "Britain is not concerned with legal or constitutional questions, but only with the simple moral obligation of both parties to a treaty to observe it faithfully."

Irish Senate Passes Bill.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, June 2.—The Irish Free State senate tonight passed the bill to abolish the parliamentary oath of allegiance to the British crown on second reading by a vote of 21 to 8.

Senator Vincent, in the debate preceding the vote, said that the Free State had a constitution under the treaty with England superior to the constitution of any of the dominions in the British commonwealth. He said the Free State should be guided by the spirit of the treaty rather than by the statute of Westminster.

Senator McLoughlan described the bill as "foolish and a future mockery and delusion." Senator Quirke, one of the younger members, defended the bill, declaring that "if you vote against it you will be disturbers of the public peace and have to take the consequences."

De Valera Closes Debate.

The bill now goes into the committee stage, where, it is expected, a vital part of the measure will be removed by amendments. President Eamon de Valera, closing the debate, repeated his old arguments as to why it is necessary to wipe out the oath of allegiance so that all persons can enter the dain eireann and to maintain internal peace.

He said his purpose is to permit persons to express what form of government they desire and what the relations with other nations should be. He said he did not know whether the people of the Free State would demand a republic, "but their status certainly is no less than that at present."

"Imperialism," he continued, "is the most egoistic form of nationalism. The Irish people are not the aggressors in this matter, but they have refused to be slaves and chattels. The treaty cost them 77 executions which can not be forgotten."

WIFE SHOT BY HUSBAND DIES.

Mrs. Millie Hooks, 32 years old, 5736 South State street, colored, died yesterday at the Dailey hospital. She was shot Wednesday by her husband, Austin, who then shot and killed himself.

Darrow to Be Guest of Bar at Luncheon Today

Attorney Clarence Darrow will be guest of honor at a luncheon to be given at 12:30 o'clock tomorrow by the Chicago Bar association, at 180 North La Salle street. Mr. Darrow, it was announced, is expected to talk about the workings of Anglo-Saxon laws in the Pacific islands, and particularly in Hawaii where he defended Lieut. Thomas Massie in his trial for murder.

PASCHEN INCOME TAX DEFENSE IS GIVEN SETBACK

U. S. Challenges Repudiation of Dummy Co.'s.

Chris Paschen's personal defense to the charge of income tax evasion suffered a setback late yesterday in Federal Judge Barnes' court when the government produced evidence contradicting his positive assertion that he had never been connected with the operations of three "dummy" companies, allegedly doing business for his benefit while he was city building commissioner.

SAM G. CLAWSON.

The incident came during Paschen's cross-examination by Assistant United States Attorney Sam Clawson. The defendant had completed almost three days of direct examination during which he denied he had evaded $114,000 of income taxes during 1927 and 1928.

Denies Taking Contracts.

"While building commissioner, did you ever take city work [in building cleaning and tuck pointing] under the names of L. Kuhn & Co., the Commonwealth Cleaning company, or the Commercial Building Cleaning company?" Clawson asked.

"I never did," declared Paschen.

"Do you remember a conversation you had with Special Agent Horace George of the intelligence unit, bureau of internal revenue, on April 23, 1930?"

Paschen said he remembered having the conversation, but not its date.

"Very well," said Clawson, producing a typewritten transcript. "Were you, during that conversation, asked this question: 'Did you ever operate as L. Kuhn & Co.?' and did you make this answer: 'L. Kuhn & Co. would take contracts for us. In my capacity as building commissioner it was improper to do the work'?"

"I don't remember," Paschen answered.

Using the same formula of reading the alleged questions and answers and asking Paschen if he had made the answers attributed to him, Clawson brought out that Paschen had said the Kuhn company business should have been shown on his books, and that Kuhn did his work under the Paschen company's supervision and used some of its equipment. He further said, according to that part of the transcript read by Clawson, that he may have operated as the Commonwealth or the Commercial companies.

To all questions about his conversation with George Paschen's "I don't remember," did not vary. Cassius Poust, his lawyer, objected that Clawson's method was not the proper foundation for impeachment, but was overruled by the court.

Paschen Loses Temper.

Clawson did not pursue this line of questioning further but asked why Paschen kept money under the name of "A. B. Anderson" in the Foreman National bank. Paschen repeated his explanation that, as building commissioner, he was subject to suits and that he wished to keep money on hand to operate his business, in case these suits tied up his bank accounts.

Paschen became angry when Clawson persisted in asking several times on what he based his belief that his income might be tied up, and as Clawson's voice rose with each repetition of the question, Paschen reddened, and he finally snapped: "Don't yell at me, I'll answer your question."

"Did you or did you not know if your account could be tied up?" repeated Clawson.

"Let's you and I understand this," began Paschen, his eyes blazing.

"Just a minute, Mr. Witness," Judge Barnes interrupted him sharply. "Answer the question. The court will take care of the order."

Clawson next brought out that Paschen kept between $150,000 and $200,000 in cash in a brown paper envelope in his trust account at the Foreman bank. Seeking testimony on the government's charge that Paschen had records of his company burned when he learned he was under investigation, Clawson asked about the records and Paschen replied that he had had them "cleared out from time to time." Paschen finished his testimony shortly before court adjourned.

DIES OF HEART DISEASE.

Mrs. Mary O'Neill, 59 years old, died yesterday of heart disease at 842 Ainslie street, where she was employed as housekeeper by John Callaghan.

2 GUNMEN ONCE FREED BY JUDGE AGAIN GO CLEAR

Jury Acquits Them After Defender's Testimony.

Carl Parker, 26 years old, nephew of former Judge Carl Sherwood of the South Dakota Supreme court, and Stanley Wilson, 20 years old, won an acquittal yesterday from a jury in the courtroom of Judge Philip L. Sullivan through testimony from Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach. They were charged with assault with intent to murder and rob Attorney Samuel S. Stoller, 6504 North Leavitt street.

Parker and Wilson, when arrested more than a year ago, confessed committing a series of drugstore robberies. In several of their crimes, the evidence showed, they fired shots at victims who did not obey their commands quickly enough. They pleaded guilty to one of the charges—not that of Stoller—before Judge Charles A. Williams, who sentenced them to prison.

The young men were in Joliet penitentiary for a few minutes, according to the records, but were hurried back to Chicago and subsequently placed on probation by Judge Williams. It was then disclosed that Circuit Judge Edward Shurtleff of Marengo had at the request of his friend, former Judge Sherwood, interceded in behalf of Parker.

When the Chicago crime commission learned of the court procedure by which the two defendants had been placed on probation a petition was filed before Chief Justice Harry Fisher of the Criminal court to have the probation order revoked and the men sentenced again.

Public Defender Bachrach, who is paid by the county, participated in the arrangement by which probation was granted in the first case. Yesterday he appeared as a witness for the defendants in the Stoller case and testified that Attorney Stoller, when he first made complaint, was not sure of the date of the robbery attempt. This occurred on May 5, 1931, in the Granada pharmacy at 2158 Devon avenue.

Although Assistant State's Attorney Leslie Curtis argued that the point was immaterial since there was no doubt that the robbery attempt occurred, the jurors felt, some of them said later, that if Attorney Stoller was not sure of the date he may also have been mistaken about his identification.

BULLET VOLLEY WOUNDS VICTIM ONLY IN THE LEG

Pistol bullets and shotgun charges, more than a dozen in all, were fired late last night into a stationary automobile at 69th street and Wentworth avenue. Although the gunmen were only a few feet away, the sole occupant of the car was struck only in the left leg.

He is Bruce Cram, 27 years old, 7514 Perry avenue. At the Englewood hospital, where the police took him, Cram said he was formerly employed by a legal firm at 228 North La Salle street as a collector, but that he had been out of work for a year. He denied that he was a racketeer, but the police said that he was a friend of William Brilliant, reported to have been shot in the south side beer wars more than a year ago.

Witnesses told the police that Cram had halted to buy a paper at the corner and that while he waited for a newsboy to hand it to him a second car stopped beside his. It was a small coupe. A man in the driver's seat fired with a pistol, and a second from the rumble seat with a shotgun. After the shooting the second car was driven rapidly eastward in 69th street.

Three Children Perish When Home Is Burned

Flagstaff, Ariz., June 2.—(AP)—Three young children burned to death today when fire destroyed their parents' home. They were Berta Rose, 5; Gladys Mae, 3, and Lynn Allen, 2, children of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Henson. A faulty flue was blamed.

NERVOUS BANDIT SHOOTS; IRATE PAIR SEIZE HIM

Two robbers walked last night into the soft drink parlor of Stanley Likritz at 2104 North Western avenue. They lined Likritz, his bartender, Fred Ring, and a lone patron, Allen Michalski of 1337 North Central avenue, against the bar.

One of the bandits guarded the trio with a pistol while the other went behind the counter to get the money from the till. Everything was moving along smoothly, with the victims making no resistance, until the first robber's trigger finger became itchy. For no reason at all, apparently, except that he was nervous, his pistol was discharged. A bullet struck Ring in the left leg.

This angered the saloon owner and the customer. Michalski seized a chair and hit the nervous gunman on the head with it. He fell, and Likritz seized the pistol. The robber was captured. He is Walter Cinciewa, 32 years old, 2533 Lindale avenue. At the Bridewell hospital it was said his skull was possibly fractured by Michalski's blow. The other robber escaped.

Ex-President Calles and Wife Stricken in Mexico

MEXICO CITY, June 2.—(AP)—It was learned today that Plutarco Elias Calles, former president of Mexico, and Señora Calles are both under the care of a doctor at the general's Santa Barbara hacienda, outside Mexico City. Señora Calles, it was said, is more seriously ill than her husband. The nature of their illness was not disclosed.

U. S. BUSINESS OPENS BARRAGE ON TAX EATERS

Leaders in Meeting Here Demand Drastic Cuts.

The dean then struck at the suicidal policies of governments in incurring debts. The doom of this system should have been foreseen, and was foreseen by many, long before the collapse arrived, Dr. Thompson declared.

The dean took a forthright slap at what he termed "fallacious economic doctrines," and he made it evident that he referred to the suggested five billion dollar bond issue for public construction, intended as a relief for unemployment.

"The thought that you can bring back or maintain prosperity by giving away purchasing power is sheer folly," Dr. Thompson said. "We are seemingly engulfed in an era of political and social nostrums. They won't work.

"When I find that agriculture, business, organized labor, educational forces, inland waterway proponents, veterans of the world war, welfare agencies—when I find that all these are ready to reduce their expenditures of public moneys, then I'm going to be greatly encouraged.

"I'm going to be even more greatly encouraged when some of our representatives down at Washington quit talking and take their relatives off the pay rolls.

His Plan for Revival.

"I have four suggestions for a return to better times, and they are:

"1. Balance all personal and public budgets.

"2. Stop spending what we haven't got to spend.

"3. Dig our toes in and fight as we never have before.

"4. Renew our faith in our own good strong right arm and learn to quit depending on the government to do everything for us."

EDITOR URGES ECONOMIES

Phil S. Hanna, editor of the Chicago Journal of Commerce, presented a series of specific economies which he urged upon the federal government. Mr. Hanna later was elected chairman of a subcommittee which was appointed to draft resolutions for consideration by the conference. It was indicated that the resolutions presented would approach the editor's demands for definite suggestions.

Mr. Hanna attacked the federal rate of 25 cents a mile for rural mail delivery, and said that if the government let contracts for this service instead of maintaining an antedated patronage system, a sum of $50,000,000 yearly could be saved. He urged that $200,000,000 be cut off the appropriations for the army and navy.

The expenditures of the federal farm board should be trimmed from $218,000,000 to $110,000,000, Mr. Hanna said, and he declared that the appropriation for disabled war veterans could be cut $300,000,000 without impairing the welfare of the veterans. A horizontal salary reduction for federal payrollers would save $130,000,000, Mr. Hanna said.

Asks Prohibition Cutting.

"I think we can cut something out of prohibition," Mr. Hanna said dryly, and the delegates applauded this suggestion enthusiastically.

"I would also urge the abolishment for a period of one year of the activities of every commission of the government which is not performing some function prescribed by the constitution of the United States."

Mr. Hanna outlined other suggested economies, and said the total saving in the items he proposed would approximate $900,000,000 annually.

CALL FOR LEADERSHIP

Mark Graves, director of the budget for the state of New York, hailed it as the duty of budget makers to assume leadership in the movement to curtail expenditures.

"The budget of every unit of government, from the federal government down to the smallest school district in this country," said Mr. Graves, "can, should and will be reduced without interfering with necessary services of government, if budget makers, spending officers and the public have the will, the courage, the determination—the guts, if you please—to do that which is imperative under present economic conditions.

"That public official must be callous indeed who fails to realize the demand and need for lower taxes. He is stupid if he does not know that business, industry, and agriculture are carrying a heavier tax load than they can safely bear.

Duty of Budget Maker.

"It is the duty of the budget maker to assume leadership in this movement. He must analyze the expenditures of his government—isolate the germ as it were—and ascertain where, how and why expenditures have increased. He must decide how and where they may be curtailed with the least harm or detriment to our social and economic structure.

"Having done this, he should acquaint the public with the facts and indicate the channels where savings may be effected without serious loss. It is his duty also to preach economy in government in season and out of season, and to insist that spending agencies conserve their appropriations disbursing them only for absolute essentials.

"That these measures are effective is evidenced by the fact that New York's budget this year is, excluding emergency unemployment relief appropriations, $36,000,000 less than last year's and, including such appropriations, $51,000,000 less than was appropriated in 1931.

Necessity for Saving.

"Spending officials must awaken to their responsibility in this matter. Drawing from a background of twenty-five years of public service as budget maker, as executive, as a tax administrator, I assert without mental reservation that every spending official, be his office large or small, can, if he has the will to economize, find methods of saving dollars.

"In this cooperative triangle, the public is an important factor. It is not sufficient that the people grumble and find fault; passionate oratory and the mere adoption of resolutions will not produce lower taxes. The people must inquire into the facts, insist that their public officials analyze and present the facts and then in a dispassionate manner analyze those facts and decide which services of government they wish discontinued and which they desire to have curtailed.

"Shotgun criticism will be ineffective. The rifle is the weapon to use in this kind of chase. We need to pick off the nonessentials and the frills and fancies which have become attached to the structure of government."

DELEGATES FROM 26 STATES

In his keynote address Chairman Rossetter called attention to the widespread interests represented at the conference. Delegates came from 26 states of the union, he said, from coast to coast, and from the northern to the southern borders.

"There is need at this time," Mr. Rossetter said, "for all citizens of this great country of ours to give serious consideration to the manifold problems which beset us in these troublesome days.

"Men have lost confidence and until that confidence is restored there can be no recovery in business."

Mr. Rossetter said it should take little imagination to agree that the budgets of our national, state, and local governments should be balanced.

"But in balancing the budget," he said, "I think we shall all agree that every effort should be made to reduce governmental expenditures rather than to increase revenues, thus giving some relief to the taxpayers, which is sorely needed.

Comparison with 1913 Taxes.

"In looking back to the pre-war year of 1913, we are amazed to find how comparatively little of our national income was expended for all taxes, federal, state and local. For in that year, we took out of every dollar of our national income only 6½ cents.

"The peak after the war was 16.7 cents.

"In the boom year 1928 it was 11.5 cents, but in 1931—after two years of depression—it jumped to 22.1 cents. Our national income for 1932, as estimated by various persons and agencies, will run anywhere from 30 to 45 billions of dollars. Splitting the difference between these two figures gives us 37½ billions.

"Our expenditures for all governments, it is estimated, will run anywhere from 13½ billions to 15½ billions. Calling it 14 billions and on a basis of 37½ billions' income, we shall take out of every income dollar in 1932 an average of 40 cents. Forty cents in 1932 as compared with 6½ cents in 1913, an increase of 515 per cent in less than 20 years.

"The natural query is: What causes these increasing and heavy expenditures? In casting about for an answer, let us look into the pay rolls, as only one of many avenues of approach.

11,000,000 on Public Pay Roll.

"We find that there are about 1,500,000 persons on the federal pay roll. For state, county, and local governments the total is somewhere between 7 and 10 millions. Conservative research estimates place the minimum total of public employés for all government subdivisions in the United States at 11 million persons, nearly one government employé out of every ten inhabitants.

"While living costs have declined from 20 to 35 per cent, there has been no decrease in the salaries of federal government employés and comparatively few reductions in those of state and local governments. Meanwhile the remaining 109 million persons in the United States have had their income quartered, halved, or done away with entirely.

Increase in Pay-Rollers.

"Just how many of these employés could be eliminated without injury to essential service would be difficult to answer, but at the rate at which people being supported by taxes are being added to the pay rolls and the rate at which the taxpayers are diminishing it will not be long before the public pay-rollers constitute the majority of our population."

"Many of our people feel that some of the activities of some of our ten regular departments could be eliminated or curtailed without any hurt to any one."

Mr. Rossetter called for a reduction of federal bureaus and commissions, for a scrutiny of the farm and shipping boards, for a reduction of the costs of aiding war veterans. He said the federal grants to states for highway, educational, and relief projects "are of doubtful value and are too paternalistic."

Nations Doomed by Taxes.

"From the beginning of civilization," Mr. Rossetter said, "nations have fallen because of unjust and unbearable taxation. Taxation was the basis of the French revolution; taxation caused our separation from the mother country. Taxation may yet destroy us.

"This is why it becomes necessary for groups of citizens such as we are, representative of every walk of life, agriculture, labor, business, and professional, to take appropriate action to overcome this menace to our common country."

Simpson Assails Congress for Billion Dollar Tax Bill

James Simpson, chairman of the board of Marshall Field & Co., who returned to Chicago yesterday from a trip to Africa and India, discussed the troubles of the world, which he declared are fundamentally due to the excessive cost of government.

Mr. Simpson assailed the billion dollar revenue bill adopted by the senate on Wednesday and said its enactment as law would "definitely retard recovery."

"The only good thing about it," he declared, "is that it proposes to balance the budget. But how? The great increase in income surtaxes cannot fail to drive private capital out of productive business into state and municipal tax exempt securities, which in turn will lead to further local extravagance, the end of which will be still further municipal bankruptcy."

Hunt in Africa and India.

Mr. Simpson left on March 5 and sailed from New York to Port Said. From there he proceeded to Cairo and then journeyed into central Africa. With his companions, "Jack" Simpson, his son, and Watson Armour, he hunted game in Tanganyika and bagged a wild buffalo, a rhinoceros, a gazelle and much small game. From Africa he went to India and hunted at Bhopal, where he killed a tiger and a markhor, an elusive wild mountain goat. The trophies of the hunt are being shipped to Chicago.

Mr. Simpson was the guest at Simla, India, of Viceroy Lord Willingdon, with whom he played tennis, and also of the maharajah of Kashmir and Jammu. He was being entertained by the nawab of Bhopal on May 18 when he received a cablegram asking him to return home on urgent business. By air, land and water he made the trip from the foot of the Himalayas to New York in fourteen days.

Assails Lack of Leadership.

Returning to a discussion of present conditions, Mr. Simpson deplored the lack of "courageous, intelligent leadership," and said that no substantial improvement could be brought about until "an awakening public consciousness compels our political leaders not only to recognize the necessity for the reduction of governmental expenditures but to act accordingly."

"The congress," he continued, "has failed miserably; first because its gesture at economies is a joke, and second because it missed the opportunity to broaden the tax base by the enactment of the manufacturers' sales tax."

Mr. Simpson said Mayor Cermak's efforts to reduce local expenses are commanding world-wide attention, even in the remotest corners of Africa and India, where Chicago is no longer known for Al Capone and other gangsters.

ASSAILS CONGRESS

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, encouraged the conference to wage a concerted and continued assault upon congress.

"We have the spectacle in Washington," he declared, "of six hundred panic stricken men trying to do the impossible. They realize that sums of money spent in previous years cannot be raised from the American people this year. But they are in the grip of political machines which will strive to exact the last drop of blood.

"Hence we find them crazily trying to create new sources of revenue which they must know are not collectible."

Col. McCormick said that in the boom times the rising costs of government did not seem to be imposing an unreasonable burden upon the taxpayers, whose earnings were sufficient to enable them to pay their tax bills.

"Tax Burden Too Heavy."

"But it was too heavy for the safety of the economic structure of our government," the publisher said. He told how values had begun to shrink even before the crash of the stock market, and the inevitable collapse which followed has brought public governments to the point where employés are unpaid and bond issues and other obligations are defaulted.

Public officials now seem to be guided by the thought, Col. McCormick said, "that some magical wealth is supposed to be in hiding somewhere, and if uncovered will be seized to meet pay rolls and bond issues."

Col. McCormick said it was dangerous to put on taxes which will further cripple industry, that this method will discourage any new enterprises.

RAPS SPENDING ORGY

Morris Edwards of Washington, D. C., representing the United States Chamber of Commerce, declared that the present tax condition all over the country has grown out of "the impulsive and heedless extension and expansion of public activities."

"Other causes," Mr. Edwards said, "lie in the extravagant dissipation of public credit through the issuance of bonds for unnecessary, unwise, and needlessly elaborate public works; the inefficient over-organization of local governments with its consequences of duplication of services and overhead costs, and the previous indifference of citizens and taxpayers to the manner in which their public affairs were being managed and their tax resources employed."

Hails Bond Reduction.

Mr. Edwards said that already a reduction in the issuance of public bonds has been noted, and he hailed this as the "first break in the debt dike."

"It is the beginning," he said, "that has to be made toward reducing the excessive proportion of state and local budgets required for debt service. The taxpayer is becoming interested in taxes. He is throwing off the apathy which had persisted long enough to make us suspect it might be permanent. Again he is alive and kicking."

Mr. Edwards noted that Wisconsin and Indiana have reduced their tax levies considerably, thus pointing the way for other states to follow.

CITES UNPAID TAXES

D. F. Kelly, president of The Fair and chairman of the advisory board of the committee on public expenditures of Chicago, explained to the conference the activities of his committee. He deplored the excessive number of separate taxing units in the county.

He also referred to the temporary effect which is exerted upon public bodies by citizens' committees such as his own, and he said that a permanent, definite program for bringing about material reductions in public expenditures and the elimination of waste is being worked out by the committee.

Mr. Kelly pointed out that less than $125,000,000 of the 1930 Cook county taxes, now in collection, has been paid, leaving an unpaid balance of $165,000,000. He criticized tax organizations which have urged citizens not to pay taxes, and said:

"Those who continue to refuse to pay taxes must accept full responsibility for what may happen if government breaks down. It cannot function without money. In any city of this country where well intentioned individuals are advocating the nonpayment of taxes, every effort should be made to stop them."

Tells of Tax Reductions.

Mr. Kelly said that some of the local officials, affiliated with both political parties, have worked loyally with his committee to reduce expenditures, with the result that the 1931 levies, now in preparation, will be reduced at least $50,000,000 below the 1930 assessment, and 1932 will see an additional reduction of $50,000,000 to $60,000,000.

He criticized the board of education, however, for adopting a $90,000,000 budget when its largest receipts, in the years 1927, 1928, and 1929, had averaged less than $60,000,000.

"We hear much nowadays from public officials who, in their sympathy for the taxpayers who are unable to pay their taxes, are announcing that something must be done," Mr. Kelly said. "The only thing that can and should and must be done is the immediate reduction in expenditures of all tax spending bodies and, so far as possible, placing them all on a cash basis.

"By that I mean to say, after provision has been made for the retirement of bonds, the payment of interest, and all charges that cannot be reduced, reducible expenses must be cut to a minimum."

DISCUSS TAX SITUATION

In the general discussion following the afternoon session, H. B. Cobban, president of the chamber of commerce of Miami, Okla., announced himself as from the state of fool legislation and clown legislators. He said chambers of commerce were in many instances responsible for increases in the tax load and should now undo some of what they have done.

Roy C. Osgood, vice president of the First National bank, said associations of commerce have sufficient means to bring reduction in governmental costs and should place their shoulders to the wheel. David A. Gaskill of Cleveland said the associations were handicapped by the fact their reforms would not come as suggestions of organizations of voters, which bear weight with politicians who have their eyes on the ballot box. He suggested voters' organizations to push tax reform.

Committees Are Chosen.

James P. Haynes, executive vice president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, was elected secretary of the conference. The committee on resolutions, nominated by Mr. Rossetter and approved by the conference, is headed by Edward E. Gore of Chicago. The subcommittee appointed to draft the resolutions is composed of Mr. Hanna, chairman; Stanley S. Holmes of Newark, N. J.; Prof. Elmore Peterson, Boulder, Col.; Bernard W. Snow, Chicago, and Fred Bryant, Lexington, Ky.

The other members of the resolutions committee are William Wilson, Sioux Falls, S. D.; T. W. Hetherton, Charleston, W. Va.; F. E. Gary, Greenville, S. C.; Oscar H. Morris, Milwaukee; R. W. Nelson, Cincinnati; David A. Gaskill, Cleveland; Hunter L. Gary, Kansas City, Mo.; E. Kelley Short, Owensboro, Ky.; E. S. Evans, Detroit; D. C. Horton, Des Moines; W. Howard Edwards, South Bend, Ind.; J. F. Ahlborn, Los Angeles, Cal.; D. A. Thomas, Birmingham, Ala.; John Stuart, Chicago; Harold C. Smith, Chicago; Felix M. McWhirter, Indianapolis; Dean Charles M. Thompson, Urbana, Ill.; A. J. Lauer, Auburn, N. Y.; William S. Elliott, Chicago, and Roy C. Osgood, Chicago.

Chance for Profits Needed for Revival, Economist Says

The necessity of restoring the prospects of profits for business men in order that they shall begin to spend again was stressed by Jacob Viner, professor of economics at the University of Chicago, in a talk yesterday before the Chicago Council of Foreign Relations at the Palmer house.

One of the factors retarding business recovery at the present time is that the decline in prices during the last two years has not been a balanced deflation, Prof. Viner said. Charges and prices of a rigid character have withstood the decline and are proving a thorn in the side of business now, he declared.

"Fixed Charges Too High."

Prof. Viner classed taxes, interest charges, rents, utility rates, and wages among the fixed charges which have not been deflated sufficiently in relation to other prices. With such an unbalanced price level, he stated, there is small prospect of a profit margin for business. The result is that business operations continue to be curtailed and will continue to do so until some adjustment is made.

Progress has been made in reducing some of the charges, particularly rents and wages, but the process has not been rapid enough, the speaker asserted.

The present pressure being brought against congress to balance the budget makes a reduction in taxes at present extremely remote, Prof. Viner stated. The popular opinion that the budget must be balanced during the present year makes it necessary for congress to increase taxes in order to give the appearance that the budget is being balanced, he added. Actually, there is little likelihood that the government's expenditures and revenue will strike a balance, but the public clamor for such a result probably will be satisfied, he declared.

Sees Need for More Paring.

He pointed out that to accomplish such an end further economies of 300 millions must be effected and new revenue provided to replace the payments from foreign nations which this country is anticipating on paper, at least. In addition, the present revenue anticipation figures are based on a hoped for business upturn which is not likely to develop under existing conditions, Prof. Viner said. Furthermore, he added, no provision is made for supplemental expenditures which are bound to be made during the next year and which are already being authorized in some instances.

That the utility industry will take any steps toward cutting rates is extremely unlikely, although such a course, Prof. Viner believes, would be to the interest of the industry itself, as well as having a beneficial influence on business generally.

Prof. Viner touched on the possibility that the United States might desert the gold standard. The claims advanced by some economists that adoption of a managed currency would automatically result in removal of onerous charges which now hamper business activity are by no means certain of fulfillment, he declared.

Argument for Gold Basis.

Such a move would give this country greater freedom of action in regulating its finances, but of itself could not accomplish the hoped for results, he added. One of the most potent arguments against deserting gold, he said, is that that standard has become a symbol of stability which cannot be lightly discarded.

Prof. Viner saw little possibility that further withdrawal of foreign balances from this country would force the nation off the gold standard. The maximum amount that can be withdrawn now is approximately $600,000,000, which is not sufficient in itself to break the gold standard here, he declared. Liquidation of American securities by foreigners, outside of Canada, does not appear to endanger the present monetary system, he continued.

Unless the United States deserts gold by choice, which appears unlikely, the only possibility of danger is a flight from the dollar by Americans themselves, Prof. Viner asserted.

CUBA ON BRINK OF BANKRUPTCY; ISSUES SCRIPT

Meeting Called to Cut Cost of Government.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, June 2.—The Cuban government today admitted its inability to meet obligations owed for the three months preceding the closing of the current fiscal year, June 30. Mario Ruiz Mesa, secretary of the treasury, also announced that the budget deficit exceeds $10,000,000.

President Machado immediately summoned a cabinet meeting for next Wednesday to consider drastic cuts in governmental expenditures which will affect all branches of the administration. He tentatively put the 1932-'33 budget at $40,000,000, of which $10,000,000 must be used to pay principal and interest on foreign loans.

Issue Paper Notes.

Ruiz Mesa announced that the government will immediately issue paper certificates of indebtedness to pay internal debts and also salaries for three months for 40,000 employés.

The certificates will be synonymous with paper money, although they cannot be used to meet loan payments, as these must be paid in gold. The certificates will bear 5 per cent annual interest. The government will redeem each year an amount to be specified by congress.

Acceptance Compulsory.

The president will request congress for the immediate sanction necessary for legislation enabling the certificate to be issued. Acceptance as payment for indebtedness will be made compulsory.

Ruiz Mesa feels pessimistic regarding Cuba's possibility for economic recovery, stating that custom house receipts and other internal revenues will show a considerable decrease in the next three months.

Undelivered Parcel Post Packages to Be Auctioned

An auction of more than a thousand packages of undelivered parcel post mail, consisting of shoes, clothing, dry goods, automobile parts, drugs, books, jewelry and other items, will be held next Tuesday and Wednesday at 1304 Indiana avenue, Postmaster Arthur C. Lueder announced yesterday. All packages will go to the highest bidder. The merchandise may be viewed Monday and catalogues obtained at that time. A deposit of 50 per cent in cash or certified check will be required on all bids.

NO DANGER OF WAR WITH RUSSIA, JAPAN INSISTS

Premier Attacks American Critics on Policy.

[Copyright: 1932: By the Associated Press.]

TOKIO, June 3 (Friday).—There is absolutely no danger of war between Japan and soviet Russia, Viscount Makoto Saito declared today in one of his first statements on foreign policy since he assumed the premiership last week and just prior to the opening of the diet, where he announced the government's policy.

"The Japanese government has stated repeatedly that no danger of war with the soviet union exists," said the premier, who also presides over the foreign office.

Criticizes U. S. Critics.

The viscount accused "a considerable and influential section of American and European opinion" of being too hasty in criticizing Japan's course in Manchuria and Shanghai, and hinted that possibilities might impel the Tokio government to withdraw from the league of nations.

"It is impossible to say," he asserted, "that withdrawal from the league might not under some circumstances be the right course for Japan to pursue, but I hope such circumstances may not arise. Japan will, of course, fulfill her pledges as a member so long as she remains one."

On the subject of Russian relations, the premier declared that "the attitude of the soviet government respecting affairs in Manchuria has been perfectly correct, and we only wish that the soviet government might see a way to repose such a further measure of confidence in Japan's sincerity as would enable the soviet union to discontinue all concentration of troops in the far east.

Calls Rumors Unfounded.

"This concentration, the Japanese government believes, is the real source of recent unfounded rumors of dissension between our two countries."

In his criticism of American and European critics, the premier said they had "to hastily come to an adverse opinion on Japanese proceedings in Manchuria and Shanghai without troubling to acquire full knowledge of the situation in either case."

"In particular," he continued, "many treated the question as though it were one of invasion of a regularly organized state by Japan.

"They ignored Chinese acts of violence against the Japanese railway in Manchuria and Japanese marines at Shanghai, and they envisaged Manchuria as part of the territories administered by the Nanking government.

"Not Act of Real Friend."

"These assumptions may be natural, but they are inaccurate and the whole Japanese people feel that to rush to embrace such suppositions and to brand Japan as aggressive in consequence was not the act of a real friend.

"Relation between Japan and other powers now are excellent as the position of Japan comes to be better understood by the world at large.

"It would seem that the only policy Japan should follow is to adhere unswervingly to her engagements to work for maintenance of the open door and equal opportunity throughout the world and to seek restoration of the world's economic balance by breaking down tariff walls now stifling trade.

"Japan's recognition of Manchoukuo must depend upon the usual conditions for recognition of a new state, including proven capacity to maintain itself as such. Annexation of Manchuria certainly is not desired nor does Japan wish to control in any illegitimate wate the policy of the Manchoukuo authorities. She desires only to obtain from them satisfaction of her rights and interests in the regions under their control.

"The question of sending more Japanese troops to Manchuria depends entirely upon circumstances. Here again it is obviously impossible to prophecy nor is it possible to say how long military operations there may be continued."

Japs Seize Manchuria City.

HARBIN, Manchuria, June 2.—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Teizo Hiraga's 28th brigade of the fourteenth Japanese division occupied Hailun, Manchuria, last night after smashing the opposition of Chinese loyalists. The occupation of Hailun finally cleared the important Hulan-Hailun railway line, which the Chinese have blocked for sometime. A portion of Maj. Gen. Hideo Hiramatsu's 27th brigade, also of the fourteenth division, began an attack on the walled city of Anta on the western portion of the Chinese Eastern railway.

SHANGHAI, June 3.—[Friday.]—C. H. Ahn, Corean nationalist, was taken to Corea yesterday by Japanese marines for trial on a charge of becoming a Chinese citizen without official Japanese consent. Ahn was arrested following the bombing in Hongkew park in April, which resulted in the deaths of Gen. Yoshinori Shirakawa and Dr. Kawabata, Japanese leader. Another Corean is accused of hurling the bomb.

Urbana, Ill., June 2.—One thousand couples are expected to participate in the two senior balls to be held on the University of Illinois campus Monday and Tuesday nights. The affair Monday night will be formal while the one on Tuesday night will be informal.

R. D. Jones, Belleville, Ill., is president of the senior class. He will lead the grand march with his guest, Miss Edna L. Kline, 7009 Calumet avenue, Chicago. W. G. Budinger, 1731 Walnut street, Wilmette, chairman of the senior ball committee, will assist in leading the grand march with his guest, Miss Irene Birong, 6547 North Maplewood avenue, Chicago. Miss Josephine A. Smith, 1048 Ardmore avenue, Chicago, is co-chairman of the senior ball committee.

NEW CHANCELLOR STICKS TO OLD FOREIGN POLICY

Von Papen Cabinet Takes Oath of Office.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 2.—Chancellor Franz von Papen's ministry, composed of seven "blue stockinged" aristocrats and two "commoners," was sworn in on the constiution of the German republic by President Paul von Hindenburg tonight.

In Prince Albert cutaways and with military decorations, including the iron cross on their coat lapels, they took the oath before Von Hindenburg, the former field marshal of the kaiser. The incoming chancellor then called the first meeting of the new government to draft a declaration of policy, to be read before the reichstag probably next Tuesday.

His Statement Is Significant.

Following the cabinet meeting Von Papen announced to the foreign press that there will be no change in foreign policy—a significant statement in view of the important reparations conference at Lausanne on June 16 and Germany's insistence that she can no longer pay.

Standing in the chancellory which once was Bismarck's, Von Papen explained that he was appointed by the president to "bring forth and gather all the potentialities of the soul-slumbering German nation because only if fortitude, spiritual and mental strength is brought into play will the German people be able to bear material and spiritual sacrifices which must be imposed on them.

"Germany's foreign policy will remain unchanged," he continued. "Like the previous government we want to safeguard Germany's national necessities and work for the restoration of business and close coöperation of all nations. The world's economic situation is so serious that all nations must jointly consider a means to avert the danger."

Cabinet Is Completed.

Chancellor von Papen completed his cabinet today by appointing Count Lutz Schwerin von Krosigk as finance minister and Franz Guertner as minister of justice. The appointments of Baron Constantin von Neurath as foreign minister and Dr. Franz Guertner, Bavarian Nationalist, as minister of justice were also confirmed today.

Dr. Hans Luther, president of the Reichsbank, conferred with Von Papen this afternoon and warned him of rumors that his government is planning inflation. Von Papen issued a communique pledging that his cabinet would try "no experiments whatever which might endanger German currency."

Paul Loebe, president of the reichstag, announced today that he will call a meeting as early as Saturday if Chancellor von Papen's government is ready to present its program by that time. The reichstag expects the ministry to ask for a vote of confidence. If this is refused, the reichstag is expected to be dissolved.

Nazies to Tolerate Cabinet.

Others believe that as soon as the declaration had been read the reichstag would be dissolved, thus thwarting a vote of nonconfidence.

Adolf Hitler's National Socialists announced today that they will tolerate the cabinet on the strength of "its promise to dissolve the reichstag."

Gen. Kurt von Schleicher, new minister of defense, in a statement said that he is "certain the new cabinet will last four years."

The cabinet is prepared to enforce a new budget through emergency decrees should it decide to dissolve parliament immediately.

Fifty-Five Hurt in Austrian Riot.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

VIENNA, June 2.—Serious fighting took place at Graz tonight between the Hitlerites and Socialists. The Hitlerites broke through a cordon of gendarmerie designed for their protection, to attack the Socialists. The gendarmerie made a charge with fixed bayonets, wounding five Hitlerites, two dangerously. The Hitlerites later clashed with the Socialists. Fifty persons were wounded.

AGENT SEEKING MODELS IS MITE TOO PERSONAL

Miss Marie Vaughn, 19 years old, 3208 Maypole avenue, and her roommate, Miss Dorothy Duvall, 18 years old, met Clarence Ross only a few days ago. Mr. Ross, a stylish brunette about 28 years old, said he lived at 722 South Oakley avenue and was the employing agent for artists who needed models. He would find the girls good paying positions, he promised.

Last night he called at their home and said he would first have to have them pose in the nude while he measured them to see how they compared with the Venus of Milo. While Miss Duvall engaged him in small talk, Miss Vaughn called the police. Detectives John Jacobs and William Tyrrell arrested Mr. Ross and seized his tape measure as evidence.

LIVES IN CELLAR WITH DOG AFTER WIFE SPURNS HIM

Jacob Matenko, 2633 West Monroe street, lived down cellar with the family police dog for three years before he decided that his wife, Anna, meant what she said when she told him she didn't want his company, he told Judge Harry B. Miller yesterday in the Superior court. Judge Miller granted him a divorce on grounds of cruelty.

The couple were married in 1904, Matenko testified, and lived happily until 1928. Then, he charged, his wife told him she was tired of him. She made him sleep in the basement with their police dog.

Twenty-eight tenants of a three story building at 1507 South Harding avenue were driven to the street early yesterday by fire which caused $5,000 damage.

MANIAC AT LARGE A YEAR, RETURNS AND IS CAUGHT

A homicidal maniac, at large a year since he was released through an error by a court clerk, after he had been sentenced to the Chester Asylum for the Criminal Insane, returned to his home at 1625 West Madison street, last night and was arrested.

The prisoner, Maurice O'Neil, was found guilty of assault with intent to kill in June, 1931, and ordered to the asylum as dangerously insane.

O'Neil's wife testified at the trial that he often attacked her with a hammer, and had once before been sentenced to an asylum for a hammer attack upon another woman.

Last night Desk Sergeant Henry Sheldon at the Warren avenue station was handed a scribbled note by a boy. The note read:

"Maurice back home. Come at once. Mrs. O'Neil."

Two squads under Sergt. Thomas Tuite seized O'Neil, who made no resistance.

O'Neil said he was bewildered when suddenly released from jail, after he had heard a jury find him guilty, and had bummed his way to California.

Any Member of Our Organization Who Cuts the Quality of Any Article of Merchandise for the Sake of Lowering Price is Disloyal to His Responsibility

We say this publicly, so that there may be no doubt in anyone's mind about this very important fundamental policy of our business.

The pressure exerted upon manufacturers to produce goods at lower and still lower prices has increased to a point where it is a menace to the standards of which this country has been so proud.

This advertisement serves notice that this company, for one, will not contribute to such deterioration.

We will continue, of course, to use our buying power to its full limit, consistently with fairness and ethical practice, in our endeavor to secure low prices, but we will not wittingly be a party to a buying contract under which the maintenance of our quality standards is impossible.

Buyers who build quality are the ones who progress in our organization. Those who do not are not permitted to remain.

by any one to coerce any other delegate to vote anything except his own free choice.

Opposes Unit Rule.

"We of Chicago are not seeking to control the Illinois delegation—we hope none of you here are. We desire to confer with you, to counsel together, but to be left free to vote as free men. If we had the unit rule I would be the first to vote to repeal it.

"The candidate for governor is one of Chicago's beloved citizens. Those of us who know him will stake our all on the statement that Henry Horner would not have sought the nomination for governor if he felt that he could not serve the entire state equally as well as he will serve the city of Chicago.

"Those who are trying to arouse sentiment against him because he was born, raised, and worked in Chicago are not our friends, my fellow Democrats. They are no more friends of the downstate Democrats than they are of the Chicagoans. They know they can find no ground upon which to attack the character of our candidate. And, therefore, they are trying to build up a straw man and to frighten you by slandering our great city. The only interest that Chicago will have in Gov. Horner will be to help him be the greatest governor this state has had. We shall want him to serve every part of the state with equal justice.

Not Dictating to a Governor.

"Our enemies charge that I will try to dominate Judge Horner when he is governor. Honestly, my friends, if I ever had a thought of dominating a governor of this state I would not have been for Henry Horner. I venture you will not find any one who knows him who will say anybody can manage Henry Horner. He will be the governor of this state, and, while I hope he will be helpful in carrying out the program of economy and efficiency that I have planned for the city, I shall refuse to accept additional responsibilities even if he should want to put them on my shoulders. I'm not looking for more responsibility. I have troubles enough running the city of Chicago.

"We are meeting, therefore, as friends. Let us stop thinking in sectional terms. Let us think of the problems of our state. Above all else, let us cast aside jealousy and suspicion and present to our common enemy such a united front that in the battle that is to be won next November not a single candidate, national, state, or local, named by the Democratic party shall be lost."

Defer Presidential Suggestions.

After this sort of keynoting by Mayor Cermak, with its suggestion that discussion of a second choice for President be deferred, that subject was not raised formally, but there was no doubt in the minds of the Chicagoans that downstate Illinois is strongly in favor of Gov. Roosevelt of New York.

Judge Horner, after expressing his appreciation for the support given him in the primary, echoed Mayor Cermak's assurance that he would be governor for the entire state. He urged all to forget any sectional rivalries in working for party victory in November.

LAWYER PLEADS WOMAN SOUGHT INSANITY RULING

Attorney Harvey T. Fletcher, who began action last Wednesday to have Mrs. Mary A. Cheeseman, a resident of the Hyde Park hotel, declared insane and a conservator appointed to protect her $200,000 estate, informed County Judge J. G. Van Keuren yesterday that Mrs. Cheeseman had authorized him to begin the action. Soon after the petition was filed, the attorney said, Mrs. Cheeseman changed her mind and retained other lawyers to fight the case.

The lawyer was called to the witness stand to testify in his own behalf. He told Judge Van Keuren that Mrs. Cheeseman had asked him to bring the petition into court after she had assigned property valued at $45,000 to her nephew, Albert J. Stevens of Joliet.

"After that transaction Mrs. Cheeseman tried to recover her property," the attorney said. "When her efforts failed she told me she needed some one to protect her estate and asked me to have a conservator appointed." Several alienists will take the witness stand today.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 2.—[Special.]—Financial contributions toward the work of the Y. M. C. A. will be reported by campaign workers tomorrow at 12:15 p. m. This is the last formal meeting of the group.

HIGH SCHOOL PIMPLES DON'T BELONG

High school days—boys' and girls'—are days of social contacts. Pimples are embarrassing to both. They are unwelcome visitors, but they need not stay. Apply Poslam every night and tell them good-bye. Social popularity and clear complexions go hand in hand. Get Poslam at any drug store, 50c.

Winners in Harmonica Contest

SENTENCED SO HE MAY BE BROUGHT FROM GERMANY

Ernest Levy was sentenced to one to ten years in the penitentiary yesterday to make possible his extradition from Cologne, Germany, where he was arrested recently. Levy fled shortly after his conviction for participation in the $100,000 jewel theft in the Glencoe home of Lawrence Stern, broker.

Assistant State's Attorney Euclid Taylor found that Levy must be under sentence before he could be returned, and Judge James J. Kelly passed sentence. Extradition papers were sent to Washington for signature by the President. Assistant State's Attorney A. C. De Witt will go to Cologne to bring back Levy when the preliminary steps are completed.

31 Finalists

Thirty-one finalists in the city-wide harmonica playing contest sponsored by the Chicago Boys' club gathered last evening in the club quarters at 1725 Orchard street and settled the championships. Marion Maday, 4959 South Wood street, was declared the junior winner; Frank Michelbach, 1879 Burling street, intermediate champion, and Robert Ballantine, 64 East Jackson boulevard, best of the senior contestants. More than 900 boys entered the preliminary tests conducted in different sections of the city.

MILK WAGON INJURES CHILD.

Thomas Randolph, 3 years old, was seriously injured yesterday by a milk wagon behind his home at 819 Dobson avenue, Evanston. The child was playing with the horse which started when the driver completed a delivery.

MANUFACTURERS GROUP PLANS OWN JOB INSURANCE

New York, June 3.—[Special.]—The first concrete step toward employment security taken by an industry as a whole was announced today with the adoption by the National Electrical Manufacturers' association of the unemployment insurance plan proposed by Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric company. About 200,000 workers may ultimately be affected.

The scheme is described as the first definite measure sanctioned by a body of manufacturers to meet the obligation of employers to provide unemployment protection for employés. Ignoring the dole, it recognizes the principle of mutuality, requiring both employers and employés to contribute to a common fund.

Includes All Employés of Year.

All employés who have served 12 months and whose full time salaries are not more than $2,500 a year are included in the scheme.

No employer may adopt the plan without the consent of at least 60 per cent of the workers affected. Every employé who falls under the provisions of the plan must contribute 1 per cent of his actual wage over a period of five years. Those whose earnings are less than half of normal are exempted. The company matches the contributions of its employés. Dues must be paid through six consecutive months before the worker is entitled to benefits.

Pay Jobless Half Wages.

Two unemployment conditions are recognized, normal and emergency. An emergency begins when payments from the fund exceed 2 per cent of the normal pay rate of all "participating employés."

Under normal conditions, a "participating employé," after two weeks of unemployment receives 50 per cent of his normal average earnings [but not more than $20 a week] for a period not exceeding ten weeks in any twelve consecutive months. Special provisions are made for part time employment.

NEPOTISM MAKES POLITICS HUM IN TALL CORN STATE

Brookhart's 5 Kin on U.S. Pay Roll Stressed.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Council Bluffs, Ia., June 2.—[Special.]—Nepotism is one of the highly stressed phases of Iowa's primary campaign. Charges that Senator Smith Wildman Brookhart has been a good provider for his family by landing five of its members on the federal pay roll are being vociferated over the prairie by Henry Field, the Shenandoah nurseryman and radio order merchant. Brookhart is retorting with an accusation that Field is "an agent of Wall street," while Field is countering with remarks about "the family pay roll racket." Others of the five Republicans who are running against Brookhart in Monday's primaries are echoing the nepotism matter, which is now regarded as looming larger in the Iowa public eye than other issues.

Mr. Field is exhibiting a list of the senator's relatives on the pay rolls. He sets them down as: Son, Smith Wildman Jr., senate secretary at $3,900; son, Charles, U. S. attaché at Bangkok, $5,400; daughter, Edith, senate clerk, $2,200; brother, Thomas, referee in bankruptcy, Iowa federal court, $2,500; brother, Odis E., bailiff in Iowa federal court, $750.

Family Gets $24,000 Yearly.

"Adding the senator's own salary," says Field, "the Brookhart family costs the United States about $24,000 a year. Of course, it would never do to let me horn in because the pay roll racket would not be so good. If I get to Washington I'll be the only Field on the pay roll."

The six Republican candidates today redoubled their efforts. A message from Senator William E. Borah, dwelling on the work of Brookhart in farm relief legislation, led Col. Glenn C. Haynes to unleash a few remarks on agriculture. The tax bill at Washington likewise was taken as text by other opponents of Brookhart.

"Some speak of the senator as the great farm reliever," said Col. Haynes. "When Mr. Brookhart went to Washington in March, 1925, corn sold for $1.03 a bushel, and in March, 1932, it sold for 29 cents. Wheat sold for $1.63 in 1925 and for 43 cents a bushel in 1932; oats for 45 cents in 1925 and 21 cents in 1932; beef cattle for $8 in 1925 and $4.80 in 1932; hogs for $12 in 1925 and $3.80 in 1932; butter fat for 39 cents in 1925 and 22 cents in 1932; eggs for 22 cents in 1925 and 8 cents in 1932.

Assails Brookhart.

"The longer Mr. Brookhart stays in Washington the lower Iowa's prices fall. Vital legislation in the senate concerns the senator but little, although the situation is the most important since civil war days."

George Cosson, former attorney general, attacked the gasoline tax which the senate placed in the new revenue bill, declaring it is another encroachment of federal power upon the states.

Replying to Brookhart's remark that "Cosson is the personally conducted candidate of Eugene Meyer and Wall street," Cosson said: "Not one letter has been sent me by Mr. Meyer or any of his followers during this campaign. Such statements are made by Brookhart to excuse his vote on Boulder dam, his misuse of the granting privilege, his absence from the senate during the important sessions to grab money on the lecture platform, his family pay roll, and his proposed appropriations of six billion dollars during this one session of congress, which would mean self-inflicted bankruptcy."

Cook, a Wet, in Race.

Louis H. Cook, former manager for Brookhart and in 1928 a Hoover manager in Wisconsin, who as a wet candidate is indorsed by the Crusaders, militant anti-prohibitionists, came out with a blast against the hypocrisy, disrespect for law, the growth of drinking, and of organized crime under the noble experiment.

"I am the only one of the Republican candidates for senator," said Mr. Cook, "who has had the guts to admit that the 18th amendment is a failure."

Brookhart, Cosson, and Field have just been indorsed by the Anti-Saloon league.

All five of the Democratic candidates are on the black list of the league "as not satisfactory." Nearly all of them have been approved by the Crusaders for their liberal stand.

SUED FOR $100,000

HELEN HAYES.

Helen Hayes, actress wife of Charles MacArthur, playwright, author and former Chicago newspaper man, was revealed yesterday as defendant in a $100,000 damage suit brought in the Circuit court by Mrs. Carol Frink MacArthur, a newspaper movie critic and MacArthur's first wife. It is reported the declaration will charge alienation of affections. Gerald T. Wiley is attorney for Mrs. Carol MacArthur.

Miss Hayes married MacArthur in New York on Aug. 17, 1928, two years after he was divorced by his first wife immediately after Judge William J. Lindsay dismissed a new bill which she had filed in an effort to have the decree set aside. The present suit was suppressed for five days to allow Attorney Wiley to obtain service upon Miss Hayes, who was appearing in "The Good Fairy," which closed here last Saturday night. She was served with notice of the suit as she boarded a train bound for Montreal.

LAWYERS CLASH AND CHARGES FLY AT TILTON TRIAL

CRIMINAL COURT.

Robert Boyd and Sidney Boyd, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years each in the penitentiary; Anton Novak, Walter Wilks, Harry Anghinbaug, and Joseph Nazone, larceny, sentenced to 1 year each in Pontiac reformatory; Fred Shaia, George Shaia, Robert Clawson, and John Durling, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 10 years each in the penitentiary by Judge Rudolph Desort.

Emil Mach, incest, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge George Fred Bush.

A verbal tilt between opposing counsel in Criminal court yesterday enlivened the trial of Old Doc Lester Tilton and two others charged with conspiracy to violate the medical practice act.

The clash occurred when Judge Rudolph Desort, learning of the defense plan to summon forty additional witnesses to testify concerning Tilton's cancer remedy, called a conference to discuss the feasibility of night sessions.

"I object to night sessions," said Prosecutor Charles A. Bellows. "I don't mind telling you that 90 per cent of the witnesses testifying here to cancer cures have committed pure perjury. We need our evenings to investigate their stories."

"Do you wish to impute that I have suborned perjury?" demanded Defense Attorney Stuart B. Krohn.

"If your conscience is clear that's all that's necessary," Bellows retorted. "Even now," he continued, "we should be getting out a bench warrant for the arrest of one perjuring defense witness."

Before the session closed the defendants, Tilton, Harry de Joannis, and Dr. Joseph Duffy, got into the record the testimony of twelve elderly men, mostly Iowa farmers and tradesmen, who swore that the Tilton remedies cured them of cancer. Tilton resides and formerly practiced his cure at Clinton, Ia.

Witnesses testified that the Tilton medicines extracted from their bodies organisms in the shape of a twenty-five cent piece, an ice cream cone, and a lead pencil. One witness claimed a cure from blood poisoning. Most of the witnesses said they had not consulted licensed physicians at any time.

'KINGFISH' LONG ASKED TO LEAVE HIS LOUISIANA!

House Resolution Calls Him Meddler.

New Orleans, La., June 2.—[Special.]—Louisiana's self-styled "Kingfish," Senator Huey P. Long, was asked in two resolutions in the house of representatives today to leave Louisiana at once and return to his duties in Washington. One of the resolutions, introduced by Representative Malcolm Dougherty, reads: "Whereas, The Hon. Huey P. Long has been elected to represent the state of Louisiana in the senate of the United States, and, Whereas, Senator Huey P. Long has absented himself from his post of duty, and,

HUEY P. LONG.

"Whereas, His continued presence about the legislature of Louisiana lobbying and meddling in legislative matters is a disturbing influence and hampering the orderly procedure of the legislature and the governor of the state in the proper discharge of their respective duties, therefore, be it

"Resolved, by the house of representatives, That we protest against the unwarranted, unnecessary officious intermeddling of Senator Huey P. Long and respectfully request him to report to Washington and discharge the duties incumbent upon him as United States senator from Louisiana."

"Kingfish" Unperturbed.

The other resolution, introduced by Representative Peyton of Shreveport, simply calls upon the senator to return to Washington and perform his duties there.

The "Kingfish" was not in the least perturbed by the resolutions, which the house refused to consider immediately, and by a vote of 87 to 16 postponed action on them until tomorrow.

All over Louisiana comment is general over Senator Long's domination of the legislature and Gov. O. K. Allen.

Gov. Allen Heeds His Every Wish.

At a hearing before the ways and means committee Long asked for copies of several bills. The chairman said that they were not in his possession. Long turned to Gov. Allen, who was seated near by, and shouted:

"Go down and see the clerk of the house and get those bills." Allen went—and soon hot footed back, placing the desired papers in the hands of the "Kingfish."

KIRKLAND TO SEEK PAROLE NEXT THURSDAY

Virgil Kirkland, found guilty last year of assault with intent to rape Arlene Draves, who died as a result of the attack, will appear before the parole board at the Indiana state reformatory, Pendleton, Ind., on June 9 and ask for a release on parole. Kirkland was sentenced to serve one to ten years and has just completed the first year of his sentence.

Although Kirkland's father and mother will ask the parole board to release their son, members of the board have indicated such action is unlikely at this time. Prosecutor Robert G. Estill of Gary will oppose the parole. Prosecutor Estill also announced that David Thompson and Paul Barton, who were charged with joining in the attack upon the girl, will be tried in September on charges of assault to commit rape.

421 MIDSHIPMEN GIVEN DIPLOMAS AT U. S. ACADEMY

Annapolis, Md., June 2.—(AP)—Before their admiring relatives and best girls, 421 midshipmen of the Naval academy today received diplomas from Secretary of the Navy Adams.

As their names were called, each middy stepped forward from the single file ranks and was handed his diploma by the secretary. Clad in their white uniforms for the first time, the graduates formed a white splotch against the rest of the regiment clad in blue and gold dress uniforms.

AUDIT TELLS HOW TRIBUNE CHARITY HELPS OUT NEEDY

Shows Increased Burdens Carried in 1931.

An adjoining financial statement tells in dollars and cents the story of THE TRIBUNE charities for the year ended last Dec. 31. But a tabulation cannot reveal the explorations into the field of human interest that lurk behind the dollar marks and odd cents in that total disbursement for the year—$146,909.75.

The auditors' report just prepared by Price, Waterhouse & Co., contains material for many stories of TRIBUNE charity. Each would tell of comfort brought to the needy, of folk saved from hunger and cold and illness, of new hope in a dark winter of unemployment.

Aid 289 Needy Families.

To the Good Fellow Jr. fund goes the recognition as the charity of widest activity. The Good Fellow Juniors were the big brothers and big sisters who provided the necessities of life during the cold winter months of 1930-'31 to 289 needy families. During 1931 a total of $100,913.75 was disbursed to these families from the Good Fellow Jr. fund through recognized charitable agencies.

Heading the tabulation is "hospital fund," with the notation that $10,000 was disbursed during the year. This is the Camp Algonquin fund, which during the summer of last year sent nearly 2,000 mothers and children from the most congested districts of Chicago to Camp Algonquin for free vacations. This camp is 45 miles northwest of the city on the Fox river and is administered by the United Charities of Chicago. Part of the maintenance fund was provided by the gifts of TRIBUNE readers. One section of this camp, directed by dieticians and nurses, brought 100 undernourished children back to health.

$7,100 Spent by Ice Fund.

THE TRIBUNE ice fund, which is linked with the camp fund, sends free ice to impoverished homes during the hot summer months. The Ice fund last summer carried the heaviest load in its history, expending $7,100, most of which was sent to the fund by TRIBUNE readers.

In the disbursement column it will be noted that $28,330.50 was expended during 1931 in the Hungry School Children's fund. This is THE TRIBUNE'S most recent charity and one of the most worthy of them all. The receipts from the time the fund was started last October up to last Wednesday totaled $48,084.21, all but a few hundred dollars having been expended.

The Hungry School Children's fund since its inception has provided hot noonday lunches for 10,000 children of needy families, who are students in the public schools. It will continue to do so until the school term is ended this month. The fund is governed by a citizens' committee and is administered through Miss Frances L. Swain, head of the household arts department of the board of education.

A department that works quietly every day of the year is Sally Joy Brown's "Friend in Need" department. Clothing, bedding, furniture, crutches, radio sets, and many small services that mean a great deal to the recipients are provided through Miss Brown, most of them from generous donors.

Other Charitable Works.

There are other TRIBUNE charities whose services to the needy are not recorded in the auditor's report. For instance, the Good Fellow Seniors last Christmas carried cheer to more than 2,000 families, delivering in person baskets of food, clothing, and toys.

The Golden Gloves fund, the proceeds from the anual Golden Gloves tournaments conducted by THE TRIBUNE sports department, has already transferred $5,000 of its receipts to the Hungry School Children's fund.

In a letter to THE TRIBUNE, dated May 17, Price, Waterhouse & Co. said: "The funds received during the year, as shown by the cash book, were compared with deposits reported on the bank statements and found to be in agreement therewith."

KINGSFORD-SMITH MADE A KNIGHT BY KING GEORGE

British Ruler Issues Birthday Honors.

[Copyright; 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, June 2.—Charles Kingsford-Smith, the Australian who flew the Pacific and Atlantic oceans, received a knighthood in the list of the King George will be 67 years old tomorrow.

The honor was awarded to him "for services to aviation in the commonwealth of Australia." With "Sir" prefixed to his name he joins Sir Arthur Whitten Brown, Sir Alan Cobham and other outstanding British flyers whose achievements have been recognized by their king.

Six new peers were created, including Henry N. Gladstone, third son of the great Liberal statesman, and Sir Frederick William Lewis, chairman of the Furness Withy Steamship company. Among the new baronets is Maj. Gen. Sir Walter Joseph Maxwell Scott, great-great-grandson of Sir Walter Scott.

Poet Is Honored.

Present day literature was recognized by the appointments of Laurence Binyon, poet, and E. V. Lucas, literateur and publisher, to the order of Companions of Honor.

Raymond Unwin, well known in England and the United States as an architect and town planner, was knighted for his tireless advocacy of regional planning. Robert Henry Davis was knighted as the inventor of the Davis submarine escape apparatus which has saved many lives in undersea tragedies.

Other new knights include Robert Ludwig Mond, president of the Faraday society and son of the late Lord Melchet; Thomas M. Ainscough, the British government's trade commissioner in India and Ceylon; Macpherson Robertson, Australian candy manufacturer, who financed Sir Douglas Mawson's recent anarctic expeditions; Even Charteris, chairman of the trustees of the National Portrait gallery; Alexander Mackintosh, journalist, who for half a century has covered parliamentary debates for British newspapers, and Alfred Henry Watson, editor of the important Indian newspaper, the Calcutta Statesman.

Duke of York Promoted.

The list involves dizzy promotions for the duke of York, the king's second son, who becomes a real admiral, major general, and air vice marshal on the same day.

Among the comparatively few women on the long list is Lady Baden-Powell, wife of the Boy Scouts founder, who becomes a dame of the Grand Cross Order of the British Empire "for services to the Girl Guide movement."

3 Pigtail Monkey Babies Increase Zoo's Population

The monkey population of the Lincoln park zoo has increased by three baby pigtail macaques during the last two months, it was revealed yesterday by H. Otto Weege, superintendent.

PICK JUDGE HORNER TO DELIVER ORATION AT FLAG DAY FETE

Judge Henry Horner has been selected to deliver the Flag day oration at the exercises to be held on Sunday, June 12, in Grant park, it was announced yesterday by Albert J. Horan, chairman of the arrangements committee.

Maj. Hamlet C. Ridgeway will be grand marshal of the parade which will precede the ceremony. More than fifty American Legion posts and other patriotic organizations will march, including the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Polish League of American War Veterans, and the Polish Falcons. Maj. Ridgeway said. Miss Alma Clausen will sing the "Star Spangled Banner" during a pageant depicting the history of the flag. The exercises are under the auspices of the Chicago lodge of Elks.

MOTHER SAVES CHILDREN, BUT IS FATALLY HURT

Mrs. Edith Kender, 38 years old, the mother of eleven children, who has been working a farm on the outskirts of Hammond, Ind., while her husband holds a job in Whiting, died yesterday as a result of injuries incurred in an accident in which she saved two of her children from possible death.

Mrs. Kender, who lived at 1132 Black Oak road, Hammond, had been on the farm on Wednesday with her eldest son, Albert, 18 years old, and her two twin children, Clifford and Luella, 4 years old. She was holding the twins in her arms, riding on a tractor on the way back to the home when the machine struck a boulder and tilted to one side.

Mrs. Kender tossed the small children to the side of the road unharmed, but was herself struck by a projection on the frame of the tractor and suffered injuries from which she died yesterday morning in St. Catherine's hospital, East Chicago.

Judge Raps Holdup Victim Who Repudiates Charge

Judge J. William Brooks yesterday denounced Joseph Ludtke, a laundry driver, for the repudiation in court of his identification of John Maily, 20 years old, 1160 Cambridge avenue, as a robber. "The next time you are held up," Judge Brooks told Ludtke, "I hope the gun goes off." Ludtke had identified Maily as the man who took $50 from him on May 14. In court he said that he had signed a complaint against the wrong man. Maily was released.

3 BROTHERS DIE IN RANCH FIRE.

Kennewick, Wash., June 2.—(AP)—Three brothers, Donald Franklin, 23; Leroy, 14, and La Grande, 11, were burned to death early today when fire destroyed a ranch home in the isolated Hose Haven district.

FIFTH U. S. LAND BANK IS PLACED IN RECEIVERSHIP

St. Louis Institution Hit by Federal Policy.

BY PAUL POTTER.

The fifth land bank in the group of forty-eight joint stock land banks under the supervision of the United States treasury was placed in receivership yesterday. By this action thousands of farmers in Illinois and Missouri faced loss of farms, all because of the government's policy to foreclose land bank mortgages as rapidly as possible.

The institution in receivership is the St. Louis Joint Land bank. S. L. Cantley, retiring state finance commissioner of Missouri, was named receiver by the federal farm loan board in Washington. The St. Louis bank was forced to suspend operations through default on bonds totaling more than $18,000,000.

The St. Louis bank, part of the two billion dollar farm land financing inaugurated by congress in 1916, was organized in 1922. A few years ago it purchased the assets and liabilities of the Southern Illinois Joint Stock Land bank of Greenfield, Ill., and the Southeast Missouri Land bank of St. Louis, spreading its loaning territory into northern Arkansas and western Kentucky.

Farmers Fail to Pay.

Failure of farmers to meet mortgage interest payments forced the receivership, according to a statement by the farm loan board. A recent bank statement showed that of $18,124,000 in original loans and investments $2,225,000 were under foreclosure, $4,180,200 in default, and $946,700 in process of foreclosure. Payments were being received on but $8,530,000 of the total loans.

The St. Louis bank went into receivership just ten years after the nation was urged by government officials to invest in land bank bonds and stock, with the promise of security through federal supervision. It follows the receivership for the Southern Minnesota Joint Stock Land bank, which ceased business May 1. Land banks in Milwaukee, Cincinnati, and Kansas City previously were closed by the farm loan board, bondholders obtaining 55 to 63 cents on the dollar invested.

Fear Loss of Investments.

Owners of stock in the joint stock land banks, many of them in Chicago, yesterday foresaw not only total loss of their investments of $125 to $175 per share, but court action to force them to pay an added $100 per share under a double liability clause provided in the farm loan act.

The bonds and stock of these banks had been recommended for investment by the late President Wilson and by federal treasury officials, who stressed the point of governmental supervision, the stockholders pointed out. Literature used by banks and commission houses in selling these "quasi-government securities" were approved by the farm loan board, and bore statements of land bank presidents promising in 1922 "continued earnings of not less than 12 per cent."

All loans, the investors were assured, "had been approved by a government expert" and the loan made on "terms prescribed by the government."

The foreclosed farms now are selling at 40 to 50 per cent of the mortgaged loan, which was but 50 per cent of the appraisal of the "government experts." St. Louis Land bank bonds yesterday were quoted at $11 to $14 per $100 bond.

Garnishee $1,500,000 Year Income of John B. Ryan

New York, June 2.—[Special.]—An income of nearly $1,500,000 a year, received by John Barry Ryan, son of the late Thomas Fortune Ryan, was subjected today to a 10 per cent garnishee until a judgment of $75,005.24, obtained by Tiffany & Co., is satisfied, according to a decision by Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Churchill. Mr. Ryan's income is derived from two trust funds left by his father. Tiffany & Co. said the trustees are scheduled to pay Mr. Ryan a $30,010 installment of his income tomorrow. Mr. Ryan's bill comprised 330 articles purchased last year.

DR. POLING, DRY, FOR VOTE TEST ON PROHIBITION

Resigns Post as Chairman of Anti-Wet Forces.

New York, June 2.—[Special.]—Dr. Daniel A. Poling announced today his resignation as chairman of the allied forces for prohibition, and in so doing stated he would welcome a test of the prohibition question.

DR. D. A. POLING. [Acme Photo.]

Fred A. Victor, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league of New York and one of the dominant members of that organization, took direct issue with Dr. Poling by declaring that his organization would oppose any member of either branch of congress declaring in favor of reaubmission of the prohibition question.

"Must Meet Challenge."

Dr. Poling distributed a prepared statement, in which, among other things, he said:

"Any plank dealing with the 18th amendment which does not first declare for the enforcement of law and for loyalty to the constitution would be entirely inadequate. Lawlessness has challenged our civilization. America must meet that challenge or be destroyed. The advocates of modification or repeal should not ask for a plank which clouds the major issue.

"Let the platform recognize an honest difference of opinion on the 18th amendment. Let the platform bring forward the constitutional procedure already provided for the expression of the people's will.

"As for the opposition, this is our challenge: You are against the 18th amendment. What do you want? State your alternative. We shall lay no obstacle in your way to bring it constitutionally to the people. Should you have the votes to win you will win—win as we won."

Church May Back Dry Test.

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 2.—[Special.]—Churches of the Pittsburgh presbytery will consider a suggestion on a vote of its membership on its opinion of a prohibition referendum as a result of Col. Samuel Harden Church's declaration that he was informed, and believed, that at least 75 per cent of the church membership does not agree with the stand against a referendum taken by the Presbyterian general assembly.

After the recent general assembly in Denver went on record as opposed to a referendum on repeal of the eighteenth amendment Col. Church, president of Carnegie institute and a member of Shadyside Presbyterian church, telegraphed Moderator Charles Kerr asking that the action be rescinded on the ground that it was taken without the consent or approval of any congregation.

MAJ. BEALS GIVEN U. S. HERO AWARD AFTER 33 YEARS

Maj. Frank L. Beals, supervisor of physical education and military training in Chicago high schools, has been awarded a Purple Heart, by order of the secretary of war, for bravery under fire in the Spanish-American war, it was revealed yesterday. The citation of Maj. Beals, who was then a sergeant in the signal corps, said that the award was made for "coolness and bravery in making repairs while under heavy fire during severe fighting near Imus, Philippine islands, on Oct. 2, 1899." Maj. Beals was wounded while repairing a gun.

The Purple Heart was established by George Washington in 1782 as an award for meritorious service. It fell into disuse but was revived recently by the war department.

U.S. Acts to Collect $69,573 Tax from John B. De Voney

An income tax lien against John B. DeVoney, wealthy realty dealer with offices at 118 North Clark street, was filed in the United States District court yesterday. The government seeks to collect $69,573 in back taxes for 1926, 1927 and 1928, plus fines and interest. DeVoney in 1922 was the unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic nomination for mayor.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste, and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE RECEIVERSHIP RACKET.

The operating cost of the average apartment in receivership runs from $10 to $20 a room above normal costs under good management. At the same time the revenue from rentals is from 10 to 20 per cent below average. The figures are those of Mr. Arthur Kruggel, chairman of the board of governors of the renting and management division of the Chicago Real Estate board.

Mr. Kruggel observes that these high costs and low revenues combine to injure the interests of bondholders and equity owners. And the injury does not end there. When apartments in a building in receivership are rented at less than a fair market value for the space, owners of other buildings which are not in receivership are hurried along the road to insolvency.

Mr. Kruggel suggests that some of the losses might be avoided if a committee were formed of competent building managers and maintenance men. This committee could be given standing by the chancellors in whose courts the foreclosure proceedings are pending and could be intrusted with general supervision of all bills for supplies and services and perhaps of rental schedules as well. Mr. Kruggel thinks that such a committee could save a great deal of money for all concerned and incidentally speed the processes of the courts, which now are hampered by a mass of routine requests and orders which the committee could handle for the judges.

There is nothing wrong with Mr. Kruggel's plan except that it probably will not be put into effect. Everything which he wishes his committee to do should be done and would be done if the majority of judges in whose courts receivership proceedings are pending wanted them to be handled economically and expeditiously. If the judges were genuinely concerned to safeguard the interests of those who invested their money in real estate many of the losses suffered at present because receiverships have been regarded as a form of political patronage would have been avoided.

Every judge sitting in chancery in Chicago could obtain in half an hour a list competent corporations and individuals who might serve as receivers, and if appointed would save hundreds of thousands of dollars for investors. If competent management has not been obtained it is only because some judges and their political sponsors don't want it. They prefer to use the receiverships as a means of obtaining political revenue and putting ward heelers to work as hotel clerks, elevator boys, and janitors.

Mr. Kruggel's committee might have some value in shaming the judges into making use of its services, but the real remedy for the abuse is in the hands of the bar association. Fortunately, the association seems to be aware of its responsibility and is pushing its investigation of the receivership racket. It is to be hoped that within a few weeks the association will be able to present an accurate statement of the facts regarding receivership abuses and to lay down a simple and unambiguous set of rules to govern judges and lawyers in these matters with disbarment as a penalty for violation. The first rule should provide a return to the traditional method of handling receiverships in this jurisdiction: when the litigants are agreed upon a receiver, the judge must appoint him unless the court has some sound reason for refusing to do so. Nine-tenths of the abuses would never have occurred if that rule had been adhered to steadfastly.

REVERSAL IN GERMANY.

The fall of the Bruening government in spite of its recent victory at the polls and a still more recent vote of confidence in the reichstag must have grave consequences in the international situation. What these are to be European knowledge and experience are better able to foresee than we in America can, but it can hardly be doubted that it reduces the hope of a productive conference at Lausanne, which was not strong before, to nil. The new French government, in fact, was not ready to enter that conference with an assured program, and a German government either of the announced personnel or under Hitler is likely to be ready only to follow a course which would make agreement more difficult if not impossible. In any case, postponement of the conference seems the expedient course, and this means more uncertainty in Europe and further delay of the revival which we are told depends upon settlement of reparations and war debts.

It is certain, at any rate, that this sudden shift of power in Germany will not increase such disposition as exists in the United States to enter a conference which, while it might purport to be actuated by considerations of a common relief, will now include another element of aggressive, not to say pugnacious, nationalism. Herr Bruening had shown a reliable disposition to peace and accommodation, and this, we believe, as much as his drastic internal policies, has been responsible for his defeat. Either the Prussian baronage or Herr Hitler and the class or classes his government will speak for give little encouragement to us in America to expect that any concessions, politically practicable, on the part of the United States would be beneficial to us or even in the long run to Europe. The American people would not be unreasonable or unwilling to make fair contribution to international accord and the revival depending upon it, but there is no possible chance of our making concessions which a belligerent reaction in Germany would make futile.

It is true Herr Hitler has tried of late to conciliate the fear which his bellicose utterances aroused and it is true that radicalism in office is moderated in most cases by responsibility. But until the new government has clearly disclosed its temper and actual purposes the postponement of serious consideration of European amelioration seems inevitable. In the United States at least our part, even more clearly than ever, is to wait for developments.

Meanwhile, Herr Bruening retires with the respect of American opinion and its regret that his statesmanly moderation has been at least temporarily and at so critical a time removed from the situation.

THE SPECIAL GRAND JURY.

A special grand jury, under present plans, is to be summoned on June 7 and instructed in its duties by Judge Fisher as chief justice of the Criminal court. The special jury is supposed to inquire into two matters: the handling of receiverships in the Circuit and Superior courts of the county and certain alleged acts of violence in the recent primary campaign. It has been intimated that the second matter will be expanded to include the whole field of the relations of crime to politics.

Important as these subjects are, there is ample reason to regard the whole proceeding as dubious. Mr. Swanson had disclosed alleged irregularities in the conduct of the receiverships in the courts of his principal Republican opponent for the state's attorneyship, Judge Feinberg, and some other judges. As these allegations were made by the state's attorney himself he ought to be well qualified to press them before the regular grand jury if he thinks that indictments are in order.

As a matter of fact, there is considerable room to doubt whether the offenses charged are offenses against the criminal law at all. They would seem, rather, to be offenses against the proprieties of judicial conduct and the rules of decent behavior by members of the bar. The Chicago Bar association is prosecuting its own inquiry into these matters with a view to disbarring the offenders if that course is warranted. There is no reason as yet, at least, to question the determination of the bar to see the inquiry through; and until the bar association has fallen down on its job no reason to summon a special grand jury for an investigation of receiverships.

So far as an investigation of the relations of crime to politics is concerned, a special grand jury might accomplish something if it had any new and important material to work on, but no such material appears to be available and nothing of consequence was alleged in the petition for a special jury. Inquiries started under far more favorable circumstances in the past have accomplished little. Unless Judge Fisher has a great many more leads than have been made public, his special grand jury is not likely to get anywhere, though the advantage to the Democrats of having a special jury in session during a political campaign might be considerable.

A special grand jury is one of the principal defenses of the people against official corruption, but it is a 16-inch gun, cumbersome, costly to fire, and of little value unless the target is acre big. Against such targets as the corruption in the sanitary district the special grand jury can be enormously effective. But Judge Fisher's jury, so far as any one can tell today, will have no particular target to shoot at and little information, even, as to the general direction in which the target lies. The probability is that if the jury is summoned there will be a good deal of noise from time to time as the gun is fired, but little damage to the entrenched forces of corruption. And the taxpayers will have to pay the bill from the treasury of a county which has just defaulted on another half million of its bonds.

A special grand jury ought never to be summoned without a definite and major abuse to investigate and without a strong demand in public opinion for an investigation to be conducted by some one not connected with the state's attorney's office. Neither of those conditions is present today. If we are to have a special grand jury every time an election is coming on, the time will soon come when special grand juries will have lost much of their value as a force for political integrity in the community.

Editorial of the Day

BAD YEAR FOR ORATORY.

[Cedar Rapids Gazette.]

It will be rather pointless to fire the young men and women leaving college this June with the high ideals they can carry to the business world. Unfortunately, the prospect is that most of the young graduates will not have an opportunity to influence the business world for better or worse for at least a year or two. A few will find jobs within a short time, but they will be the lucky few. Most of the crop of graduates, regardless of how high their qualifications may be, will find the doors of business and industry reluctantly but firmly closed to them. For those who have looked upon their college education as a preparation for the business of making a living current conditions will be disappointing. Their chief consolation will be that they are no worse off than thousands of men with years of actual experience in the business world.

Yet there is in the situation an opportunity that, while not particularly inspiring, is nevertheless real. Though the young men and women leaving college this year may not have an opportunity to work right away, they will have plenty of time to think, and some thinking needs to be done. Those who have jobs are much too busy hanging on to them to give much solid thought to the condition of society, how it got this way, and how the condition can be avoided in the future. That holds, to a great extent, for the professors who have been teaching the young graduates, too.

A few among the June graduates, free of the ruts into which most of their elders have dropped, and faced with the necessity of analyzing society as they find it and determining where they can fit in best, are going to do some thinking that will put their elders to shame. The men who have been running this world, and who were regarded with something akin to awe three years ago, have shown rather conclusively that they don't know what it's all about. They are trying desperately to adapt old, worn out concepts to a new and bewildering world, with only moderate success. The young men coming out of the colleges are less rigidly bound to old ideas. Seeing clearly through the eyes of youth, they may—and some will—conceive ideas that will throw new light on the entire outlook, not merely for next year or the year after but for the entire century.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

UP, MINORITIES, AND ORGANIZE! ON TO WASHINGTON!

As a free people we're sometimes mighty slow to take a hint. We're always talking of how we're bossed around and downtrodden by organized minorities. Well, then, the thing to do is for us who don't belong to the minorities that are now in the saddle and making whoopee to look around and see what minority group we do belong to. Then organize the darned thing and jump all spraddled out on congress. Everybody must be in some kind of a minority; bald headed men, for instance; red headed men, checker players, saxophone tooters, spinach haters, men who don't wear hats, or something. It doesn't make any difference what, just so it's a minority and well organized.

Now, just for illustration, let's take the people who hate this thing of gedunking. It's sloppy looking and it spills soup or coffee or whatever you gedunk your bread in all over the tablecloth. All right, the people who dislike to see anybody else gedunking all over the place get up an organization. Suppose they call it the Anti-Gedunkers' league. Then they push lobbyists and howlers down to Washington.

They buttonhole a congressman. "The Anti-Gedunkers' league demand an appropriation!" they shout. "Oh," says the congressman, "what did you say was the name of that association?" They tell him. He admits somewhat nervously he never heard of it. Of course, not; nobody has up to that time. "Do you know," say the Anti-Gedunking leaguers very impressively, "that we are trying to save this country from the horrible habit of gedunking? If this thing isn't stopped we will be a nation of gedunkers. Think of the children!" "Well, well," says the congressman, "I never thought of that." And then the anti-gedunkers go on and shoot the works. They tell him that gedunking is a horrible habit; that it's ruining the country; that they don't like it, and therefore nobody must be permitted to gedunk any more. They ask an amendment to the constitution forbidding gedunking ever after in the United States and its colonies and an appropriation of fifty millions of dollars to enforce it.

The congressman will seem a little doubtful. Then they pull the big minority argument: "Do you know how many anti-gedunkers there are in this country?" The congressman doesn't know; nobody knows. That makes it perfectly safe to say there are 39,876,542. "Gosh!" says the congressman, bursting out into a cold sweat.

"Yessir," they tell him, "and they're organized! And how! Now, then, congressman, do you want to come back to Washington!" Does a duck want to swim? Does a starving dog want a porterhouse steak? Does the congressman want to come back to Washington? What a question! Tsk, tsk, tsk!

Well, anyhow, they go ahead and tell the congressman if he doesn't work for the anti-gedunking bill he's dead right then and there. Every anti-gedunker in his district will rise up and vote against him. That's enough; the anti-gedunk bill is as good as in the constitution right then and there.

That's all there is to it! Think up something that's done or believed in only by a minority. No matter how small the minority. The smaller the better. Just so it's organized. And then make a noise. It will bring home the bacon. Anyhow, it always has. On to Washington!

PATHOS OF DISTANCE.

Close to my heart
As the wind to the tree
Is the murmur of things
That used to be;

But the march of the things
That are still to come
Has the menacing sound
Of a hostile drum.

And yet, some day,
When they all have passed,
And my hair is gray
And I can't walk fast,

No doubt they'll show
Through a wistful blur,
And I'll say to myself,
"How nice they were . . ."

THEY TALK about congress not being able to adjourn in time for the convention. Why, you could chain those fellows to their desks down there in Washington, lash 'em to the floor with the strongest ropes, fasten a ship's anchor to the left leg of each one of them, brick up all the windows of the capitol and nail the doors with those boys inside, and it's a safe bet that when the conventions are held in Chicago congress will be present right in the front row with their faces all clean and their hair in a braid. And a bright red apple for teacher.

THE "ANTI" MIND.

THIS would be a very uninteresting world if all persons agreed. Fortunately for us, there is disagreement on every social level and intellectual plane and, out of argument and controversy, information is spread and judgment is matured. Rarely do members of the Supreme court think unanimously on anything, and if there were no disagreements among courts there would be no need of higher courts to review the findings of the lower ones.

The members of the senate and house have been known to take opposite sides on questions. Not every President has agreed with every other President, and this year great political parties will try to make the people think they are in disagreement. There is even some chance that next November several million persons will go to the polls and, by voting, say, "We think one way," and other millions will adopt the same method of saying, "We think another way."

Even doctors disagree. And this, in the language of the day, brings us to where we are at. Dr. Charles F. Pabst says there are five million persons in the United States who are opposed to smallpox vaccination, as against the more than one hundred million who either favor it or are willing to accept the opinion of the trained, experienced men who do.

But he says in substance that this five million are such powerful persuaders that they cost the people over sixteen million dollars yearly, and they occasion a loss of 634,000 working days yearly, as a result of sickness and quarantine.

So far I have no disagreement with Dr. Pabst. He pronounces these five million anti-vaccination dermophobes. This is where our disagreement lies. A dermophobe is a person who has a phobia or excessive fear about his skin. By this term Dr. Pabst means that the anti-vaccinationists are abnormally afraid that vaccination will injure their skins and therefore they oppose vaccination. I do not know where the facts are that support the contention. In the first place, since smallpox carries a very repulsive skin eruption and leaves disfiguring scars, a dermophobe, to justify the name, should put fear of the disease above all other considerations. In the second place, dermophobes should be most fastidious in the care of the skin. I presume they use Blank's soap as much as other persons, but I have never known them to be called "the great superwashed." On this theory, how could G. B. Shaw's beard be accounted for?

If it were true the anti-vaccinationists would not be opposed to those forms of vaccination, of which there are many, in which the vaccine is given by mouth, by injection, or by any way that does not produce an ulcer.

I think the explanation fails to ring true. A better one is that the anti-vaccinationist is that way because of his mental makeup. He is anti-minded. However hard he may try, he cannot agree with anybody, not even with other anti-vaccinationists. Most oddly of all, he cannot agree with himself. He is generally inconsistent; he will never go along with anybody. If he is a member of a group it is one that is in constant disagreement among themselves. His efforts are given over to tearing down. He is incapable of building up. When he has any mental ability—and he often has—it can work only along lines of pointing out error and finding flaws. Constitutionally, his mind is of that type. It must work that way. Its peculiarities of working show themselves in its thinking on all subjects. It is not limited to smallpox and vaccination against it.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

NATIONAL CONVENTIONS

DEMOCRATIC—1928.

Houston, Tex., June 28.—Alfred Emanuel Smith, governor of New York, was nominated for President by the Democratic national convention held in Sam Houston hall, an auditorium built by the citizens of Houston to bring the convention to this city. The nomination was made at 11:50 o'clock tonight. The first roll call gave Smith 725 votes, 8 2-3 votes short of the two-thirds majority of the total of 1,100 delegates. Ohio switched 44 votes and there ensued a stampede of delegations supporting favorite sons to change their vote to Smith.

When these switches were counted it was officially announced that Smith had 849 2-3 votes; Walter E. George of Georgia, 52½; James A. Reed of Missouri, 52; Cordel Hull of Tennessee, 50 5-6, and Jesse Jones of Texas, 43, with the other votes scattering.

While the balloting was in progress rumors filled the air that the southern die-hard opponents of Smith will bolt the party. Carl Vrooman of Illinois made it known that he is in touch with southern leaders who will organize a third party.

The platform plank on prohibition pledges the party and its nominee to an honest effort "to enforce the eighteenth amendment and all other provisions of the federal constitution and all laws enacted pursuant thereto."

Houston, Tex., June 30.—Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas was nominated as the Democratic candidate for Vice President. Gov. Al Smith of New York, the presidential nominee, blew the lid off the prohibition issue in the final session of the convention when he telegraphed that while he will enforce the prohibition law vigorously if elected he intends to work for its modification. Thereupon the drys, who thought they had won a victory in the platform, assailed Gov. Smith's telegram of acceptance as his acceptance of the leadership of the liquor forces. Immediately Bishop James Cannon Jr. of the Methodist church and Dr. Arthur J. Barton, head of the southern convention of the Baptist church, issued a formal call for a southern dry conference at which their anti-Smith fight will begin actively.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 3, 1916.

LONDON.—The admiralty of Great Britain disputes the overwhelming character of Germany's sea victory off Jutland on the night of May 31. The gloom that settled over all of England after the first reports was a little lightened when the admiralty's latest statement became known. The slowly developing news of the battle makes it clear that it was the most frightful and destructive in all history. Germany's high seas fleet came out from its cover in the afternoon and engaged the British fleet in the North sea. Fourteen British warships of various grades were sunk. Three German ships were sunk, according to German statements, but the British claim the Germans lost twelve ships sunk or destroyed. Then the Germans withdrew successfully before the full force of the superior British armada could be brought to bear. On the British ships alone were more than 5,000 officers and men, and the probabilities are that most of them lost their lives. A like number of Germans were engaged, and the total dead may number 10,000. Great Britain admits the loss of battle cruisers and cruisers with a tonnage of 114,810—represented by the battle cruisers Queen Mary, Indefatigable, and Invincible, and the cruisers Defense, Black Prince, and Warrior. Germany's losses include the battleship Pommern, two small cruisers, the Wiesbaden and Frauenlob, and several torpedo boats. Six Zeppelins participated in the naval engagement. One of the dirigibles, the L-24, was hit several times and badly damaged, but was able to reach the Schleswig coast. During the retreat of the Germans their submarines threw a large number of mines.

CHICAGO.—Today Chicago gives up to the celebration and revival of the spirit of '76. It is intended as formal notice to the rest of the world and to congress that the middle west believes the nation should be prepared to defend itself against any possible aggression. Built in two weeks on a foundation of a patriotic idea, more than 200,000 men and women have enrolled themselves to march behind and under the flag.

TODAY'S QUESTION:

What are flowers good for?

YESTERDAY'S QUESTION.

Is death necessary?

ANSWER:

If new living individuals are continually to appear on the earth, others must obviously cease to exist, because there is a limit to the amount of life that the earth can support. So living things must die; but in many cases there is no need for some particular individual ever to die. Living things composed of one cell produce their young by simply dividing in two, so that nothing is left of the parent. Such individuals never die a "natural" death, but only as the result of accident. The single cells of the human body can be kept alive long after the person from whom they were taken has died. Some of the simple worms which naturally age and die can be rejuvenated and kept alive over indefinite generations by alternate starving and feeding. The more complex animals, like man, will gradually age and die, and no means known can stop or reverse this process. Gland transplantations are certainly worthless. There is no obvious reason, however, why a means may not later be discovered to stop the process of ageing and natural death.

ADMINISTERING ESTATE.

Port Byron, Ill., May 29.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A is the administrator of an estate of C, deceased. B is the heir to said estate. The estate was finally closed in court Nov. 31, 1931. A, while acting as administrator, did not collect rent from a tenant of a home owned by the estate, such arrears of rent amounting to $120. B did not pay executor's fee of $100 to A. 1. Can A be held responsible for $120? 2. Is B liable to A for $100? 3. Can A authorize bank to withhold documents, contracts, etc., relating to estate until A receives his fee of $100? G. K.

1. No. The administrator as such is under no obligation to collect the rent.
2. Depends on what was the agreement. Ordinarily the estate would not be closed without some agreement as to payment of the fee.
3. We do not have sufficient facts before us to advise you to advantage.

ONE CALFSKIN.

Delavan, Wis., May 20.—A few days ago we butchered on the farm a dandy brown Swiss calf, almost 4 weeks old, weighing 154 pounds. The old man [that's me] was allotted the hide for his share in the work, and being as how it's spring and needing a hair cut and a few groceries, I took said hide into town and proudly displayed my wares to our butcher and stock buyer, Mr. Clarence Anderson.

I says, says I, how much for this perfectly good brown Swiss calf hide? and, weighing it up, he promptly said 15 cents. The hide weighed 10 pounds and I saw visions of $1.50, but not for very long, as he handed me three perfectly good nickels and gave me to understand I was lucky to get the 15 cents. He showed me a ticket where he had sold four the previous day for 25 cents each, making the magnificent profit of 10c each, or 66 2-3 per cent profit on the sale, which calls high finance.

My hair is still uncut and the needed groceries are on the groceryman's shelf.

Having some Scotch blood in my veins and feeling in a very generous mood, I decided these three nickels might be the foundation of a great fortune; so out of the fullness of my heart I gave them to my three grandchildren, and in years to come they can tell others of their great fortune and how it was built from the proceeds of a brown Swiss calf hide.

HORRIBLE INJUSTICE.

Chicago, May 31.—I witnessed a popular twin contest at a Hyde Park theater a few nights ago and noticed the unfairness in several things. To start with, the manager of this theater made it very plain to the audience that any hollering or whistling would eliminate that set of twins being judged. And [I was told by one of my family sitting in the back of the theater where they could hear clearly] that the first set of twins were eliminated because some punks in the back of the theater got smart. Of course, it was right for the manager to keep his word, but why didn't he eliminate the other twins when some one whistled? Also, one set was judged three times while some didn't even get a chance for first or second prize. Was that fair?

This contest was for Hyde Park twins. Why did twins from Woodlawn and other neighborhoods join? Why not give the Hyde Park twins first chances?

No, I didn't have any twins or relatives in the contest, but the first twins judged are friends of the family and I think they got the rottenest deal of any of the twins. What do you think?

Portland, Ind., May 26.—You must have been lashed in the conscience after printing those headlines about Hoover turning wet when you knew it to be absolutely false. Every time you print a biased interpretation of prohibition news you weaken yourself, your character, your cause, just that much!

TELEPHONE CHARGES.

Chicago, May 20.—By what right does the telephone company charge one dollar for reinstatement of service even when that service has been discontinued only for half an hour? Sometimes owing to illness or being out of the city the bill is overlooked. Promptly there is a cut-off notice. In my own case the service was discontinued for half an hour although the check was already in the mail. The next morning there was a bill for the extra dollar. We are a long suffering people, but some day the telephone company will wake up and find that the people that they serve have put a few ordinances through the city council that will cramp their style. We have been gouged long enough.

MARY ONAHAN GALLERY.

AT THE COUNTY HOSPITAL.

Chicago, May 24.—In connection with the investigation of the Cook county hospital I wish to express amazement at the fact that the American Hospital association has only now awakened to the fact that the county hospital is in a deplorable shape. It seems that official agencies are often the last to find out what every citizen has known for years.

Every citizen who has had anything to do with the county hospital knows that the only way to secure service there is to have the recommendation of a politician. Without it he is simply doomed. With it he gets more attention. I know a case in which a patient in a desperate condition, with peritonitis setting in, was transferred from ward forty to ward thirty, and there lay deserted and unattended from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m., not only without the benefit of an examination on the part of the staff physicians, but even without the attention of one of the two internes. At 10 a. m. the nurse reported the arrival of the patient to the interne. At 10 p. m. neither of the internes knew that such a patient had been there.

If one add to this carelessness the independent and often belligerent attitude of some of the internes who declare that "anything you get free is good enough," the shortage of nurses, the miserable and notorious food served, the filthy walls and surroundings, the absence of patients' bells, the lack of instruments, the rare and hurried visits of staff members, and finally, the difficulty of gaining immediate admission, one cannot help being amazed at the fact that the A. M. A. and the A. H. A. have not, until now, taken drastic steps to improve conditions at this hospital.

PROBLEM CONCERNING A CANARY.

Chicago, May 31.—The past year I have allowed my canary to fly loose in the house all the time and he has become a strong flyer. Of course, this is better than keeping him in a cage, but I feel that I ought to give him his liberty outdoors. It makes me feel bad to go out in the fresh air and woods and think of the poor little bird that belongs outdoors, shut up in the house. Does any one know of a suitable bird sanctuary in the United States, or a place where the climate would be all right the year round, preferably where there are wild canaries? I. B.

BROWN SCHOOL MEMORIES.

Chicago, May 30.—When the words Brown school caught my eye I was thrilled. Not my alma mater, because we moved to the south side the April before my graduation. But I was thrilled at the name. To me it meant Miss Harvey and Miss Gould, my favorite teachers, and mostly Elizabeth Farson, affiliated with that school, when my mother went there, principal during my schooldays, and, I believe for many years after. She who was, if recalled by many today, a most advanced and modern woman, she who inspired us with the love for the fine arts, who taught us to appreciate the privilege of going to the Art institute; even in our youth to find it a pleasure and joy to read and try to interpret Shakespeare; she who gave so much energy to the highly complimented exhibit of our school work at the World's Fair.

Dear Miss Farson, and, too, a rather tall blond boy, whom I also adored. I can tell it to him today because I am a grandmother now. You, Frank Price.

NATION LEADERS RESERVE ROOMS FOR CONVENTIONS

'Full House' Assured Hotels; Rates Unchanged.

Thousands of hotel reservations have been made for both the Republican and the Democratic conventions and hundreds continue to be made daily. No prices will be raised, it was declared.

Two thousand of the 3,000 rooms of the Stevens hotel have been reserved for the Republican convention, which opens June 14. These reservations, with the hotel's regular guests, will assure a full house, it was said. Reservations for the Democratic convention total 1,500 to date in the Stevens hotel, authorities said.

Hotel Rejects Tuousands.

The Congress hotel, headquarters for both national committees, has turned away thousands of reservations and will care for 2,000 at each convention, said John Burke, vice president of the hotel company and president of the Chicago Hotel Men's association. Headquarters for both President Hoover and his sole opponent, former Senator Joseph I. France of Maryland, will be at the Congress.

Headquarters for Alfred E. Smith, Gov. William H. Murray of Oklahoma, James A. Reed of Missouri, Representative John N. Garner of Texas, Gov. Harry Flood Byrd of Virginia, and Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland are scheduled to be set up in the Congress.

Smith, it is understood, will arrive with his wife and two daughters on June 20.

Gov. Roosevelt also is scheduled to arrive on June 20, it is understood, as is Garner. Gov. Ritchie will make his appearance June 23, it is reported.

Woodring Takes 30 Rooms.

John J. Raskob, former chairman of the Democratic national committee, has engaged a suite at the Congress hotel. Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., Mrs. Elisabeth Marbury of Sutton Place, N. Y.; Senator Huey Long of Louisiana, Senator and Mrs. Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, and Nellie Taylor Ross, former governor of Wyoming, and Gov. Woodring of Kansas, who has engaged 30 rooms, have reservations for the Democratic convention at the Congress. L. G. Kaufman, New York, owner of the horse, Tick On, also engaged a suite for himself and his wife.

"Mrs. Dolly Gann and husband" appears among the Palmer house reservations of large suites. The Palmer house has reserved 800 rooms for Republicans and 1,200 for Democrats. Secretary of Labor Doak and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, also have two large suites at the Palmer house for the Republican convention. Mayor James M. Curley of Boston has a reservation for the Democratic convention at that hotel, and Mat Tinley of Iowa, has engaged several rooms.

Tammany Goes to Drake.

The Drake hotel is almost filled for the Democratic convention, having reservations for all the Tammany New Yorkers. The Auditorium hotel is sold out for the Democratic convention and the Blackstone hotel has practically all rooms and all suites reserved for the Republican convention.

Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, founder and president of the Woman's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, has reserved rooms in the Blackstone for both conventions. Likewise has Mrs. Alice Nicholas Longworth. Accompanying Mrs. Sabin to the Republican convention will be Mrs. Courtlandt Nicoll and Mrs. E. Roland Harriman, wife of the New York banker.

B. M. Baruch has reserved a suite in the Blackstone for the Democratic convention.

Notables to Attend.

Blackstone reservations for the Republican convention include the names of Gen. W. W. Atterbury, railroad official; Ambassador Walter E. Edge; George T. Cameron, newspaper publisher, San Francisco; D. E. Pomeroy, New York banker; H. M. Robinson, Pasadena banker; Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university, and Mrs. Ruth Pratt, first woman elected to congress from New York state.

A second James Reed headquarters will be at the Morrison hotel, where William G. McAdoo has made reservations for the California Garner supporters. Delegates from fourteen states will have their headquarters at the Morrison, but the number of reservations made to date could not be learned. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray will stop at the Auditorium.

Crusaders at Sherman.

Col. Ira L. Reeves, head of the Crusaders, will make his headquarters in the Sherman hotel for the Republican convention. The Sherman house reports a sellout for the Democratic convention. The Republican registrations are slower, it was reported, around 600 having been made to date. Eight hundred are expected before June 14. James Hamilton Lewis' headquarters will be in the Sherman hotel.

ENGAGEMENT OFF

Miss Eleanor Gould, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Gould of New York, announce that her engagement to William N. Haskell has been broken by mutual consent.

HOSTESSES MEET TODAY TO PLAN FOR CONVENTIONS

Few Dull Moments Await Feminine Visitors.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Plans for the entertainment of the feminine visitors to the Republican and Democratic conventions will be made at a meeting of the official convention hostesses in the mayor's office at 11 o'clock this morning. The meeting will be attended by the co-chairmen of the large committee named yesterday by Edward N. Hurley—Mrs. Fred W. Upham and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank—and the vice chairmen, Mrs. Bertha Baur and Mrs. Elizabeth Conkey, and others.

A preliminary impression of their duties toward the visitors is that they will not be onerous on the social side, since the entertaining will be largely of a private nature. This is in addition to the large dinner of the Woman's National Republican club and the Hamilton club on June 14 and two dinners by the Chicago Woman's club for each party group—the Republican on June 15, with Mrs. Mabel C. Reinecke as hostess, and the Democratic on June 29, with Mrs. George Bass in the same capacity.

Three "Ruths" to Be Here."

There has been a tremendous "buzzing" the last few days to determine who will and who will not be here. However, it is certain that the congressional trilogy of Ruths will be here for the Republican convention opening June 14. Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, congresswoman from Florida, has turned journalist and will "cover" both the political events for a national magazine, despite her inherited Democratic adherence as the daughter of William Jennings Bryan. She is an attractive and popular personality.

Second, is Mrs. Ruth Sears Baker Pratt, congresswoman from New York, chic and artistocratic. Mrs. Pratt, who was the first woman to be elected to the board of aldermen in New York City—in 1925—and who was the first woman elected to congress from New York state, is scheduled to be at the Blackstone and will undoubtedly be much in demand among her local friends.

The third is Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Sims, designated as of New Mexico since her recent marriage to Congressman Albert Sims of that state. Mrs. McCormick, although no longer congresswoman from Illinois, is still intensely interested in politics and is certain to be active when the scene shifts so vividly to this, her old home city.

Mrs. Hert Ranking Leader.

In the spotlight at the Republican gathering will be Mrs. Dolly Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis, whose convention residence will be the Palmer house. It is quite possible, however, that her niece, Mrs. Leona Curtis Knight of Providence, R. I., will eclipse her renowned aunt.

Officially, Mrs. Alvin T. Hert of Kentucky ranks all other Republican women. She is vice chairman of the national committee and by virtue of that, a sort of commander-in-chief of the feminine contingent. Mrs. Ellis A. Yost of Huntington, W. Va., however, is the active head of the women forces.

Democratic women will see to it that Mrs. Al Smith, whose headquarters will be the Congress, is not bored during her stay.

CRIME COMMISSION PRAISES ALLMAN FOR POLICE EFFICIENCY

A report to the crime commission yesterday by its committee on police, sheriff and coroner declared that a continuous improvement has been shown in the organization and operation of the police department, and the committee commended Commissioner James P. Allman for "a highly efficient administration." Improvements were listed as follows:

The patrol wagon service has been revised by having pickup wagons call at each station, resulting in a saving of $350,000. Discontinuance of twelve lockups saves $140,000 annually. A central complaint room has been installed at headquarters.

Call box lines have been consolidated at an estimated saving of $200,000. Discipline is more vigorous and no reinstatements follow dismissals. The age of applicants has been changed from 23-31 to 21 to 28 years. Policemen transferred from citizen's dress duty to uniform duty number 242. A new gasoline contract saves 4½ cents a gallon. Squads detailed to guard merchandise trucks have been discontinued, and all squads and patrol cars have been redistributed. Under a new disability plan disabled policemen are reallocated.

The committee expressed regret that no progress is being made towards organizing and maintaining an improved training school for recruits.

SEATING PLANS COMPLETED FOR G. O. P. GATHERING

Stadium Arena Alone Will Hold 4,629.

A final meeting of the committee on arrangements will be held June 9, he said, and the full national committee will meet the same day to hear contests and attend to other affairs. The full committee expects to remain in session until the convention opens.

Arena Has 4,629 Seats.

The arena seats total 4,629, divided, according to the chart, as follows: national committee, 178; press, 726; delegates, 1,170; alternates, 1,156; box seats, 602, guest seats, 797.

All arrangements made to date seem to be satisfactory except, of course, the great demand for tickets," said Mr. Williams. "This unusual demand proves beyond question that there will be thousands of visitors from throughout the country attending the convention. We are planning to extend the broadcast from the Stadium out to Union park to accommodate fifteen or twenty thousand people. This is done for the purpose of providing a place for the public to hear, with comfort and in detail, all the doings of the convention."

Fight in Illinois.

A three cornered fight for the Illinois membership on the Republican national committee will be on when the state delegates meet at convention time to pick their representative, according to political gossip yesterday. Roy O. West, at present committeeman and former secretary of the interior, will be opposed, it is said, by Frank L. Smith of Dwight, Len Small's downstate manager, and by George F. Harding, former Cook county treasurer.

Motor clubs affiliated with the American Automobile association will extend club services to delegates and alternates and their families driving to both conventions, according to a Washington dispatch yesterday quoting Thomas P. Henry, president of the A. A. A.

"These facilities will include routings, maps, mechanical assistance and the comprehensive services of the Chicago Motor club, A. A. A. affiliate in the convention city," said the announcement. "However, because of the departure from normal club practice, it is important that delegates and alternates should show their credentials in applying to our clubs for services."

REMOVAL ACTION AGAINST WALKER UP TO ROOSEVELT

New York, June 2.—[Special.]—Removal action against James J. Walker rests with Gov. Roosevelt at present, so far as Counsel Samuel Seabury is concerned, it was learned today. The Hofstadter committee's counsel will not immediately file removal charges against the mayor, although he said plainly yesterday that legal grounds for removal exist. Instead he will allow the governor—who has the power of removal—to take or refrain from action, as he wishes.

Mr. Seabury would not discuss the situation at the committee's headquarters, but the report was felt to be confirmed when the counsel said all his time for the next two or three weeks will be taken up with other matters besides those concerning Mayor Walker. After that Counsel Seabury will have time to consider whether, in case the governor has taken no action, he should himself draw up removal charges.

Mr. Seabury left this afternoon for Washington, Pa., to give an address at Washington and Jefferson college commencement on Saturday.

Returning on Monday he will spend the next two weeks in details of the general investigation not concerned with the mayor's affairs. No public hearings of the committee will be held unless something unexpected arises.

STRAYER REPORT PROPOSES BOOST IN CHICAGO TAXES

Suggests New Income Law to Aid Schools.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

A substantial boost in taxes is one surprising recommendation in the report of the survey of the Chicago schools which was conducted by Columbia university. This advice was not requested, as is admitted in the following comment from the report: "The survey staff was not commissioned to consider the income side of the financial problem of the Chicago schools."

But the Columbia university experts who made the survey decided that the Chicago schools would have difficulty in getting "adequate income" from the local general property tax, either in good or bad times, so they investigated Chicago's tax problem. The result is that they recommend a state income tax for Illinois similar to New York's. They also would copy the New York plan of distributing taxes by the state to the schools.

How the Plan Works.

Applying the survey report's tax proposals, the effect would be: Chicago would collect $9,000,000 a year for the support of downstate schools in order that it might have returned to it $15,000,000 in added taxes it had previously contributed to the state treasury. Yet it has been impossible in the last three years to collect enough taxes in Chicago to operate its own schools without incurring unpaid current obligations of $134,000,000.

The survey staff in its report, which was presented to the school board on Wednesday, says that "attention should be given to the reforming of the revenue system," and under that heading advocates "personal and corporation income taxes of the type already in successful operation in a number of states."

The summary of its proposal follows:

"The modernization of the obsolete system of taxation now in effect should be accompanied by an increase in the contribution of the state government toward the support of education. Through income taxes and other forms of taxation which adequately tap sources of revenue other than represented by real estate, New York state, in 1932, is finding it possible to allocate $104,000,000 to local communities for the support of schools.

Receives One-Third of Expenses.

"New York City will receive $47,000,000 from this source in 1932, or one-third of its current school expense. A third of current expenses in Chicago would be $18,000,000. Chicago will receive approximately $15,000,000 less than this amount from the state of Illinois in 1932. The inadequacy of the present Illinois plan for financing schools is apparent."

This recommendation, like all others in the report, is the combined judgment, according to Dr. George D. Strayer, survey director, of the 27 members of the survey staff. This is composed of 20 professors, associate professors and assistant professors of education and seven other school experts.

Applying the tax recommendation to Illinois and Chicago would have these results: Instead of Chicago getting $3,000,000 annually from the state for its schools, it would obtain $18,000,000—$15,000,000 yearly more than it is now getting. This $15,000,000, on the present basis of distribution in New York, would be 45 per cent of the state's income taxes. So the proposal is that the state levy and collect $33,330,000 in income taxes a year.

Chicago Would Pay 88%.

Judging from the experience of Wisconsin and in the collection of federal income taxes in Illinois, Cook county would pay 82 per cent of the $33,330,000, or $27,330,000. Chicago normally pays 88 per cent of the taxes collected in Cook county, so of the $33,330,000 income taxes, Chicago would contribute $24,000,000. Then it would get back from the state $15,000,000. The other $9,000,000 would be kept downstate.

Illinois already has an income tax law which was passed by the last special session and signed by Gov. Emmerson on Feb. 22, 1932. It is estimated that this law will raise about $30,000,000 under present economic conditions. A test case involving the constitutionality of the law is now pending in the Supreme court. Either this law is not satisfactory to the Strayer group or it was overlooked by them in their investigation.

The revepue plan is the big recommendation on solving Chicago's school tax problem contained in the report for which the local taxpayers have paid $100,000.

The report presents other views on local taxation. These show a similarity to the views on taxation of some of the educators in the Chicago public school system.

Last January Superintendent of Schools Bogan expressed himself on taxes at a time when the D. F. Kelly committee was urging the school board to trim its budget and expenses. The Kelly committee had asserted that not more than half of the taxes levied for 1930 could be collected. The actual collections reported yesterday are less than 47 per cent.

Predicts Larger Income.

Supt. Bogan, in a speech before the Principals' club, suggested that, as a result of County Judge Jarecki's decision in the Cisar case, the amount of property to be assessed would be increased, so that the tax income of the board would be larger. It was an argument against cutting the school appropriations.

Every tax expert in Chicago was then predicting that the tax income for 1932 would be lower than for 1930, because the valuations of property will be decreased. In addition the state Supreme court decided that the Jarecki decision was wrong, and Supt. Bogan's prophecy has no present prospect of fulfillment.

The Columbia university survey recommends "the formation of a commission made up of laymen, educators and tax experts charged with the duty of studying comprehensively the whole problem of taxation in Illinois and of proposing a sound program of legislation."

Blames Needless Building for Vacant School Rooms

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

One reason why there are vacant rooms in the public schools—of which there are 186 by the records of the superintendent of schools, 200 according to the Columbia university survey, and 380 by the count of the school principals—is because of the wasteful building of unneeded elementary schools.

That is the charge in the report of the Columbia survey which was directed by Dr. George D. Strayer.

Six of these elementary schools were built at a cost of $643,000 while the public was watching the show of ousting William McAndrew as superintendent of schools. In the period between Mr. McAndrew's suspension on Aug. 28, 1927, and his removal on March 21, 1928, the school board controlled by the former mayor ordered enough elementary schools to seat 8,352 pupils, and then did not have enough pupils to fill half of them, according to the Strayer report.

Old Trustees Still in Saddle.

This was confirmed in a statement issued yesterday by Don C. Rogers, director of research and building survey of the staff of Superintendent of Schools Bogan. Trustees appointed by the former mayor are still in control of the schools.

After giving other reasons for vacant rooms, the Strayer report says that "unwise planning and unwarranted new buildings in certain sections" is a factor. As an example, the report relates the following:

"During the period when the superintendent of schools was suspended and the bureau of research and building survey was inoperative, 1927-'28, a new type of elementary school building plan was prepared in the bureau of architecture. Prior to letting the contracts on six buildings the plan was not seen by the education department, nor signed, as required by statute, by the superintendent of schools.

"Too Large for the Need."

"This new type building was too large for an initial unit—1,392 pupil capacity. There was no need for an initial unit of that size in 1927-'28, nor will there be in the future. In order to fill them to a respectable degree of capacity it was necessary to change two of them into junior high schools.

"A junior high school branch was opened in another, and two of them were opened up simply as branches of neighboring elementary schools. One of these branches had 392 pupils and the other 470, although each building has a 1,392 pupil capacity. At the present time one of these buildings (Sayre) has fourteen vacant rooms and the other (Mount Vernon) has thirteen vacant rooms."

In confirmation of those facts Mr. Rogers' statement said: "Since their erection it has been necessary to convert three of these buildings into junior high schools and place a junior high school branch in another. One now has 14 vacant rooms and only one is reasonably filled."

Elementary Pupils Decreasing.

Mr. Rogers cited other information which shows that the building of the six schools to seat 8,252 elementary pupils was unnecessary. He said: "Since 1924 the number of pupils enrolled in the elementary schools, kindergarten to sixth grade inclusive—grades not affected by the opening of junior high schools—has decreased 5,437."

The purpose of the statement of Mr. Rogers was to show that he is attempting to utilize the vacant rooms, which, he asserts, are a small percentage of the 7,458 classrooms in the elementary schools. He said that in the last four years seating capacity for only 4,862 elementary pupils has been recommended for construction. Of this, schools for only 3,358 pupils have been built or are under construction. In the preceding four years, however, facilities for seating 36,252 elementary pupils were recommended and built.

Seek Way to Use Rooms.

Last September 100 vacant elementary classrooms were closed out in five near west side schools, and plans are now under way to devote some of the vacant rooms in elementary schools to Junior high schools next September. Mr. Rogers said that boundaries of school districts are being adjusted to ascertain whether two or three elementary schools cannot be closed.

The Strayer report was quoted yesterday as saying that $87,676,000 had been spent on school buildings in Chicago in the last year. The expenditure was over a period of seven years. On this expenditure the survey estimated there has been one-third waste, or $29,225,000.

OSWALD JACOBY DROPPED FROM BRIDGE TEAM

New York, June 2.—[Special.]—Oswald Jacoby, one of the members of the "four horsemen," the team that has been riding high across the contract bridge firmament for the last year, was dropped from the quartet today by his three former teammates, P. Hal Sims, Willard S. Kern and David Burnstine. He was replaced by Howard Schenken.

The notice of his dismissal, signed by the other three players, explained that he was dropped "because he attemped to use his position for the purpose of promoting his own ends to our detriment." It further charged him with having attempted to disrupt the team.

Mr. Jacoby, who is in Dallas, Tex., with his recently acquired wife, the former Mary Zita McHale, the tennis player, denied he had been dismissed from the team but had withdrawn a month ago.

He declared that he had withdrawn from the combination when he "discovered that his teammates had become rather jealous of my being better known than they."

ALD. MORELAND IS ASSAILED FOR $1 A YEAR PLAN

Called "Fourflusher" by Cermak, Councilmen.

Mayor Cermak and a number of aldermen made charges of fourflushing and insincerity yesterday in reply to Ald. James C. Moreland [41st], who proposed to the council Tuesday that the mayor and aldermen serve as dollar a year men until the city's finances improve. One speaker termed the proposal "an incentive to dishonesty."

"Ald. Moreland is a fourflusher who has voted against nearly every effort of the administration to economize," said Mayor Cermak. "He is not sincere in proposing the dollar a year plan, because he is not for economy and never was.

Opposes Economy Projects.

"His record in the council is clear on this point—that he voted against nearly every economy proposal and voted consistently for everything that the former Republican mayor of Chicago stood for. I venture to predict that when the 1932 budget, with its savings of approximately $15,000,000, comes to a vote, he will be against it, because some Republican precinct captain might lose his job."

"An alderman has to live," said Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the finance committee. "We have taken the 78 day pay cut with other employés, and many of us need what is left of our salaries to live on. I believe that if Moreland thought his proposal would be adopted, he would oppose it himself. It's a publicity fourflush."

Other aldermen asserted that their group is closer to the people than any other elected officers. They are called upon continually to contribute to charities and to give to the relief of individuals in their wards.

Judges to Debate Cut.

A call was sent out yesterday for a meeting of the judges of the Municipal court on Tuesday to consider Mayor Cermak's demand that the city judiciary accept a 54 day pay reduction for the year. The other city employés are taking a 78 day pay cut.

The mayor's demand was voiced Wednesday in a heated speech to the Democratic judges who had been summoned to the Democratic party headquarters in the Hotel Sherman to hear him. He told them that when the city budget, including the Municipal court appropriations, is presented to the city council today, it will contain a 15 per cent pay cut for judges and all other employés of the court.

Judges Exempt Selves.

The judges, in transmitting their budget to the council finance committee, had provided a 6 per cent, or 24 day, pay reduction for employés, but had exempted themselves. The Democratic judges remained in session discussing the matter for an hour after Mayor Cermak left them. They are said to have declined to agree immediately to his demand, but it is believed that they may change their stand by Tuesday.

Republican judges have a majority of one in the membership of the court. There are 19 Republican judges and 18 Democrats including Chief Justice Sonsteby.

The 1932 budget of the court disclosed that Chief Justice Sonsteby had inserted a position not carried in the 1931 budget, that of a "special assistant to the chief justice," at $6,000 a year. The budget also disclosed that he had raised the salary of one of his secretarties from $2,500 to $5,000 a year. Last summer criticism was aroused by the fact that Judge Sonsteby when he took office completely reoutfitted his office with expensive furniture, carpets, and drapes.

50 Million Corporate Budget Is 20% Under Last Year

A corporate fund budget of $50,150,000 will be submitted to the city council today by its finance committee. At that figure the appropriations for this year are $12,727,080 less than those for 1931, a decrease of 20 per cent.

In recommending the budget for passage the committee for the first time in years has kept appropriations substantially below the estimate of revenues. The estimate for this year is $54,094,353, or $3,944,353 more than the suggested appropriations.

In explanation of the committee's refusal to appropriate to the full extent of its estimate Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman, said that the uncertainty of tax collections has made it imperative for the council to have a margin of safety between appropriations and estimated revenue.

"The estimate of revenues from taxation and from miscellaneous sources is only a guess at this time," Ald. Clark said, "since only 45 per cent of the 1930 taxes have been paid and it is now past the penalty date. We would not be justified in appropriating more than we have.

"The budget provides for a 12 per cent loss and cost in the collection of taxes. It may be that the loss and cost will be much more on the penalty date for 1932 collections, and that it will be some years before the full amount of taxes is collected. That would mean that the city would have to pay interest on borrowed money until all the 1932 taxes were paid. So the council must stay well within its estimate of revenues."

Although $62,877,080 was appropriated last year the expenditures were cut to $56,215,743 by Mayor Cermak. The new budget is $6,065,743 less than last year's expenditures.

The budget will be deferred and published at today's session to give aldermen who are not members of the finance committee an opportunity to study it. A public hearing on it will be held June 10, and the council will meet June 14 to pass it. Another meeting will be held June 20 to receive any vetoes by the mayor, and then there will be a final meeting ten days later to take care of any amendments.

INVITES W. C. T. U. TO ATTEND G. O. P. LIBERALS' RALLY

Col. Ira L. Reeves, managing director of the Crusaders, sent a letter yesterday to Mrs. Ella A. Boole, national chairman of the W. C. T. U., inviting members of the organization to attend the massmeeting to be held by the Republican Citizens Committee Against National Prohibition at the Coliseum June 13.

The meeting will be in the nature of a patriotic demonstration on the eve of the Republican convention, Col. Reeves stated. Mayor Cermak will give an address of welcome and there will be prayer and inspirational music.

"We regret exceedingly that because of misunderstanding and possibly a lack of contact with the every day world, your members apparently have formed an unfortunate misconception as to the type of people who are conscientiously opposing national prohibition," Col. Reeves' letter stated.

"For this reason it gives me great pleasure to extend to you and through you to the principal workers of your group an earnest invitation to attend this meeting. Come and see for yourselves the character of people who are convinced that prohibition will never be effective as a practical temperance measure."

$5,046,786 IN 1930 TAXES RECEIVED AFTER DEADLINE

Although the penalty date on 1930 real estate taxes fell on Wednesday night, payments totaling $5,046,786 were received yesterday in the office of County Treasurer McDonough. Most of these payments were placed in the mail before the deadline and will escape the 1 per cent a month penalty charged on delinquent taxes. Their receipt raised the total of 1930 tax payments to $137,296,828, which is 47.9 per cent of the levy, totaling $290,284,505.

MRS. HITCHENS' RENO DIVORCE HEARING TODAY

The divorce suit of Mrs. Dorothy Alexander Hitchens in Reno, Nev., against Benjamin F. Hitchens, 1235 Madison park, western manager for a Philadelphia publishing house, has been set for hearing today. The suit was filed on April 26 and cruelty was alleged.

Mrs. Hitchens is the daughter of the late Herbert G. B. Alexander, insurance executive, who died in Paris in 1928, leaving an estate of $1,500,000.

The Hitchens were married Oct. 29, 1913 and have three children, Marjorie, 17; Benjamin, 15, and Herbert, 14. Mrs. Hitchens stated that she and her husband have been separated for five years. The suit, it was understood, will not be contested.

HENRY FORD ON FARM AND FACTORY

DANGER to our country is to be apprehended not so much from the influence of new things as from our forgetting the value of old things. At present, much that is blamed on the new thing—the machine—should perhaps be blamed on our forgetting what we had before the machine came, namely, the land. The two belong together; they cannot live apart; there is no antagonism between them; they must be reunited.

I do not look for less but more use of machinery. If the world is to have even a minimum supply of goods, it must utilize the machine. The people will never willingly forego the help which the machine gives them in their work.

Besides, machinery makes more jobs. It enables every one to enjoy inexpensively the comforts and conveniences of modern living conditions. As for overproduction, we have never yet had a sufficient production of all the things which the family needs. It would be splendid if the world should seriously attempt to overproduce everything that everybody needs! We should then discover that our present machine facilities could not even catch up with the need. Give the world a money system that makes it easier for goods to flow from man to man, and all the factories on earth could not begin to supply a tenth of the demand.

But it is possible to expect of the machine more than it can do. We cannot eat or wear machines. If the world were one vast machine shop, it would die. When it comes to sustaining life, we go to the fields. The machine may help us plant, cultivate, harvest, grind and bake the grain for bread. The machine may weave and cut and sew for clothing. The machine may transport these necessities for our use. In doing so, it serves in partnership with the land. And it is that relation and balance which I am urging upon our people today.

WE ARE still in the early stage of world-making. To stabilize conditions at a given point or to reject progress because it brings problems with it, is impossible. We need to plan how to pass through necessary changes with the least human hardship. Economic changes must come and it is possible for men to be in a position to welcome rather than dread them. With factory and farm as partners, with one foot on the soil and one foot planted on industry, we should be in a position to hail the new epoch without fear. The land would protect us from needless anxiety.

Ten years ago we started seven village industries on small water power sites, all within twenty miles of Dearborn, our purpose being to combine the advantages of city wages with country living. The experiment has been a continuous success. Overhead cost has been less than that in the big factory, and the workers would not hear of going back to the city shops. As they are free to till land in the growing season, throughout these trying times they have all remained self-sustaining. Their security is produced by machine and farm, not by one alone.

While this experiment has fully justified itself, I have felt that it is only a step in the right direction. Excellent as village industries are, they do not really bring industry and agriculture together. For a long time now I have believed that industry and agriculture are natural partners and that they should begin to recognize and practice their partnership. Each of them is suffering from ailments which the other can cure. Agriculture needs a wider and steadier market; industrial workers need more and steadier jobs. Can each be made to supply what the other needs? I think so.

The link between is Chemistry. In the vicinity of Dearborn we are farming twenty thousand acres for everything from sunflowers to soy beans. We pass the crops through our laboratory to learn how they may be used in the manufacture of motor cars and thus provide an industrial market for the farmers' products. I foresee the time when industry shall no longer denude the forests which require generations to mature, nor use up the mines which were ages in the making, but shall draw its raw material largely from the annual produce of the fields. The dinner table of the world is not a sufficient outlet for the farmer's products; there must be found a wider market if agriculture is to be all that it is competent to become. And where is that market to be found if not in industry?

I am convinced that we shall be able to get out of yearly crops most of the basic materials which we now get from forest and mine. That is to say, we shall grow annually many if not most of the substances needed in manufacturing. When that day comes, and it is surely on the way, the farmer will not lack a market and the worker will not lack a job. More people will live in the country. The present unnatural condition will be naturally balanced again. Our foundations will be once more securely laid in the land.

The day of small industry near the farm will return, because much of the material grown for industry can be given its first processing by the men who raised it. The master farmer will become, as he was in former years, master of a form of industry besides.

An old Roman said that corn was never so plentiful in Rome as when the men who ruled the state were those who also tilled the field. It will be so with our people when those who fabricate the utilities of the world are those who raise the raw material from the field.

One thing is certain—we must go on—present conditions cannot be stabilized—life goes on. I suppose that in 1632 there were people who urged that the world had gone far enough and that it should be halted and hardened into the pattern of 1632. And again in 1732, others thought that a line should be drawn and conditions stabilized. In 1832 the same proposal—it is always made—every generation makes it. Suppose the world had halted at any of those dates! Are we to declare that 1932 is the date at which development must cease and the world be stabilized just as it is? It cannot be done. Life would burst any barriers we might raise against its ongoing. We do not yet control all the materials out of which to assemble a world that is worthy to endure unchanged. Our times are primitive. True progress is yet to come. The industrial age has scarcely dawned as yet; we see only its first crude beginnings.

We are pioneers, and pioneering has its hardships. This generation is composed of economic pilgrims, passing out of less desirable conditions into what we hope shall be more desirable ones. That is the meaning of these times. We are not going back, and false prosperity is not soon coming back. It would be well to interpret present conditions in this light and help each other in the good old pioneer way, as we pass through them. We are going to renew our stake in the land; for the land is the foundation of the economic security which we seek.

How Bureaus Destroy Rights Told in Book

100,000 Laws Made by U. S. Clerks.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

"The Federal Octopus," by Sterling E. Edmunds. [The Michie company, Charlottesville, Va.]

THE story of the growth of "The Octopus" at Washington and the rise of a federal bureaucratic despotism on the wreckage of constitutional principles is unfolded by Mr. Edmunds of the St. Louis bar, who surveys the processes which in three decades have brought it about. Thirty years of progressive usurpation of power, he sets forth, have sufficed to bring the free American citizen under as much subjection as were the colonists.

Thus, in a century and a half America has emerged out of the tyranny of George III. into a despotism of federal bureaus, the "Octopus" meanwhile spreading its tentacles into business and the family, and through its taxing suckers, draining the life from property, trade, and industry.

Three decades of change are pictured by contrast. Thirty years ago, the golden age at Washington, T. R. in the White House, simplicity of government. The ordinary citizen had few contacts with the federal government—the mail carrier, the postmaster, the federal judge, the marshal, and a few other officials were its only visible symbols to him. The federal courts, with limited criminal jurisdiction, were free to devote time to the consideration of rights under the constitution. Federal revenue came from duties and excises on liquor and tobacco, and economy was the rule.

The Changes in 30 Years.

Thirty years later he says the countryside is overrun with federal agents sent out by ten executive departments at Washington and by scores of bureaus, dictating to the farmer and his wife, business is hounded at every step by Washington clerks with inquisitorial powers, structural changes in government and doctrinal changes in the rights of free citizens have nullified the bill of rights.

Marble palaces for ever growing bureaucracy have sprung up, the courts have taken over justice shop business, congress has turned over some of its lawmaking duties to departments, and America today is suffering from a reintroduction of the despotic practices of the Tudors and the Stuarts under a rule of departmental clerks, while government is spending money with a prodigality that makes the ancient Roman emperors look like tightwads.

Mr. Edmunds attributes the growth of the federal bureaucratic despotism most largely to the adoption of the 16th [income tax] amendment in 1913. This gave government and the federal pay rollers unlimited access to the wealth of the country. The multiplication of federal activities with a constantly growing army of tax eaters became inevitable.

Up to that time congress had power to levy direct taxes, but the constitution required all such taxes to be apportioned to the states according to population. As direct taxes would touch all citizens, economy in federal expenditures was the rule rather than risk displeasure of the people. Federal revenue came almost wholly from imports, imposts and excises, which the citizen paid indirectly and without feeling it.

With the income tax congress got the power to take taxes in different proportions from different citizens, on the "ability to pay" principle. Mr. Edmunds sets forth it is a power of confiscation, which congress has exercised at times to take as much as 65 per cent of the income of certain groups, and he argues that if congress can take 65 per cent, it can take 100 per cent.

Holds Property Rights Are Lost.

What happens, "The Federal Octopus" holds, is that by the income tax amendment the citizen's right of property is gone, and by narrowing the confiscations to less than 2 per cent of the citizens and exempting 98 per cent the government has created popular support for all sorts of measures of extravagance it seeks to undertake in the name of the welfare of the people.

Two other constitutional amendments, Mr. Edmunds holds, have worked in conjunction with the income tax amendment to bring about the reign of bureaucracy. They are the 17th [direct election of senators] and the 18th [prohibition]. The 17th, ratified in 1913, the book remarks, made of the United States senate a second popular branch of congress.

As observers have noted for years, it has lessened the caliber of the senate and weakened its inclination and influence to prevent vast expenditures when undertaken "for the people."

The 18th or prohibition amendment, as an act of "unspeakable tyranny," he says, let loose armies of snoopers and spies upon the people, built up a great pay roll machine, and has served to overthrow guarantees in the bill of rights, such as the sanctity of

Blouses Reflect Paris Extremes in Suit Fashions

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Suits have gone over in a big way this summer with smart Parisiennes. And this means in variety from the simple wool morning suit all the way through to the more formal afternoon type in silk. These two extremes—one rather masculine, the other feminine—exemplify the height of Paris chic.

Blouses have come into the limelight on the heels of the suit popularity, and they take their character from the kind of suit with which they are worn. Sketched today, you see the two utterly different types of blouses that accompany the suits mentioned above.

In the lower half of the sketch is the blouse that goes with the tailored morning suit. It is modeled after a man's shirt, with its turned down soft collar and linked cuffs. It is in blue and white striped cotton and has a four-in-hand blue printed tie. The blouse is tucked inside of the skirt.

In the upper sketch you see the perfect blouse to accompany the silk afternoon suit. Mainbocher created this blouse and makes it in white chiffon embroidered with tiny black dots. It has elbow length full sleeves and a softly draped cowl neck line. There are insets, like epaulettes, of black crêpe de chine on the shoulders. This type of blouse is worn outside the skirt.

Mesh Gloves Have Surprise for Shopper

Newest Models Present Some Tricks.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

SHOPPERS who like mesh gloves are in for some more surprises when they discover the new models that have just arrived in the smartest shops! Mesh makers have been up to a lot of new tricks, such as merging materials, combining colors and even leathers with this up and coming summer child of the washable fabric gloves family.

Starting from very simple and most unassuming beginnings of just mesh, this fabric has been extremely open-minded about using every bit of fashion assistance, uniting with anything and everything in the way of felt, piqué and leather to successfully climb the social ladder. Now, you see them everywhere for street and sports wear, accepted by the best and most knowing people. Cotton mesh gloves are the boldest and most fashionable gate crashers of the season.

The best thing these mesh gloves do is the delightful little sleight of hand slenderness they perform for your fingers . . . and while other fabric gloves are bought by the half a dozen pairs by enthusiastic users, this new idea that assures slender fingers and fingertips will make lots of converts.

There is also much elasticity to this mesh . . . you can slip into them, in merely a minute . . . and after they have been through the suds and lingered around most any place till they are dried, they still retain their super-slenderness, without any ugly bulges and extra fullness.

The newest gauntlet shapes have perky little cuffs of perforated felt which is as obligingly water and soap minded as the mesh . . . these nicely flaring cuffs are perfect complements for perforated felt hats, new perforated bags and shoes . . . you can buy them in white, eggshell, cream beige and some very interesting fresh arrivals, boast of felt perforated cuffs of navy blue, closely joined to snow white small meshed fabric.

Some more white wonders have shaped and a bit wider cuffs of lacey white mesh, others have scalloped edges of white piqué, but the newest models all fit smartly—snug at the wrist, some with large pearl clasps and others with pearl buttons.

If you really want to go into this open work seriously and completely you can buy a set . . . gloves, scarf and hat, all hand crocheted in the famous Irish crochet patterns . . . one set is charmingly fine and demurely reminiscent of the fragile mitts and nets of grandmother's day of grace and romance. Another set is crocheted in a much larger and freer way, making a swanky sports outfit very chic for spectator sports events . . . nothing could be smarter with a huge white woolly sports or polo coat than either of these startling new get-togethers.

The hats are crocheted in that roll-your-own style, with a tightly crocheted edge for round the head snugness.

Mesh sneaks in everywhere, some of the sportiest leather gloves welcome a few clever insets of mesh . . . for instance white kidskin gloves, short and snappy have deep diamond insets of white fine holed mesh extending way up on the back of the hand. Some tawny brown pigskin affairs go half and half with deep coffee-colored mesh . . . others have the entire inside of the glove in mesh, or you can also buy these same models with the outside all mesh . . . and they look lots smarter than it sounds, especially on the hand.

'Society Girl' Tale of Fighter and The Girl

Big Surprise Is Welcome to Movie Fans.

"SOCIETY GIRL."

Miss Halloway.....Eula Guy Todd

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

"You can't mix dames and trainin'!"

So, from the depths of his loyal heart and heap experience speaks Manager Briscoe to his buddy pugilist, Johnny Malone.

These two have buffeted fate together since, to quote Malone again, "we was kids stealin' apples," and now Johnny is all set, so he and Briscoe hope and think, to take the middleweight championship away from Fighter Swanson.

All—set—to—go—and then just WOULDN'T a girl—and a society girl at that—pick on Johnny to give her a new kind of thrill . . .

Now the nice thing about this picture is that you think you have it all sized up, after it's run for about two reels, and you haven't. Nice! To think you know all about what's coming—and find you've been barking up the wrong tree. Dear are surprises to the heart of the seasoned movie fan.

Well—that's the layout—and enough of the story from where I sit.

The three principals, Spencer Tracy, Peggy Shannon, and James Dunn, are all popular and all give a good account of themselves this trip. To my way of thinking, laurels belong to Spencer Tracy—but then I would be convinced of that, he being my idea of about the best the gods have to offer in the way of screen he-men.

"Society Girl" has been well directed and staged and, though the action doesn't move any too fast, keeps you interested. Dialogue and the prize fight aren't so paprika.

Films such as this should make us of the the working class content with our lot. Because it DOES seem that the idle rich have a difficult time keeping themselves amused!

See you tomorrow!

Mitchell Songs Used in Concert by Frida Savini

BY EDWARD MOORE.

One of the features of Frida Savini's song recital in Curtiss hall last night was a group of songs by the Chicago composer, Leads Mitchell. They were a set of four, all brief, all written in an alert, sprightly style showing marked influences of the attractive points of the contemporary school of composition and none of its ugliness, and all sounding as though the voice of Claire Dux had been in the composer's mind when he wrote them.

In other parts of her program Miss Savini displayed excellent voice and training in songs and operatic excerpts of Italy and in the lieder of Schubert and Schumann. An operatic scene seldom heard in concert was the "Willow" and "Ave Maria" from Verdi's "Otello," and it turned out to be one of the best things she did both vocally and interpretatively.

She was assisted by Mari Barova, contralto, who earned an encore by singing a group which consisted of "Che faro senza Eurydice" from Gluck's "Orpheus" and songs by Brahms, Georges, and Mozart. At the end of the program Miss Savini and Miss Barova sang the vocally decorative and effective duet from "Mme. Butterfly." Frederick Schauwecker provided accompaniments of a high order of merit.

Film Stars Are Taking to the Shears Again

Shorter Bobs Become Fashionable.

Word comes out of Hollywood that the shears are at work again on hair. Janet Gaynor's recent signing up with the bobbed headed group no doubt will give fresh impetus to the hair-cutting industry catering to our younger women. Miss Gaynor has worn her hair shoulder length for a long time. Her new bob is a short one, with slightly curled bangs—rather imitation bangs done with piquant tendril arrangement.

Among this younger element short hair is somewhat of a novelty. It is four, five, and six years since the young ones began to scorn mamma's flapper practices and set about establishing hair dignity on their own. Maybe because they think they have mom "put" where she belongs, now they want to put on their own young hair frolic.

But keeping mom put is another thing. We'll have to wait and see how long the older generation will cling to the longer hair. Rumor has it that they aren't so crazy about it.

The short bob, anyway, if not due for an immediate comeback, is being flirted with by girls and women that wouldn't have dared a year ago. The smart Frenchwoman never fancied much the trailing ringlet ends while that style was going strong here. Certainly, shorter coiffures, if not bobbed, are being adopted by some of our smartest screen stars. Joan Bennett's taffy colored hair is shorter than it was a while ago. It's a long short bob of a conservative type of dressing, waveless across the top of the head, side waves placed low, and side hair ending in loose ringlets.

Norma Shearer has the trick of changing her hair style to conform with the character she is playing. The low, right side parting, with an exposed right ear, is one of her recent favorites. For the sophisticated matron rôle in "Strange Interlude" her three inch ends of hair are pinned up and out of sight, and a halo, or coronet, which is actually an extra hairpiece, is worn.

Flat and as unwaved as possible around the upper part of head and face seems to be one rule that may be accepted as part of the season's smart coiffuring.

G.O.P. Women Plan Parties for Delegates

Secretary Hurley to Be Dinner Guest.

BY JUDITH CASS.

SUCH a lot of entertaining as the Republican women are planning for the guests who will be here for the Republican national convention.

And how difficult it is for the hospitable women to make their plans, for one day Senator "So and So" and his attractive wife are coming and the next they aren't, and so it goes. And probably nobody will know positively who is coming until the convention opens, and, as for being sure where any of the guests will stay, that seems to be uncertain, too, for those who are coming to take part in the important business of the convention do not seem to be able to accept definitely invitations from their friends to visit at private houses, probably because hotel rooms are much more convenient for conferences and committee meetings!

The largest affair on the program is the dinner the Woman's National Republican Club of Chicago will give on Tuesday, June 14, the day the convention opens, in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel for the secretary of war and Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley. This dinner is so important that two notable hostesses who had planned parties for that night have changed their plans so that there will be nothing of a social nature to interfere with the success of the banquet, for which elaborate plans are being made.

Mr. Hurley Only Speaker.

Mr. Hurley will be the only speaker and after his speech there will be a reception with prominent Chicago women as hostesses to the delegates and alternates from their native states. Flags and flowers of all states will decorate the ballroom and there will be state tables with the various governors who will be here as guests. Mrs. Jacob Baur, president of the club, will preside.

Those who changed their dinner parties are Mrs. Howard Linn and Mrs. Walter B. Wolf. Mrs. Linn, with Mr. Linn, had sent out invitations to about 90 persons to meet Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Whigham and Miss Sybil Whigham of New York at the Casino, and they have switched the party to the next night, Wednesday, the 15th.

Mr. and Mrs. Wolf were to entertain for their house guests at their apartment at 209 Lake Shore drive, and they have changed it to the night preceding the banquet, Monday, the 13th.

The Anti-Prohibitionists are planning a large dinner for Monday, also, I believe, and Mrs. Frederick M. Alger of Detroit is to be a guest at that affair. Mrs. Alger is to be a guest of the Charles S. Deweys [Suzette Dewey married Frederick M. Alger Jr.] of 1507 State parkway for both conventions. Mrs. Dewey is chairman of the committee on arrangements for the Republican club's dinner, but if she holds to her plan of sailing with her daughter, Louise, on June 11 for England, she won't be here for the affair or for any of the convention festivities.

Mrs. Dewey was hostess at a delightful tea yesterday afternoon for the women of her committee and the society editors, and she said then that she truly did not know what she was going to do, so torn is she between wanting to be in Chicago for the conventions and in London when her daughter is presented at court.

Organize Guides for Visitors.

In addition to the other things the various Republican women are scheduling for the entertainment of the guests, they have arranged with Miss Mary Gardner and Mrs. B. Botsford Young and a corps of young women to act as guides to the women visitors. They will have a desk at the headquarters in the Congress hotel and will do whatever is desired for the guests—take care of children, walk dogs, shop, conduct sight seeing excursions and so on and so forth.

Mr. and Mrs. Silas H. Strawn of 209 Lake Shore drive will give a supper party Sunday night, June 12, at which probably some of the convention visitors will be present although those for whom the party was planned, Ambassador and Mrs. Walter E. Edge, will not have arrived from France by that date. The Strawns probably will entertain for the Edges later, however.

Parties for Miss Farwell.

When Miss Elinor Farwell is married to E. Ogden Ketting on Saturday, June 11, her cousin, the Rev. Horace Farwell Ferry of Lake Bluff, will read the service in the presence of the families and a few friends. The wedding is to take place at 5 o'clock in the afternoon at the residenec of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lincoln Farwell of 1301 Astor street.

Miss Farwell will have no attendants and Samuel Insull Jr. is to be Mr. Ketting's best man. Mr. and Mrs. Ketting will sail on the Europa on the 15th for England for an indefinite stay.

The pre-nuptial festivities for the popular Miss Farwell and her fiancé started last night—ever since their engagement was announced late in April they have been fêted, however—with a dinner party at which her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Farwell (Portia Bartlett) of 1443 Lake Shore drive were host and hostess. Tonight the G. Corson Ellises of Lake Forest are entertaining at dinner and tomorrow night the Woodbury Obera will give a dinner at their residence in Lake Forest.

Sunday the Hempstead Washburnes, Miss Eleanor Dennehy, and the Charles F. Clarkes will give a picnic luncheon at the Dennehy farm near Milburn, and that night the William A. P. Pullmans of Lake Forest will be host and hostess at a supper party. The junior Samuel Insullis will entertain at dinner Tuesday night;

NEW CREATIONS IN KITCHEN DEVICES CUT FOOD WASTE

Salary Saving Equipment Catches Eye.

BY JEAN GUTHRIE.

To all appearances the versatile inventors who usually descend on us along with the spring rains, bristling with musical boudoir clocks, runproof baby panties and nine hundred new uses for the modern clothes pin, have this year harkened to the distressed call of the homemaker, cached the old line for a more prosperous day—and turned to the creation of salary-saving kitchen equipment.

Proof? Whole counters of it. If you doubt, peel a kitchen-wise eye and saunter through one of our town's up-to-date department stores—kitchen utilities section. Everything cheerfully shouts of economy. From the dipless sirup pitcher and the spill-resistant extract bottle, to waterless cookery pans for saving fuel and avoiding waste—everywhere sympathetic equippers have planned with a kindly eye for our underfed purses.

Pot, Pan Prices Slashed.

Nor is this trend—praises be—just another wolf in sheep's clothing—a case of paying big money for pots, pans and devices with which to make but a few cents worth of saving. For pot and pan prices themselves have been slashed so gratifyingly that it's a breath taking sensation to even meet them at such lows. And to take the trite but true words out of the salesmen's mouths—in almost every case, the saving in food, fuel and time made by using modern equipment pays the purchase bill many times over.

Just for instance. One of the latest things to gleam tempting from the aluminum counter is a warm-over frying pan. Exactly what we kitchenettes cooks have been looking for for years. It is made much on the order of the rather recently arrived egg and bacon skillets, except that it is deep instead of shallow and the partitions rise clear to the top, giving plenty of room for servings of comfortable leftovers in the two quarter compartments, and a whole half of the pan walled off for heating the piece de resistance. There's a heavy cover, too, with nubby projections inside to form a perfect self basting device. Aluminum suits most of us, but the same number is to be had in iron also.

Are Food Savers.

Refrigerator pans, three in a group, which fit snugly together and take care of left overs, are another food saver. No need of emptying them into cooking dishes the next day, for they cook merrily away in their own enameled storage pans.

A grown up version of the warm-over frying pan has also appeared in a novel two section sauce pan. Not two or three separate pans fitted together, but actually one pan with a full depth partition in the center to keep the heat in and the flavors apart. There's no blending of odors, either, for a separate cover fits snugly over each compartment. A guarantee of stainlessness is another pleasant item found now on many of the aluminum pieces. There's a savor of elbow grease, if nothing else.

Since chipped ice seems to be in great demand for one reason and another these days, beverage enthusiasts are finding a small chubby red cedar pail quite a conserver of chips. Such pails come in various sizes and shapes and are excellent storage containers for extra ice cubes or for providing a good stubborn backstop for an ice pick. Evaporation and other laws of physics we have forgotten how to account for the slow melting of ice placed thus in such wooden pails.

Salt Shakers for Outings.

While we won't quibble about the price of half a cellar of salt spilled in the picnic basket, it might, after all, rather spoil the sandwiches, so we greet the neat slide-top salt and pepper shakers especially designed for outings, as another aid to the food budget. And have you seen the tricky orange squeezer which does away with juicy hands and weary wrists by merely pressing the juice from the cut fruit with one motion—letting it pour straight down into the glass as it comes from the orange? Most pleasant, I assure you.

And lest the eggs get broken in the refrigerator carton, why not one of the airy wire baskets especially designed to fit into the shelves? Or for conserving elbow grease one of the new ball bearing rolling pins for a hurry-up job of pie making?

Oh, there's simply no doubt about it—the real solution to the famous depression lies in the kitchen. Give us but one more season of equipment food savers and the day will be won.

ROMANS HAD NAME FOR IT— 'EGG TO APPLE'

Americans in describing a particularly ample repast, often speak of the courses "from soup to nuts" but history reveals the Romans had a different phrase which indicated their courses ran from "the egg to the apple."

Some of the history of the use of eggs has been collected by Miss Abby L. Marlatt of the home economics department of the University of Wisconsin. Fables, she says, indicate that in the olden days dreaming of eating an egg was interpreted to mean that the white stood for silver and the yolk for gold that the dreamer would receive.

"We have much the same appreciation for the eggs today because of its importance in feeding children," says Miss Marlatt. "It is gold for the young because it contains so much of what is necessary in keeping the child healthy.

"The yolk contains vitamins A, B, C, D and G as well as a large amount of phosphorus and iron in easily usuable form and a small amount of copper, so needed in blood building, as well as other useful minerals."

Economy? Fine if Quality Isn't Lost—Consider Soap

BY NANCY STONE.

When next you attempt to jump four-footed onto Sally-by-the-hour for scrubbing a hole in husband's shirt and popping runs right and left in tender hose and fragile underthings, look before you leap and consider your soap supply.

For in these days when people are watching with a gimlet eye every cent expended and are shopping lustily on all sides for bargains, there has been a natural tendency to confuse quantity and quality. In some commodities this does not matter. In the buying of soap bars and soap flakes for home use it has mattered tremendously—and disastrously.

That mountainous five pound box of soap flakes, for example, which sells for the price of the usual moderate sized carton, looks like a good buy. Also a mammoth cake of laundry soap offered at the price of the well known smaller cake, has, to the uninitiated, a decidedly appealing look.

When Saving Is Costly.

But actions speak louder than words. While the housewife is patting herself on the back for saving pennies on cheap soap, she may be laying up sorrow for herself in thread bare faded clothes, squandered money and red swollen hands. For when these innocent looking "depression soaps" get together with a test tube and a chemist some distressing and, to the average consumer, wholly unexpected facts come to light.

In the first place, our alluring box of cheap soap flakes and oversized bars prove on analysis to be at least 40 per cent injurious lye and filler, and barely 60 per cent actual soap. This means that bulk for bulk soaps of reputable manufacturers give twice as much suds—actual value on the scrubboard—as its cheap imitations now flooding the market.

Forty per cent free lye and filler—what does that mean? Actually, lye is caustic soda. While 100 per cent soap dislodges dirt by cutting grease and by soaking, lye literally burns the dirt loose. But in taking out dirt, lye also attacks the fabric, steadily weakening the fibres and bleaching the colors. Lye soaps of this type are especially injurious to silk and have a decidedly shrinking effect upon woolens.

Injurious Effect on Skin.

That part of the injurious 40 per cent which is not lye is made up of insoluble material intended merely to give bulk to the soap. It works into the fabric and literally tears it to pieces.

But the last and to many of us the most telling indictment against soap frauds is the injurious effect that they have on the skin. Lye, to do its work of eating dirt from clothes, is easily strong enough to eat the skin from unprotected hands submerged in it.

TRY NORWEGIAN COOKIES; THEY ARE DELIGHTFUL

If you want something for refreshments at your next party that will be unusual and new, try something really old—Norwegian cookies.

This suggestion is given by Miss Thelma Larkin, an instructor in foods and nutrition at Iowa State college. Miss Larkin says the cookies are novel and delightful for afternoon teas and that in Norway they are always served with afternoon coffee.

These delicacies are called "Berlinerkranse" because of the wreath shape in which the cookies are made. A recipe suggested by Miss Larkin is as follows:

4 raw yolks.
½ pound berry sugar [finely granulated].
1½ pounds flour.
1 pound fresh butter [wash if it is too salty].
¼ to ½ teaspoon cardamon seed.

Mix the egg yolks well with the sugar. Add the butter and mix. Then add the cardamon seed, which is finely ground [you can buy it that way now]. Add flour, but keep a little out of the dough for use on the board. Work with fingers when it becomes difficult to mix with the spoon. Now place it in the icebox until the dough becomes chilled so that it is sufficiently stiff to handle. Roll it with the palms of both hands into short, thin cylinders about 3 to 3½ inches long and ½ inch in diameter. Make a tiny wreath of this roll by crossing or overlapping the ends. Brush the tops of the berlinerkranse with beaten egg white. A soft cloth folded several times and cut into strips on one side makes an excellent brush for this purpose. Sprinkle crushed loaf sugar over the tops and bake in a moderate oven [395 degrees F.] for about 10 minutes. When baked they should be a very delicate brown [really beige in color] with sparkling crystal surfaces.

Try This the Next Time You Serve Baked Apple

The next time you serve baked apples surprise your family by dressing them up with this honey filling: Beat a half cup of cream until stiff and whip in gradually 1 to 2 tablespoons honey, ¼ cup chopped nuts, and a pinch of salt. Serve in the center of baked apples.

MAPLE SUGAR CROP FOR YEAR TO TOTAL 20,000,000 POUNDS

"Crops" of maple sugar and maple syrup in the various eastern and midwest states which have maple groves that are tapped each spring indicate that the United States can count on a total production of 20,000,000 pounds of sugar to last until the harvest again next spring.

From Pennsylvania west, the maple sugar makers found there was less sap to gather and consequently less sugar and syrup than a year ago, but larger harvests were made in Vermont, New York, Maine, New Hampshire and Massachusetts.

Ohio and Michigan trees fell far below their average output while Pennsylvania and Wisconsin were about one fourth less than usual. According to Walter H. Ebing, agricultural statistician for Wisconsin, the season was short and late, but this was partly made up by tapping more trees than in average years. The Wisconsin crop is estimated at 3,500 pounds of sugar and 446,000 gallons of syrup.

WAFFLES TOUGH? HUBBY TOUGHER! TRY THIS RECIPE

Make Him Raise a Smile with Raised Batter.

BY PHYLLIS HAMMOND.

Women talk about food—in spite of seeming sophistication. With so many wives now doing their own cooking it has become the subject of conversation as frequently as golfers' discussions of courses or autoists talk of cars.

They are constantly on the look out for the "new" and the "different." Appetites of their families must not be jaded. Children must be kept well with wholesome, yet appetite tempting dishes. I ran across one of these discussions the other afternoon and incidentally learned a new trick with waffles.

Bridging the Way to Food.

We were in the midst of a hot bridge game. Every one was playing with that reckless sort of abandon found in bridge games during an especially exciting conversation [which after all is what most bridge games are for—conversation, arguments, and the like]. We had progressed from "How is the baby and Clarice's cough," through the stages of "Tom is so fickle," and "I certainly love the way you're doing your hair now," to the most important subject of all—food, which in the end greatly affects baby, Clarice, Tom, and even your hair and complexion.

"I can't understand John at all," Gladys was saying excitedly, dropping cigaret ashes all over the carpet. "Every morning he complains about having the 'same old thing' for breakfast. I do try to have different combinations of breakfast dishes, but I never satisfy him. I'll never forget the week he spent at home when his father was ill. When he returned all I heard was, 'mother's doughnuts, and mother's waffles, and mother's this and mother's that.' I nearly went crazy.

Waffles Tough as Husband.

"Then I thought I'd make some waffles, just to see if he wouldn't stop talking about them. He stopped all right. They were such limp things that John just looked at me with those great brown eyes of his. I took the dish away, threw them out, and had a good cry after he left."

Gina, a little bit of a girl in blue, who had been married two years now, opened her eyes and sat up. It wasn't like Gladys to cry over waffles, even though she was a new bride. "Waffles are hard to get just right," she drawled. "Frank used to be awfully sarcastic about my coffee and just lots of the new things I used to try."

"Of course you've heard of the new yeast waffles," this came superciliously from my partner, Doris. "If you work carefully with them, they are bound to be a success."

They Do Right by Doris.

Every one settled back; when Doris spoke you had to. She was that kind. "You see," she continued, "we raise practically all our breadstuffs, either through beating, eggs, or yeast. [Two or three of us remembered at this point that Doris had majored in home economics at dear old Rutgers, and we were properly awed.]

"No one thinks of eating unleavened bread, biscuits, or cake. Yet, our waffles could be so much lighter and could have that 'different' flavor by using yeast."

Methodical Gina tore a sheet of paper from the score pad. "Can't you give us the recipe right now?" she asked. "I think we'd all like to try them."

Batter Needs Night's Ageing.

"It's very simple," Doris answered. This is the recipe just as she gave it:

Start the night before. Dissolve one-fourth cake of yeast in one-third of a cup of water. Heat to just below the boiling point, one and one-third cups of milk. Remove from fire, add two tablespoons of butter, two tablespoons of sugar, and one teaspoon of salt. When this has cooled, add the yeast.

Sift into a bowl two cups of flour and add your liquid mixture. Beat well, cover and let stand over night. In the morning add two well beaten eggs and bake. The batter will be quite thin in comparison with other waffle batters, but don't let this scare you into adding more flour. If the waffles are wanted for supper, set the batter in the morning. Keep your bowl out of drafts and cover with a cloth while raising.

MENUS FOR THE WEEK-END

BY MARY MEADE.

Bright eyes, glossy hair, clear skin—these and a good many other to-be-desired qualities of masculine and feminine beauty have for years been laid at the door of—carrots. Today, while we would hardly be so brave as to claim that this interesting orange vegetable will work miracles over night, the real health value of carrots is quite able to boast for itself.

In fact, with the new discoveries of vitamins at our elbow, it is quite easy to believe the old story of the doctor who was asked to prescribe for a rather below par girl. His orders were, "Take claret three times a day." Soon the girl began to bloom and thrive, and the doctor was much pleased with himself. He never did know that his patient had misunderstood and thought that he had prescribed "carrots three times a day."

Carrots, like most vegetables, are mostly water. Of the remainder, there is a little over 1 per cent each of protein and of minerals, a trace of fat, vitamins A, B, and C, and over 9 per cent carbohydrate. This carbohydrate or energy food, by the way, is easily digested, being not starch at all, but vegetable sugars. Iron is the important carrot mineral, placing this well liked vegetable next to spinach in iron content.

There is a host of interesting things to be conjured from a bunch of baby carrots this spring. They're tender and crisp now, and so let's get them into the menu raw as often as possible. This insures the full value of vitamins and minerals and gives a good workout for lazy jaws. Careful cooking, however, will save most of the important elements if the recipe calls for a softer texture. They may be steamed, or cut in sections lengthwise, or in crosswise slices, and boiled almost dry.

ENGLISH CARROTS.

A British sidelight on what's good in carrot cookery goes like this: Cut eight baby carrots in strips lengthwise and place in a frying pan in which one-half sliced onion has been browned in butter. Add two tart apples cut in eighths, salt and cinnamon to taste, and sprinkle over the whole a tablespoon of sugar. Add one-third cup water, cover and simmer until the carrots are tender.

CARROT CANAPES.

To start the meal in a different manner, have you tried carrot canapés? For these I use rounds of white bread, cut thin and toasted. On each round spread a thick, even layer of the following mixture: One cup finely grated raw carrots mixed with ¾ cup finely chopped hard cooked egg, ¼ teaspoon onion juice, 1 teaspoon lemon juice blended with a little French dressing. On the center of each canapé place a slice of stuffed olive.

There's a carrot casserole dish, too, which, though you may not have discovered it, is a most delicious treat. Simply split the carrots lengthwise and steam or boil till tender. Place them in a buttered baking dish, flat side up, and cover with alternate layers of grated cheese, thin strips of bacon, and more carrots. Top with bacon and bake in a hot oven [400 degree F.] until the bacon is crisp.

These versatile carrots are also grand companions for roast beef or pork. Cook them in the roasting pan the last half hour. Or candied carrots cooked just as you do candied sweet potatoes add a tantalizing sweetness to a ham dinner. Carrots and apple, carrots and ground peanuts, carrots and pineapple in gelatine—they all make blithe spring salads folk will really like. And soufflés add a touch of surprise and flavor when they take to themselves a half cup rice cooked carrot.

I should like to send you the exact recipes for any of these carrot specials you would like to have. And I also have one you will like for carrot soufflé and one for carrot pudding. Will you write and let me prove it?

300,000 GROCERS SUPPLY FOOD OF U. S. FAMILIES

According to the 1930 census of distribution there are 204,345 groceries without meat departments in the United States and 94,923 with meat departments.

The department of labor investigated 12,000 working class families with incomes ranging from $900 to $2,100 and learned that they spent 36 per cent of those incomes for food.

Pot Roast and Vegetables Make Appetizing Dish

In its regular weekly report issued for the guidance of consumers, the Meat Council of Chicago states:

"Pot roast of beef is recommended to the housewives of Chicago as an unusually economical meat buy over the coming week-end. The low price of this cut and the availability of many fresh vegetables make it possible to serve an attractive and nutritious meal at low cost."

HOTHOUSES TURN OUT CUCUMBERS FOR CHICAGOANS

Hothouses in Illinois, Indiana, Oklahoma and Iowa are busy turning out thousands of green cucumbers for consumption in Chicago and other food centers where shoppers demand and get fresh fruits and vegetables 12 months of the year. Within the last two months the cucumbers have come down nearly 50 per cent in retail price and can now be sold with a fair margin for the storekeeper at 12 to 16 cents each, depending on size and quality.

SPRING FEVER? TRY VEGETABLE DIETS AS TONIC

Serve 'Em in Colors and Tempt Appetites.

BY FLORA MARTIN.

Vegetables and more vegetables are the general order of most cooks when they go marketing. Years ago it was the practice to dose the family with spring tonics of sulphur and molasses and similar concoctions, but now with modern housewives using vegetables the year around and prescribing double vegetable doses for the spring, the old fashioned tonics have gone the way of other old time remedies.

Neighborhood shop windows offer an almost endless supply of vegetable material to tempt lagging appetites and dress up spring luncheon and dinner tables. Some can be combined in salads, others can be made into side dishes, and many can be used for garnishing and decorating drab meat dishes.

Get 'Em in Colors.

Topmost in the greens for garnishments are sprigs of parsley which can do double and even triple duty in dressing up food dishes. Following through in the same color scheme are crisp lettuce leaves, young green onions, cucumbers, green peppers, asparagus, beans, and peas. Tomatoes, pimentos, beets, scarlet tipped radishes, and red peppers predominate in the reds.

That's only a small part of the list of vegetables which can be introduced into menus in different guises, but in those alone there is plenty of material to use for adorning spring tables.

For an extra dose of vegetable "tonic" a mess of spinach or beet tops might be cooked. Or to get away from the meat and potato idea, which is so firmly ensconced in menus, a fresh vegetable dinner unhampered by alien foods can be planned.

Green Peppers Suggested.

There are many ways of giving vegetables spring treatment and getting away from the same old time worn recipes. For instance, green peppers can be treated in several different ways. THE TRIBUNE cooking department recommends cutting the peppers in different shapes and designs for salads, mincing them and tossing over creamed dishes as garnishments, or French frying them.

For French frying, cut the peppers into strips about three-fourths of an inch wide, dip them first into a beaten egg and then into fine bread crumbs until covered with a thick covering. Then fry them in fat which is hot enough to toast a cube of bread in sixty seconds, for about three minutes. These can be served on toast or slices of bread.

WISCONSIN SHIPS OUT 16,186 CARLOADS OF FOOD IN LAST YEAR

Fruit and vetgetable producers in Wisconsin shipped out 16,186 carloads of food in 1931, according to a compilation by the crop reporting service of the state and federal departments of agriculture. Much of this produce came to Chicago for consumption or for distribution to other consuming centers.

Potatoes filled 11,908 cars, in addition to shipments by truck. Cabbage shipped out of the state totaled 3,470 cars and onions 225 cars.

Other crops of sufficient importance to be included in the report on shipments include apples, 136 cars; cranberries, 175; turnips and rutabagas, 163; cherries, 22 cars, and smaller shipments of beets, carrots, mixed vegetables, strawberries and tomatoes.

G.O.P. Women Plan Parties for Delegates

Secretary Hurley to Be Dinner Guest.

Wednesday night the Paul McBrides and Mr. and Mrs. Albert B. Dick Jr. will give a dinner, and Friday night the bride's parents will give a family party for their daughter and her husband-to-be.

Anniversary Parties Popular.

June brides and bridegrooms of other years are having a grand time these days at anniversary parties. Mr. and Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes are giving a dinner this evening at their Evanston residence to celebrate their thirty-ninth wedding anniversary and the forty-first anniversary of the Theodore W. Robinsons in Lake Forest. Dr. Sven Hedin, the Swedish explorer and archaeologist, and the French consul general, M. Rene Weiller, and Mme. Weiller will be among the guests.

Miss Mildred Chapin Penfield and Mrs. Leland Keith of Worcester, Mass., will be maid and matron of honor for Miss Mary Penfield at her wedding to Waldo Morgan Allen tomorrow evening. The bridesmaids will be Mrs. Graham Penfield of St. Louis and Mrs. Henry Day Penfield of Evanston.

C. Durand Allen of Hubbard Woods will be best man for his brother and the ushers will include another brother of the bridegroom, Henry E. Allen of Easton, Pa., Henry Day Penfield, Joseph E. Otis Jr., Francis Beidler II, Durand Smith, and Calvin Trowbridge.

The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Paul A. Wolfe at 8:30 o'clock in the chapel of the First Presbyterian church of Evanston. A small reception will follow at the Woman's Club of Evanston.

The Vocational Society for Shut-Ins will hold a sale today at the residence of Mrs. Henry L. Glidden at 639 Montgomery road, Highland Park. Mrs. Dewes Burgweger is president.

Bathing suits and white shoes will be on sale today at the White Elephant Rummage shop. The junior auxiliary of the Children's Memorial hospital will be in charge for the day, with Miss Elizabeth Drake as head saleswoman, assisted by Mrs. James E. Vaughn, Mrs. Augustus K. Maxwell, and Mrs. Woodbury S. Agar Jr.

Mrs. Donnelley in Paris Again.

Mrs. Pauling Donnelley, who spent the winter in Paris, is back in the French capital again after a trip to Holland to see the spring blooming of the tulips, and it seems likely now that she will travel on the continent this summer instead of returning to Lake Forest as her friends had expected.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Pauling, are not planning to leave their Astor street residence during the warm weather months except for a short holiday in the east later on in the season.

Mrs. Charles F. Glore departed yesterday for Europe to meet her daughter, Frances Hicks Glore, and bring her back to Lake Forest after a year of study at Lausanne, Switzerland.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hibbard of 1301 Astor street have moved out to their house at Shore Acres for the summer. Mrs. Hibbard's little shop, "Conveniences," will be reopened in October for the numerous personal services which she and her helpers perform for the sake of her various charities.

Mr. and Mrs. Burridge D. Butler have returned from their winter place in Arcadia, just south of Phoenix, and have opened their house in Hinsdale for the summer.

Mrs. Rodney S. Mason is convalescing after an illness at the residence of her mother, Mrs. William J. Louderback, in Lake Forest. Mrs. Louderback remained at her country place all winter and enjoyed it so much that she says she doubts if she will ever come to town again for the winter months as she did for years.

Mrs. Alvin C. McCord and her daughter, Mrs. McCord Phillips, of 191 East Walton place, have gone to Hyannisport, Mass., for the summer.

The Andrew J. Dallstreams of 21 East Elm street have taken a house in Barrington for the summer.

Miss Louise Stanton, daughter of the Henry Stantons of St. Charles, Ill., and Miss Betty Edmonds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Edmonds of Winnetka, were graduated yesterday from Miss Kendrick's school in Cincinnati and will return to their respective homes today. Mrs. Stanton motored to Cincinnati for Louise's graduation and is driving back with her.

The box sale for the South Shore Country club horse show, which opens next Tuesday, got off to a good start early this week. Some of the boxholders include William R. Alcorn, E. Malcolm Anderson, Mrs. Lawrence Heyworth, O. T. Henkle, J. G. Chapline, James Ballentine, Raymond Treadway, Arthur G. Leonard, Henry P. Conkey, Raymond T. Smith, William W. Vincent, Henry Woods, Clinton G. Rood, H. M. Schmidt, and Thomas T. North.

Assists at Two Benefits

Miss Lucie Jacobs is one of the debutantes assisting tonight at the dance to be given at the Sunset Ridge Country club in Winnetka for the benefit of the nursery school of Gad's Hill Center. Miss Jacobs also is chairman of a group of young girls who will serve tea tomorrow afternoon at a garden party in Winnetka for the benefit of the Park Ridge School for Girls. The party is to be held in the gardens of the Mark W. Cresaps' and the Charles R. Jacobs' residences on Woodley road. Mrs. Willard Jaques is to talk on "Moderns in the Garden" and Sam Lipp will discuss "The European Influence in American Gardens." The hours are from 3 to 7.

Yachtsmen of Chicago Hear the Call of Waters Again

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

"I must go down to the sea again, for the call of the running tide
Is a wild call and a clear call that may not be denied."

Chicago's yachtsmen are singing John Masefield's lines these days for they have it in their veins, a desire to push out to sea. Many a craft in both the cottage and mansion classes have been launched and the rest will put in an appearance some time during the gay month of June.

First of all, have you heard that Capt. Donald B. MacMillan and Count Felix von Luckner are to visit Chicago this summer as the guests of Commander and Mrs. Eugene F. McDonald Jr.? Almost immediately upon their arrival July 8, Commander McDonald plans to take them aboard his handsome boat, the Mizpah, for a cruise of the great lakes.

"This will be the first summer Capt. MacMillan has spent in civilization since 1909," Commander McDonald said. "And this only because he is tied up with a series of lectures at Bowdoin college, his alma mater. He has traveled the salt waters far and wide, so I plan to show him something of our fresh waterways."

The Mizpah is anchored now in the downtown harbor and so is the Freedom, Sterling Morton's big schooner brought here only recently from a winter in Florida.

The Romance, the George Woodruffs large craft, is being put in shape now for an active summer, I am told. This yacht was not afloat last year but, according to preliminary plans, Mr. and Mrs. Woodruff plan to do considerable cruising in the Lake Superior and Georgian bay regions.

There is also promise of a good racing season ahead, Richard G. Jones, one of the Chicago Yacht club's racing enthusiasts, reports. Commodore Clark Wright and Addison B. Scott will have the Privateer out, and Otto C. Schoenwork will be active with the Katinka. Prominent in the small open boat class will be Fred D. Porter, owner of the Sparkler, and Samuel Goss, who has the Carol.

It really matters little what type of boat a person has, for there's a thrill in any one of them—that of handling the craft, pushing out beyond the horizon, exploring strange waters or dropping anchor in some quite cove or landlocked harbor. Primitive man probably had no greater triumph than when he discovered that the rushes or trunks he had tied together would convey him safely across the stream that had hitherto been his barrier.

Recall your early history and you will remember that the genesis of the modern boat and ship is to be found in the raft and the hollowed out trunk of a fallen tree. Then as use multiplied want discovered deficiencies and suggested improvements, the bow and stern were shaped, the sides bulged out, the bottom flattened, and a keel piece invented—all of this leading up to our modern motor launches with Father Noah's ark and Ulysses craft as landmarks along the trail. Interesting enough, the canoe is generally regarded as the intermediate stage between the dugout and the boat.

So many of us are inclined to believe that boat motoring is only a rich man's pastime. But as a matter of fact, just as the land motorist may choose either an inexpensive auto bike or a Blitzen-Benz, so the boatman may obtain a tiny outboard craft for inland waterways or a seagoing $2,000,000 yacht for Mediterranean use. And, as one of Chicago's yachtsmen pointed out the other day, the cruiser afloat always "has it" on the automobile tourist because he carries his home with him. No hotels to hunt up, no camp to make, but always a comfortable cabin with a bed, a galley, and an ice box.

the home as a citizen's castle and the guarantee against twice subjecting a citizen for the same offense.

All this usurpation of power, the building up of a great bureaucracy and pay roll armies, got its footing. Mr. Edmunds remarks, largely through the policy of "federal aid," a system of robbing Peter to pay Paul, an offer by congress of public money for certain objects if the states would appropriate supplemental sums. Invariably, the book says, these federal aid acts have elevated the federal bureau having authority to allocate the money to dominance in the particular field, thus helping to push out the state and to repose more power in the centralized government at Washington.

Cites Rise of Bureau Law.

The nourishment the "Federal Octopus" has derived from all these various processes is such that nearly two million people are now in the pay of the federal government, and including the interested members of their families as voters, the partisans of this pay roll order may reach five million or more, all of whom may be counted on to resist curtailment of bureaucracy.

One of the most revolutionary changes wrought by the growth of "The Octopus" has been the tremendous increase in "administrative law" which has got its foothold in recent years through the increasing numbers of boards, commissions and bureaus created by congress.

Mr. Edmunds points out the extent to which congress has delegated authority to these boards to make rules and regulations having the force of law, to sit in judgment under them and to enforce them, and he declares that slowly but surely with the growth of federal administrative power these administrative courts are absorbing the judicial business of the country.

As examples he cites a report that in 1927, 85 departments, bureaus and commissions of the federal government had promulgated 100,000 or more laws all carrying penalties for violations, many of them unwritten and unpublished. Between 1901 and 1929 no less than 492 bureaus, boards and commissions, according to one authority, were set up by congress to rob the citizen of his ordinary law and his ordinary courts.

The effect, Mr. Edmunds points out, is to subject the citizen to clerk-made law and administrative judges, to the subversion of what is known as "the law of the land" or "due process of law."

One of the absorbing chapters in the book deals with federal bureaus at work, another with the Supreme court and the constitution, the author declaring that in 142 years the Supreme court heard more than 30,000 cases, and in all this large litigation has declared fifty-four acts or parts of acts unconstitutional. He says the Supreme court has not been an effective instrument in combating congressional usurpations.

It is the sort of book the reader can read half a dozen times and spear fresh chunks of meat at each reading. The remedy suggested by the author is a return to fundamental principles through a national constitutional convention.

Singer for Benefit Concert

Mrs. Henry Haven Windsor II. of Winnetka, the former Louise Hunter of the Metropolitan Opera company, will give a concert next Tuesday evening at the Country Club of Evanston under the auspices of the Evanston Associated Charities. In this photograph Mrs. Windsor is costumed as "Manon" in the opera of that name by Massenet.

Leland Lincoln Articles Bring "Very Good Prices"

The Henry M. Leland collection of Lincolnia was sold at auction last night at prices regarded by collectors as being "very good considering the times." Lithograph prints of the civil war era, in which the collection of the late Detroiter was unusually rich, sold at prices better than those received in many previous sales. Autographs, however, sold under former prices. One hundred and seventy-one items were sold. A considerable part was purchased for Brown university at Providence, R. I. Eastern collectors also bought many items, although Chicago collectors were active in bidding, especially on the lithographs. A letter written by the emancipator to the Illinois Central railroad, which he was representing in a lawsuit in 1854, was sold for $475.

Club Leaders Give Party to Please Selves

Forget Responsibilities to Members.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Close to 1,500 club women who spent the last year planning cultural programs aimed to please their most exacting sisters went to a party strictly for themselves yesterday at the Stevens hotel. They were members of the Conference of Club Presidents and Program Chairmen, said to be the only club of its kind in the world.

Since the club was founded 17 years ago by Mrs. Charles S. Clark, its present president, the members have met periodically in Fullerton hall of the Art institute to hear sample programs where talent in the fields of music, drama, science, art, and education sought to gain favorable recognition.

But yesterday these club women did not gather to select promising talent for their club meetings. They dined royally on a six course luncheon in the grand ballroom and sat back and enjoyed a five hour program especially in their honor presented by a brilliant array of experts in music, literature and drama.

At the speakers' table were thirty-five celebrities, including Harriett Monroe, editor of the Magazine of Verse and recent winner of the Chicago Foundation of Literature award. There were Cecilia Loftus and Basil Rathbone of "The Devil Passes" cast, and Ethel Barrymore Colt, daughter of Ethel Barrymore, the actress, all of whom said a few words in behalf of the fine arts.

There was also an imposing list of guests, including Mrs. Waller Borden, who engineered the "Breadline Frolics" production of the unemployed men in shelters; Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy of the woman's division of the Joint Emergency Relief; Mrs. William F. Farrell, president of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs. There were Mrs. Julie Rive-King, composer-pianiste, and Nelle Richmond Eberhart, librettist; Frank O'Hara of the drama department of the University of Chicago and others.

Following the introduction of the guests the afternoon was given over to a recital by Cecilia Loftus, actress, who gave imitations of the Duncan Sisters, Mrs. Fiske, Harry Lauder, and Ethel Barrymore; Berta Ochsner, dancer, who gave a dance concert assisted by Emily Boettcher at the piano, and the Russian Cossack chorus directed by Sergei Sokoloff.

Fat Girls! Here's a Tip for You

"Dear Sirs: This is my fifth bottle of Kruschen Salts and I sure will say it's wonderful. When I started to take it I was 164 lbs. Now thanks to your Salts I'm down to 129 lbs. Good Luck to you in the New Year". Sincerely, Mrs. Clara Christenson, Belmar, N. J., January 22, 1932.

All over the world Kruschen Salts is appealing to girls and women who strive for an attractive, free from fat figure that cannot fail to win admiration.

Here's the recipe that banishes fat and brings into blossom all that natural attractiveness that every woman possesses and does it SAFELY and HARMLESSLY.

In the morning take one half teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast—cut down on pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes.

"It's the little daily dose that takes off the fat," and brings that Kruschen feeling of energetic health and activity that is reflected in bright eyes, clear skin, cheerful vivacity and charming figure.

But be sure for your health's sake that you get Kruschen. A bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs you little. You can always get Kruschen at any druggist and money back if not satisfied with results after first bottle.

Sudden Love

By ELISABETH SANXAY HOLDING

SYNOPSIS.

Esmee Sully spends her forlorn young life between the office, where she is an inefficient typist, and a dismal home. Mrs. Sully loves her three children blindly, but doesn't know how to direct their spiritual or physical needs. Cynthia, the oldest, has been deserted by her husband, Lew, a year older than Esmee, is mingling in bad company. Esmee can berely remember the days before her father's death when they had had a cheerful home. Jimmy Consadine forces Lew to introduce him to Esmee. Lew warns her she'll make trouble unless she keeps away from Jimmy. She is fascinated by Jimmy's grand manner, but finds him an unmanageable lover. Lew gets in a jam. Esmee promises to get him money. She's afraid to ask Jimmy. She meets Arthur Twining at the home of a former woman employer. He is attentive to Esmee, impressed by her beauty and guilelessness. In her anguish she tells him her troubles and offers to help. Arthur's roommate is Michael Marriott, a dissipated young playwright, imbued with the futility of life. When Esmee meets him it's love at first sight and she feels his need of her is real. Esmee is late keeping a dinner engagement with Michael, because of Jimmy, who threatens trouble. When she gets to Michael's apartment she is met by Twining and Michael's sister, Mrs. Cowley, but no Michael. Returning home she finds Michael waiting for her. He'd been drinking heavily. Esmee takes him home in a cab, but he has no key and can't get in. In desperation she takes him to a hotel and registers as his wife. When she calls the hotel next morning she learns that Michael has checked out. That evening Claire Cowley invites Esmee to dinner and tells her that Michael is engaged. But when Michael calls Esmee goes to see him. He tells her his engagement is broken, that he can't live without her and wants to marry her.

INSTALLMENT XVII.

NO TIME FOR LOVE.

"And nothing can really happen to me. I can look after myself," thought Esmee, to whom life had already been so cruel, who had, in her brief life, tried so valiantly to take care of others, and had looked after herself so ill.

"On Monday, Michael," she said, "I'll see you then, Michael dear. And—I think everything'll be all right."

"Do you?" said Marriott, with a sidelong glance.

She kissed him with a sort of hurried fierceness.

"Now I've got to go home, Michael. I've got to see about things. . . . Only Michael! Please be knowing every minute how I'm loving you."

"I'm going to take you home."

"I'd rather you didn't please, Michael. . . . I'm going away happy, darling. I'll think of you."

He held her so tight that she could scarcely breathe.

"You poor little lamb!" he cried. "Little Joan of Arc—without any armor . . ."

"I've got you, Michael."

"You've got me," he said somberly.

Aware that Miss Bartram was thinking about calls in office hours.

When she was with Michael she felt strong and sure. But when she was in the taxi he had got for her, alone, that strength and that sureness began to ebb. She began to visualize Jimmy as he actually was.

She could not speak to him as she did to Michael. Perhaps he loved her; he had said so; but it was so different a love. Michael was tender to her, and gentle. He wanted to make her happy. But she could not believe that Jimmy cared much if she were happy or not. He wanted to possess her whether that meant her happiness or her anguish. What could she say to him, how could she appeal to him to let Lew go, unless she were prepared to offer herself as a sacrifice? And not only herself, but Michael.

"Because Michael does need me!" she thought. "I know I can help him. I love him. I do love him so . . ."

She wondered if she could trick Jimmy, beguile him into letting Lew go.

"No!" she thought, in despair. "I can't possibly even let Jimmy kiss me—ever again. . . . Yet I've got to see him Sunday. If I don't he'll make dreadful trouble for Lew—and for Michael. . . ."

There came to her eighteen year old mind stories she had heard and read of the entrancing women of the past, women who had made men their slaves.

"Well, couldn't I?" she thought, doubtfully. "I must be attractive for Michael to love me. And Jimmy. . . . And Michael said Mr. Twining. . . . Can't I do anything with Jimmy . . . ?"

She wanted to think so. She thought of methods, devices.

"If I said I didn't exactly love him—but I'd always be his friend. . . ."

"Then back came the image of Jimmy's insolent, smiling face. . . . And after all, she had told Jimmy she would marry him. . . .

"He knows about Michael," she thought. "Of course he just thinks I've cheated. . . . Well, if I beg him. . . . O, if he cares for me even a little bit he can't hurt me so."

He could, though. There was no mercy in Jimmy.

"Well, anyhow!" she cried to herself. "I've got to try. I've got to go out with him Sunday. If I don't go I don't know what he'll do to Lew and Michael. . . ."

For a moment the idea occurred to her of appealing to Twining. He had been kind, and he was so temperate, so cool, so sane. But shame restrained her. She could not let that correct, that conventional young man, know about Lew. He wouldn't, he couldn't understand. Michael could and would understand every human frailty and pain—but Michael would be rash, mad, in his anger against Jimmy, his impatience to save her.

"No," she thought, "this is something I've got to handle alone—and I've got to succeed. I've got to manage Jimmy."

She badly wanted to talk with Lew, but he was out when she got home. And her mother and Cynthia were waiting, eager to hear about the dinner.

"But, darling," Cynthia said. "You ought to be more careful about your hair. It's so wild and silky. . . . You ought to try to slip off some place where there's a mirror now and then, and comb it. . . . But you look sweet. . . . Now tell us all about it!"

"Are they really nice people, dearie?" asked Mrs. Sully.

"O, yes!" said Esmee. "Awfully nice."

"Who were there?"

"O—just Mr. and Mrs. Cowley. . . ."

"Hadn't they asked a man for you?" said Cynthia.

"Well, no," said Esmee. "No. They hadn't. . . ."

"How queer! Will it lead to anything, do you think, Esmee? Will they introduce you to other people?"

Cynthia was so anxious, so genuinely, lovingly anxious, that Esmee should have a chance. She believed that she herself had had a chance and had lost it. At nineteen she had married, with a debonair recklessness, a young clerk in a theater ticket agency. They had loved each other. They might have been happy. But Cynthia, not without reason, had conceived a horror of the domestic life. For so long it had been for her only squalor, disorder, discomfort. She, too, had had a job then, copy writer in a mail order house, and she and her young husband had gone to live in a hotel—a cheap little hotel. They had eaten their meals in cheap restaurants. They had spent more than they could afford in going out to dances, to plays. With too little food, too little sleep, with incessant worry about bills, they had quarreled. And when Jack had wanted them to take a little flat, Cynthia had been bitterly affronted.

"And I'm to come home tired, and cook and wash dishes!" she had cried.

She would have been glad enough to do that now. But somehow the quarrel had grown to monstrous proportions. Cynthia, with her hot pride, would make no concessions. Jack had gone and she had let him go. And had not seen him for two years, and longed for him, missed him, regretted with all her soul that she had allowed that debonair and innocent and lovely romance to die.

She went out now and then with other men, but she cared for none of them. Something had gone out of her life and left a dreadful emptiness. She had had her moments when she had longed almost irresistably to telephone to Jack, to get him back, at any cost to her pride. But she had managed not to do so. Let him be the one. . . .

Both she and Mrs. Sully must have seen from Esmee's face that something had gone amiss with the evening, for they asked no more questions, and she went to bed to lie long awake in the dark beside Cynthia—listening for Lew, until at last she fell asleep, and dreamed something sad, from which she waked with a start.

"O, I wish I could just love Michael and think about him!" she cried to herself.

But there was, on her fragile shoulders, so great a burden of care and dread and grief. Cynthia's sorrow seemed as if it were her own. Her mother's anxieties were hers, too. She suffered with Lew every step of his strange, dark road. And she was afraid of Jimmy. Now, awake alone in the black night, she admitted that fully. She was afraid of him. Afraid even to see him again.

"I've got to do—just the best I can," she said to herself.

The next day was Saturday and Michael rang her up at the office.

"Esmee—how are you, little dear darling?"

"O! Grand, thanks!" she answered, aware that Miss Bartram was looking at her and thinking things about personal calls in office hours.

"Can't I see you today, Esmee? Dinner?"

"Well, no, thanks. I—Monday, please."

"I don't want to wait till Monday," said Michael.

And that seemed to her entirely reasonable, just, and important.

"Well, I'm terribly sorry," she said. "Only . . . this afternoon I've got to wash my hair."

Miss Bartram gave a small sound like a sigh.

"Call me Monday morning," said Esmee hastily.

"Do you know I've started working again?" said Michael. "Things been in my head for six months, but today, Esmee, I got a start on the third act. I want to do that first. I mean—everything leads up to that. If that's right. . . . And if I get my characters in action, there, then I'll know them. D'you see?"

"Yes, I do see, Michael! I'm so glad you've got started."

"You'd better ring off, Miss Sully," said Miss Bartram.

"Michael, I'm afraid I'll have to get back to work. I'm sorry, Michael."

Esmee hung up the receiver with mutiny in her heart.

"I simply haven't got time to be in love with Michael!" she thought. "It's not fair."

Dog Attacks Wrong Person in Movie Cast

Sixteen Great Danes Used in Making Film.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., June 2.—One of the sixteen great Danes which were used in scenes for Radio-RKO's "The Most Dangerous Game," in which a madman hunts down other men as if they were wild animals just for the sport of it, got his ideas confused and bit his boss of the film instead of his quarry, Joel McCrea. In the film Lester Banks, a mad Russian, lures men to his island and then proceeds to hunt them to their death, using the pack of dogs to aid him. The dog which bit Banks is named Aldo von Odenwald, and before the dog handler could call the dog's name the biting had been consummated.

The great Danes in the film are all show dogs belonging to Mrs. D. H. Hostetter, a Los Angeles society woman. During the filming of some of their scenes last week Mrs. Hostetter worked in overalls mornings at the studio, helping make the dogs behave, and in the afternoon she would go home, discard overalls for dress gowns, and attend the annual convention of the Junior leagues.

Here's part of the system that keeps Jean Harlow's hair so platinum looking. The front office at the MGM studio vouches for it: She has a shampoo every five days or oftener. She adds a few drops of blueing to the liquid soap to make it whiter. More shampoos are necessary now than ever, due to Jean's wearing a wig through "Red Headed Woman."

In Buck Jones' next picture for Columbia, "White Eagle," he plays an Indian during half the film, and a pony express rider at Virginia City, Nev., during the rest of it. The scene is laid in 1868.

Joan Crawford has sent to a kennel in Ohio for a successor to her "Woggles," much publicized Scottie, recently deceased. Woggles was one of the few pet dogs allowed on a movie set. Joan's studio offered to provide another Scottish terrier for her.

Al Jolson was out playing golf with a pal, who, like himself, had been singed in the stock collapse. "What would you give, Al, for 1,000 shares of Warner stock?" the friend asked. "Two thousand shares," Al said, and went on putting.

Events on the Stage

The fourteenth summer season of municipal operetta in St. Louis will begin next Monday night, under the direction of J. J. Shubert. The company includes players who are familiar to Chicago audiences from their participation in long-run operetta engagements at the Great Northern theater and the Grand Opera house. Among the principals are Charlotte Lansing, Natalie Hall, Yvonne D'Arle, Barbara Newberry, Doris Patston, Hope Emerson, Virginia Watson, Genevieve McCormick, Guy Robertson, Leonard Ceeley, George Houston, Carl Randall, Clifford Newdahl, Jack Sheehan, Harry K. Morton, and Victor Casmore.

Fourteen operettas will be given, one a week for the next three months. The opening bill will be "The New Moon," with Charlotte Lansing, Guy Robertson, and Leonard Ceeley in the leading roles. The last will be a novelty—an operetta based on "Cyrano de Bergerac." If successful, this piece will be offered in New York and Chicago next season.

The rehearsals of Lew Leslie's revue, "Clowns in Clover," announced for a première at the Grand Opera house June 12, have been delayed. Plans for this production are now uncertain; and if staged, its Chicago opening will be postponed until June 26 or later.

Mrs. Fitzwilliam Sargent, special representative of the Theater Guild, arrived in Chicago yesterday to clear up the matter of deposits by the Guild's subscribers on tickets to two plays which were omitted from the organization's 1931-'32 season at the Blackstone. The subscribers will be offered refunds in full, or compensating deductions from next season's subscriptions, or reservations for two plays to be sent here by the Guild next season.

A benefit show for unemployed actors will be given Sunday night, June 12, in Vorwaerts Turner hall, Roosevelt road and Western avenue. Twelve first class vaudeville acts will be on the program. C. C.

WEDDINGS

Mrs. Edward H. Brown of Wheaton announces the marriage of her daughter, Virginia Pauline, to Edwin Adam Hoffman of Wheaton on May 21 at Holy Name cathedral.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd L. Bateman of Winnetka announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Barbara Jean, to Paul McLain Corbett, son of Henry B. Corbett of Winnetka, to take place on June 30 at 5 o'clock in the gardens of the Bateman residence.

Wife Fails to Adjust Herself to New Home

Test of the Times Finds Her Wanting.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Adjusting themselves gracefully to a changed and usually cheaper environment is the character test through which a number of women are being put at the moment. A husband's income is reduced. A move to a less expensive neighborhood in the city is desirable, or to a suburban territory.

Some wives meet the situation smilingly. Some grin and bear it. Some rebel and some threaten the disruption of the home completely with their inability to face facts stoically. Among the latter is "Mrs. M.," whose move was from the city to a nearby suburb where rents are cheap and where her husband's place of employment dispenses with commutation far. Also, where the youngsters have a huge lot to race around in.

It is so happens that this husband works nights, leaving his wife alone with the small children. So, fear is one alibi for non-adjustment to the new mode of life. And as the woman says: "You can't imagine what it is like unless you have stayed alone."

We agree that night has terrors for a timid being alone in a house. Still, the woman's big complaint is that she misses her old friends; misses her movies; misses her old shopping haunts, etc. The water is hard in this new territory. The rugs are treated to muddy feet daily. The conveniences of an up to date apartment are missing. All of which complaints may be justified. Still, making a good job of your domestic life means compromise with any number of things.

The fear is the one feature hardest to battle, we'll agree. But even that is a state of mind, and a state of mind exaggerated where general maladjustment is practiced.

The point is that today many women are going through a war test. Unusual sacrifices are demanded, and in most cases must be subscribed to, as there is no other way out. The only hope of survival lies in the attempt to change the state of mind. Try pretending, if necessary, that it is only a matter of temporary inconvenience, that there is a bright tomorrow right around the corner. And always strength may be given the moment by the mere fact that there is a steady breadwinner in the family, a privilege not enjoyed by many, many wives in our country at this time.

If Pollyanism ever needed recruits, it is now. It need not be the maudlin, sickish sort of Pollyanism normal folk detest. But there must be a brighter tomorrow, and it will come quickest to women who grit their teeth and do the best they can with what they have today.

Lupines Offer Many Colors for Gardeners

Proper Soil Chief Item in Cultivation.

BY PAUL POTTER.

The range of colors supplied the garden by lupines, the fact that they may be had in annual and perennial varieties, and their usefulness in both garden schemes and for cut flowers, should be sufficient inducement for more gardeners to become interested in this typically American plant family.

Some of the dwarf lupines lend themselves admirably to use in rock gardens, while the taller kinds come in an array of colors which include white, buff, lavender, salmon, pink, blue, yellow, rose, bicolors, and delicate tints of brown.

Those gardeners who have experienced trouble in growing lupines will find the chief difficulty in the soil, since an alkaline or lime soil is about the only kind in which they do not thrive. The seeds produce plants large enough for transplanting to permanent location in three to four weeks. Many lupines flower the first season from seeds.

Many gardeners who have developed a collection of lupines of special interest report they have used a sandy loam soil in which some fibrous peat has been worked. If they find the plants turning yellow or looking sickly, they work a little sulphur or ammonium sulphate into the soil close to the plants.

In the winter the plants should be covered with a loose leafy or straw mulch. The crowns should not be covered, since they rot easily. Freezing does not harm these plants so much as transplanting them when mature.

Design for Girl's Dress Effectively Contrasts Plain with Printed Cotton

GIRLS' DRESS.

Printed and plain batiste make up attractively in a dress of this kind. The material launders perfectly, and is cool besides. Linen, dimity, percale, tub silk, voile and gingham are among the lovely materials to choose from.

The pattern, 2839, comes in sizes 6, 8, 10, and 12 years. Size 8 requires 1¾ yards of 35 inch material with ⅝ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

Cast Iron Rules Will Not Work with Children

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Question: "I'm not very strong and my younger children help me a lot when I'm down and out. Sometimes they make a mess while they are helping me. And my husband thinks that they are more work than they are worth and that they make more dirt than they clean up, but this isn't so. They generally clean up their own confusion, but sometimes they are too tired and then I don't insist. I just do it and figure that turn about work is only fair and square.

"Do you or do you not think I should clean up after the children when they are tired and do as much for me?"

Answer: I do think you should clean up after such young children and that is probably why they are willing to do so much for you.

Question: "Don't you think it's the spirit that counts with children and that it is better to get children to do things of their own free will, even if you have to wait sometimes, than to whip them into coming right away when you call them in to work?"

Answer: Always it is their spirit that counts and it is this kind of management that works when they are older, and bears fruit in an absence of that defiance which worries so many parents of adolescent boys and girls.

Question: "Do you know of any magazine about animals and expeditions like Beebe's that are not written for children, but could be understood by a boy of about 12?"

Answer: One of the most enjoyable magazines I know which answers this description in the Bulletin of the New York Zoological society, Bronx Park, N. Y. This appears six times a year, as I remember, and costs $1.50 a year, or 30 cents a copy. Usually each issue is devoted to one subject with excellent pictures and not too much text. The snake issue was so good that we identified and caught one milk snake without fearing—that is, hardly!—that it might be a copperhead. Other subjects are owls, kangaroos and their kin, deep sea diving and various expeditions such as those to the Galapagos islands and Sargosso sea.

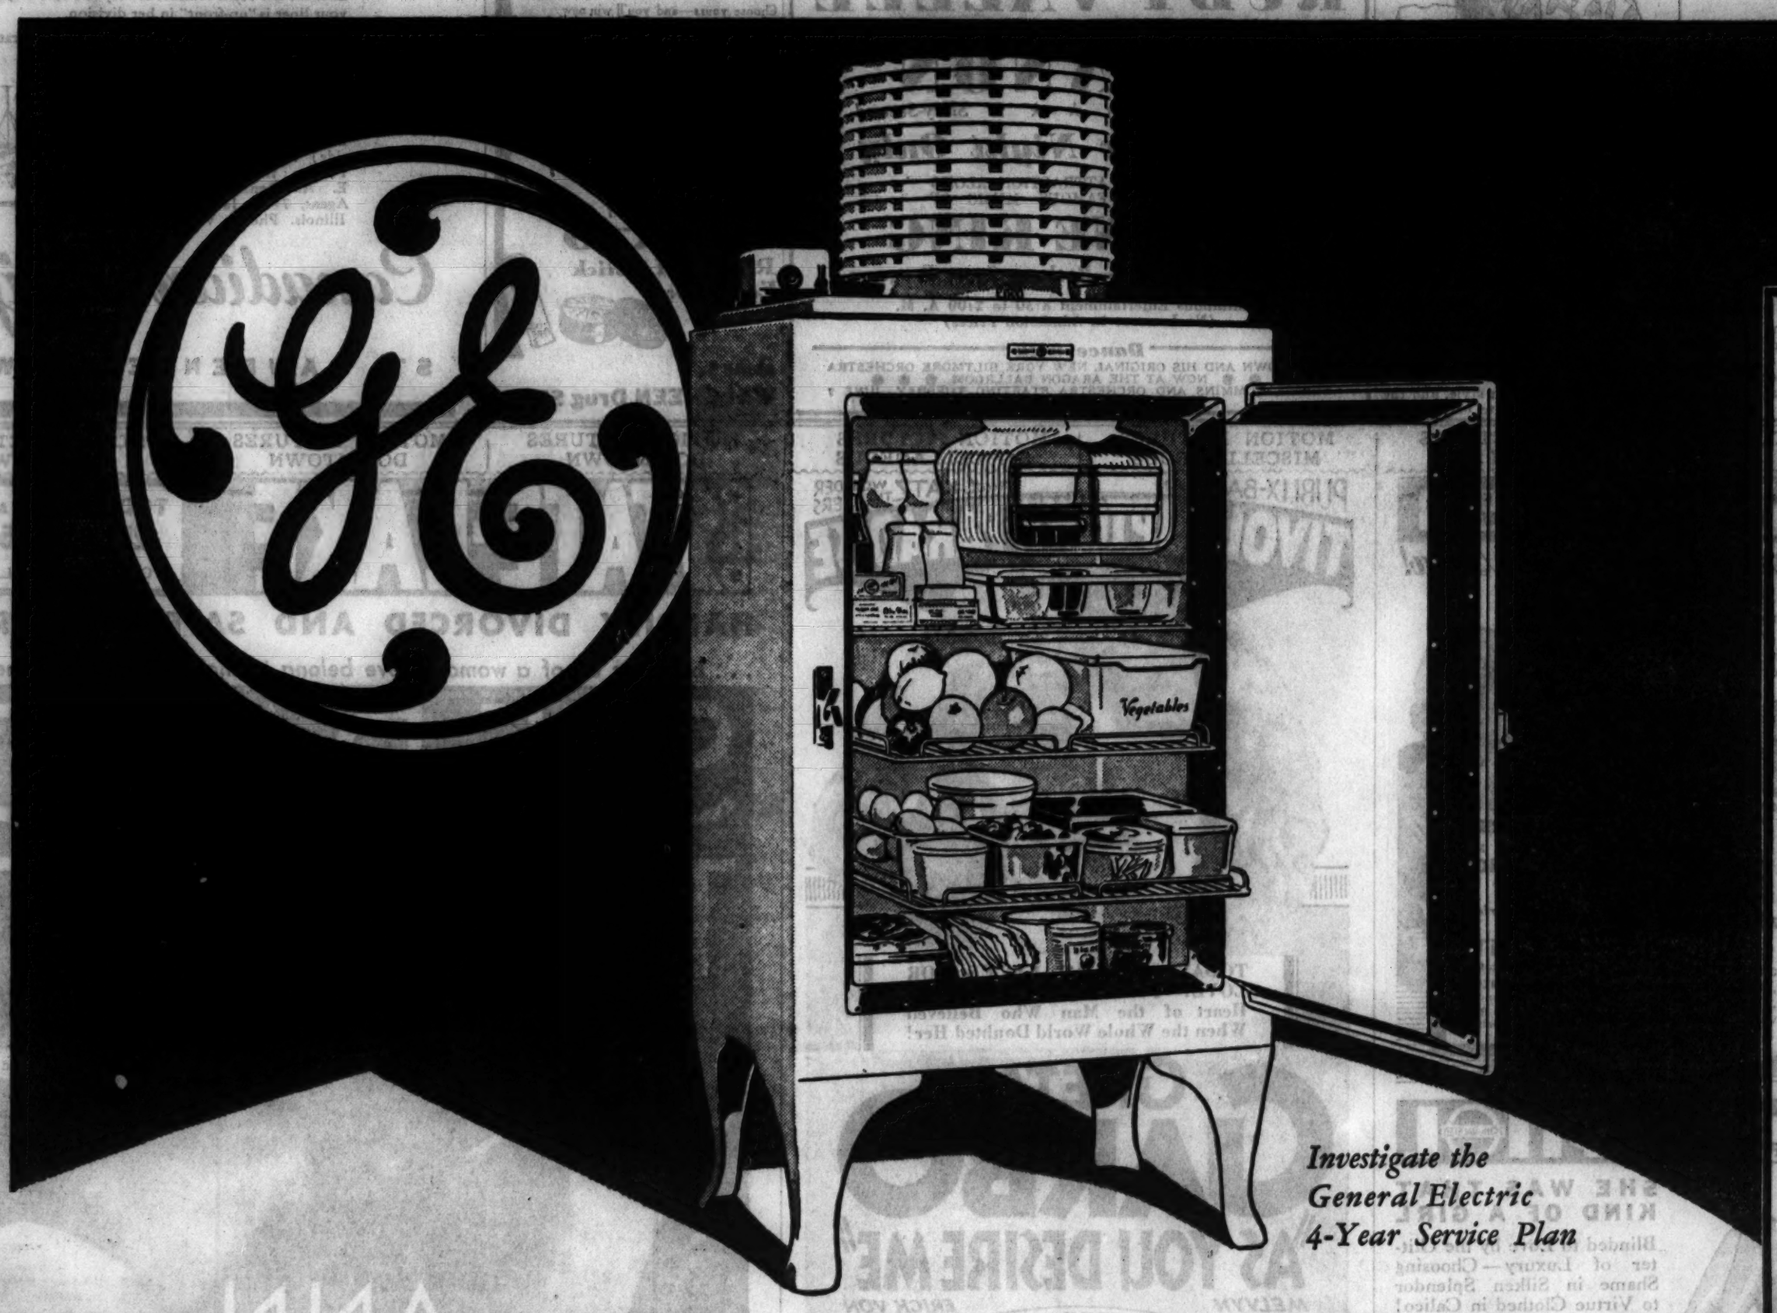
The Monitor Top mechanism is giving

LOWER COST REFRIGERATION

IN OVER 1,250,000 HOMES!



Investigate the General Electric 4-Year Service Plan

IN THESE DAYS when every dollar counts, your living expenses can be materially lowered by a General Electric Refrigerator. You will save more money through a General Electric's unfailing operation than by economizing on the purchase price of a "cheap" refrigerator.

A General Electric costs less to own and operate because of its Monitor Top mechanism.

LOOK TO THE MECHANISM

It's the mechanism that makes the modern refrigerator different from old-fashioned methods. It represents 70% of your investment, and is by far the most important factor for you to consider.

The mechanism creates the cold that keeps your foods fresh and full-flavored. It freezes the ice cubes. It is responsible for every feature that makes the modern refrigerator a thrifty investment.

If the mechanism of your refrigerator fails, all of these advantages cease. You are without refrigeration. Service and repair charges commence.

TROUBLE AND SERVICING ELIMINATED

The General Electric's Monitor Top mechanism is the most dependable, efficient, and the cleanest refrigerating unit ever built.

Fifteen years were spent in the development of the General Electric Refrigerator. Every refrigerating principle was put to years of test and, in the Monitor Top design, mechanical parts that cause trouble and require frequent servicing were eliminated.

The entire, simple G-E mechanism is hermetically sealed-in-steel inside the Monitor Top. You never need adjust it . . . can't see it . . . scarcely hear it. It requires no attention . . . not even oiling. Every working part is out of reach of dust, moisture and tampering fingers . . . sealed in a steel shell that only an acetylene torch can open!

In more than a million and a quarter homes, this Monitor Top mechanism has revolutionized all previous ideas about refrigeration through its unfailing operation without care, attention or service expense. Today 1,250,000 General Electrics are giving their owners the lowest cost refrigeration service it is possible to have.

IT'S EASY TO BUY A G-E

You can afford this attention-free, uninterrupted and expense-free refrigeration service. It's as easy to buy a General Electric as it is to pay for the "cheapest" refrigeration. $10 delivers a full-sized General Electric to your home tomorrow. You can even buy it for as little as 20c a day. New low prices are in effect.

WHY GAMBLE?

REFRIGERATION is a service that must go on day after day, year after year . . . without care, thought or attention. A refrigerator is in service more continuously than any other appliance in your home. It must operate more hours in a single year than even an automobile in its entire life-time.

Compare the construction of the General Electric with any other. Here is a refrigerator designed and built to last a life-time.

ALL-STEEL CABINET

The cabinet is built like a sturdy safe . . . entirely of steel. Interiors are of one-piece molded porcelain. Exteriors are finished in lustrous Sanak that will not chip or scratch. Massive doors swing to a perfect fit, with black Textolite door strips locking cold in and heat out.

UNIT ON TOP

The unit, containing all mechanism, is on top of the cabinet where it is cooled by natural air circulation. This eliminates the need for fans, belts, stuffing-boxes and complicated devices that cause trouble and require servicing. Heat gently rising carries away settling dust, keeping the unit clean.

GREATER STORAGE CAPACITY

General Electric has more conveniently usable storage space per cubic foot. There is no mechanism inside the G-E cabinet . . . either in the top or in the bottom.

SANITARY SUPER-FREEZER

The freezing chamber, or Super-Freezer, is porcelain inside and out. It is entirely open and easily cleaned by a quick wipe with a damp cloth. Cannot collect dirt or retain food odors. Ample ice cube capacity.

SLIDING SHELVES

Sliding Shelves glide forward at the touch of a finger . . . bringing all food into plain sight and easy reach. They end "reaching in" and make the rear of the shelf as convenient to use as the front. Every inch of storage space in the General Electric is instantly available.

COMPLETE RANGE OF SIZES

CUBS WHIP PIRATES, 9-5; ROOT BREAKS JINX

MR. SCHMELING RAISES VIOLETS, THE TOUGH MUG!

Champion Trains on Sniffs of Scent.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kingston, N. Y., June 2.—The forgotten man, Max Schmeling, has been discovered in another of those typical cabins on a piney mountainside of the Catskills, living pretty much on spinach, berries and milk and boxing slightly now and again as preparation for his fight with Jack Sharkey on June 21.

He is attended, as usual, by Uncle Will McCarney, his deputy manager; Otto Weinman, his cook; Max Machon, his trainer, and, of course, the irrepressible and also inexplicable Mushky Jackson, who seems to have no other work in life than to tote the bottles and gloves, the skipping ropes, the towels and the soggy head harness for a heavyweight champion in camp three weeks a year.

There is always a Mushky Jackson in the camp of a heavyweight champion, whether his name be Jerry the Greek or Tony Palazolla or Bill McCabe. There are also present in this household on the hill the inevitable pair of metropolitan coppers in mufti, vacationing in their undershirts and peeling their sunburn and, ostensibly, alert to repel pests who have motored a long way from Rutland or Wilmington with a letter of introduction from the local fight promoter, wishing to feel the champion's leg and count his teeth and hear him say "Ninety-nine" for their guidance in placing their bets.

Why the City Cops?

Actually there is nowadays very little for a pair of metropolitan detectives to do because there is a detail of state troopers in uniform stationed in a patrol cabin at the bottom of the winding lane to guard the champion's peace as part of their regular order of business and there are no known writs outstanding against Schmeling.

Now, when Dempsey was training in Atlantic City for his first fight with Tunney, his detail of policemen on furlough from the force had work to do for their keep and their honorarium. One night they had to break out a back wall of his dressing room, very quietly and with no screeching of the rusty nails, to elude a process server, and another time it was necessary to knock a constable off the front porch when he came to serve a bodywrit at supper time.

But Schmeling seems to be out of litigation at last; his dog has bit nobody's child, for he disowns all dogs, and neither has his automobile flicked any hairtrigger litigant's fender to the extent of $100,000, for he also disowns any and all cars. He is at peace with the law and the sense of calm which pervades the cottage on the hillside is so drowsy that it might be a not halfbad thing for the ballyhoo if some one were to sling a middling big rock through his bedroom window at night or sue him for breach of promise.

Bars Are Barred.

The camp has all the customary appointments except the bar, which was omitted this year not only to save the cost but also because those free bars which used to be traditional in the big camps as a benevolent bribe to the newspaper boys never were frequented half so much by the fourth estate as by unclassified guests whom nobody ever seemed to know. There is the pressroom, equipped with typewriters, copy paper, and mimeographed ready to file stories, two kinds of telegraph wires, and a wide bench for One Eyed Connolly to sleep on if he ever comes.

There is also the familiar hyena house or sparring partners' quarters, it being customary in recent years to observe a sharp social distinction between the sparring partners and the champion. Modern champions meet their sparring partners only in the ring by appointment, and brook no social familiarity. To break a man's nose in the line of business is one thing, but to break bread with him is quite another.

Plays Among the Violets.

Schmeling has been cultivating a small rock garden of violets, including some yellow ones, buttercups, and unidentified blooms, and today the heavyweight champion of the world further prepared himself for a savage contest by inspecting a forty acre market garden conducted by a naturalized German who lives somewhere over the mountain. He came back babbling of pansies, tulips, iris and zinnias, and of the seeds which he was taking back to Germany with him for his own garden, and Uncle Will McCarney, who had handled Luther McCarthy and other coarse characters in his time, seemed to turn a few shades pale as Schmeling talked on, unaware that he was flouting the proprieties.

Uncle Will announced that he was sending his trunk down the hill to a little shanty on the flat. The hour of retiring at the champion's cabin, halfpast-ten in the evening, usually finds him at the top of his mood and he will deputy-manage his fighter from a little distance from now on.

Boy, the Pines Are Great!

It might be of interest to say that there are numerous trees and robins and ponds and all such appointments of nature around this place, but the same effect can be obtained from the reading of any summer resort folder, so I will only report that Uncle Will

Fothergill and Faber Forget Their Bicycles; Sox Lose, 4-2

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Rob Roy Fothergill yesterday was unable to propel his ample abdomen over the greensward with anything that resembled an adequate degree of dexterity. This deficiency, while highly amusing, caused doubles to grow where putouts should have blossomed, thus furnishing one of several reasons why the St. Louis Browns defeated the White Sox, 4 to 2, in the home from the wars spectacle at Comiskey park.

CAREY SELPH.

Even with Mr. Fothergill's rollings and waddlings, however, the White Sox could have won had Tommy Thomas been able to see the funny side of the outfielder's quaint whimsicality in pursuing high flies. But Tommy took the matter to heart and pitched some singles along with the gift doubles, which enabled the Browns to score all their runs and five of their eight hits in the third inning.

But Bob Hit One.

Tommy left the scene before the side was out and Gregory and Faber held the Brownies to no runs the rest of the way. One single in the eighth and two in the ninth, were the only hits the Browns made aside from the terrible third.

While Fothergill was no gazelle afield, he did more than his share in the accumulation of hits. He drove in the first of the Sox pair of runs and put the second score on third. This happened in the fourth inning, which ended with the Sox having the bases full and Funk taking three straight strikes without waving at one of them.

The Sox major offensive tragedy happened in the fifth, however. In this instance Faber led off with a single, but was thrown out at third on a hit which Selph crashed over Goslin's head to the left field wall. When one is 44 he can't expect to lift up those puppies and put them down with the rapidity of the younger boys. And because this was true yesterday, a handsome rally choked to death.

Browns Chase Thomas.

Two innings of inactivity were quite enough for the St. Louisans, and, aided by the fat man outfielding of Fothergill, they drove Thomas to cover under a barrage of five hits good for four runs in the third inning. Coffman fanned, but Schulte got a double when Fothergill was unable to reach his high fly. Freddie scored immediately thereafter on Burns' single to center. Campbell flied to Funk for the second out, then Goslin walked. Fothergill also was too slow afoot to approach Ferrell's high fly and Rick also was credited with a double, Burns and Goslin scoring.

Melillo lined a wicked single to center to score Ferrell and Oscar went to third when Storti slammed one to center with great vehemence. At this juncture Thomas retired and Gregory came on the scene. Gregory started off by hitting Levey with a pitched ball, filling the bases. Quiet was restored when Coffman generously contributed his second strikeout to the inning.

Grube led off the Sox third with a single for the first hit off Coffman, but it was a futile enterprise. This first hit, however, revealed that Coffman wasn't airtight, so in the fourth the Sox stepped out and made two runs.

Selph started the fourth with a foul to Ferrell. Kress singled to center. Blue forced Kress, but Hodapp singled to left, Blue taking third. Fothergill singled to center, scoring Blue and putting Hodapp on third and the bases were full when Grube walked. Appling batted for Gregory and after striking at the first two pitches, walked, forcing in Hodapp. Funk took three strikes without lifting his bat from his shoulder.

It was the fifth inning that Faber's creaking shins halted a promising rally. Faber led off with a single, then Selph drove the ball over Goslin's head to the left field wall, normally an easy double. But old Red was unable to hobble clear to third and was out, Goslin to Levey to Storti. Selph got to second on the throw to third, technically deprived of credit for a double. Kress lined to Goslin.

Not a Brownie reached first in the fourth and fifth innings but with two out in the sixth Coffman was safe when his grounder rolled between Kress' heels. He was forced by Schulte.

Selph Busts Another.

After two were out in the seventh, Selph again knocked the ball over Goslin's head and this time got credit for a double, the baselines being unimpeded at the time. Kress drew three wide ones, then fanned.

The first hit off Faber and the first one by the Browns aside from their brutality in the third inning was the single with which Melillo led off the eighth. Melillo moved to second on Storti's sacrifice and to third on Levey's out, but died on Coffman's fly to Funk.

Blue walked on four pitches to start the eighth, but Hodapp ran the count to three balls and two strikes, then fouled to Goslin. Fothergill flied to Goslin and Grube popped to Levey.

After Hodapp had gone to the scoreboard for Schulte's fly to start the ninth, Burns singled to right. He was forced by Campbell, who went to third on Goslin's single over Blue's head. The session ended with Ferrell's fly to Funk.

Appling and Funk supplied easy outs in the ninth, but Rothrock, batting for Faber, singled to right and went to third on Selph's third hit, a single to left center. Kress then ended the game by forcing Selph, Levey to Melillo.

SPANISH PLAY IS FIRST, AND WHAT A RACE IT WAS!

8,000 See Favorite Win Homewood Thriller.

BY FRENCH LANE.

There was a horse race at Washington Park yesterday and don't forget that. Few in the crowd of 8,000 ever will forget it.

It came in the Del Prado purse and there were only four starters. But if you will picture four horses running only inches apart for six furlongs, with one of them leading this instant and the other the next, each putting everything he had into the struggle, jockeys kicking and whipping, then you have a pretty good idea of what took place in the Del Prado.

Later on, as they neared the finish line, it wasn't quite so exciting, but those early thrills were enough to key up any crowd. They were more than enough to bring every patron up standing and cheering.

Spanish Play, as Expected.

At the end the odds on favorite, Spanish Play, was the winner by two lengths after coming from behind. Prince Atheling was second, three-quarters of a length ahead of Pittsburgher. Bringing up the rear but beaten only by a nose was old Dr. Freeland, who had fought for the lead all through the exciting early stages of the combat.

There wasn't an excuse for any of them to offer. Each carried 112 pounds, the start was perfect, every jockey rode with abandon, and Spanish Play had to be the best horse to win.

Spanish Play and Pittsburgher long have been rivals. They have been fighting nip and tuck battles since they came to the races. So it wasn't any surprise to see them trying so desperately against one another. But throwing Prince Atheling and Dr. Freeland with them sort of added more fuel to the fire.

Winner Joins the Battle.

In the very early stages Pittsburgher and Dr. Freeland fought for the lead. They had not gone a furlong until Spanish Play joined them. Then they ran all the way down the back stretch out of the chute with noses bobbing at the same time, their strides of the same length and their courage at about the same pitch. Prince Atheling was behind them but within striking distance.

Heading for home they were running in just such a fashion. Dr. Freeland was next to the rail, Pittsburgher in the middle, and Spanish Play on the outside.

Jockey Jones then began to drive Spanish Play. He stuck his nose in front and kept it there. But coming on the outside with a flash of speed was Prince Atheling, always noted as a stretch runner. He passed the now conquered Pittsburgher and Dr. Freeland.

Then he went after Spanish Play. For just an instant it looked as if he were going to succeed. Then it was evident he was beaten, so he dropped back to be content with a fairly easy second prize to his credit. The battle between Pittsburgher and Dr. Freeland for third money continued right up to the last stride.

Princess Camelia Triumphs.

Spanish Play ran the mile over a track that was slightly dull in 1:38 2-5 after the half had been reeled off in :46 2-5, and the three-quarters in 1:11 In the mutuels Spanish Play paid $3.78 to win and $2.34 to place. Prince Atheling's place price was $4.30.

Princess Camelia, the fleet filly which once ran for the late Joe Leiter, scored handily from 10 other 3 year olds in the Riverdale purse at six furlongs and again loomed as a dangerous contender for the Illinois Oaks renewal. Her former stable mate, Prince Hotspur, gave her the most trouble, but in the end he was beaten by a length and a half with Ladfield, the favorite, third.

There was some late action on a long shot called I Pass and he finished fourth, but never could threaten the leaders. Princess Camelia had been slightly overlooked by the players and paid $10.86. She won handily.

SOX SEND PAIR TO TORONTO FOR PITCHER SMITH

Art Smith, right handed pitcher with the Toronto club of the International league, has been obtained by the Chicago White Sox and will report immediately, Harry Grabiner, vice president, announced last night. In addition to an unannounced sum of cash Pitcher Hal McKain and Hal Anderson, outfielder, who was sent to the Mission Pacific Coast league club, will go to the Toronto club.

Smith is the second pitcher to be acquired by the White Sox in the last week. Pete Daglia, who won seven out of nine games this season was purchased from Oakland. Smith won six games and lost 13 last year, but thus far this season has won six of seven starts.

DARTMOUTH WILL CLOSE MAROONS' 1933 GRID CARD

Dartmouth's football team will come to the Midway to close the University of Chicago schedule on Nov. 25, 1933, Director A. A. Stagg announced last night. Scheduling of the Dartmouth game continues the intersectional series with eastern teams which has been a feature of Maroon schedules. Chicago goes east to meet Yale this fall terminating a two-year agreement.

Dartmouth met Chicago in 1925, when Oberlander threw forward passes all over Stagg field to defeat the Maroons, 33 to 7. Scheduling of the Dartmouth game completes the Chicago schedule for next year, except for the opening practice game. The games announced for 1933 are:

Oct. 14, Washington U. at St. Louis; Oct. 21, Purdue at Chicago; Oct. 28, Michigan at Chicago; Nov. 4, Wisconsin at Chicago; Nov. 11, Indiana at Chicago; Nov. 18, Illinois at Champaign; Nov. 25, Dartmouth at Chicago.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 2.—Charley Root finally has shaken off the losing streak that has dogged him since April 28. His Cub teammates got rid of it for him today by turning loose a murderous attack which whipped the Pirates, 9 to 5, in the opener of the series. And the funny part of the attack was that Rogers Hornsby, the right fielding manager, didn't share in it except to draw a pass that helped.

Root enjoyed excellent results with almost everybody except the Waner boys, who are given to committing mischief almost daily. The two brothers were the cause of a run in the first inning. They were the cause of two more in the third. And in the eighth Brother Paul let go with a homer which compensated for a loss he had incurred in the fifth when Bill Herman supplied the picture play of the afternoon by making a glove handed grab for a wicked looking knee high liner. Thus the Waners were involved in all the Pirates' runs, barring one in the ninth that was more or less of a gift.

Get Even with Mr. Spencer.

The way in which the Cubs handled their bats indicated they were out to avenge some of the things done to them previously by one Glenn Spencer. The pitcher wasn't to blame for two runs in the first inning, these being due to some queer play at shortstop by Floyd Vaughan, but after that it was different.

The ability of Riggs Stephenson as a hitter set a two run rally in motion in the fourth. He started another two run affair in the sixth by walking, and furnished a triple in a seventh inning attack that was stormy enough to crowd Spencer right out of the picture.

Bill Jurges, Rollie Hemsley, and Woody English also played leading rôles in the slaying of the Root jinx. English topped the list with a pair of doubles and two singles. Half of his wallops figured in the run production. Jurges, with a single and double, was responsible for three runs. Hemsley's portion of the loot was a single, a double, and a pass, but he didn't have a chance to move anybody to the plate. However, his double was important. It came in the middle of the little affair by which the Cubs assumed the lead in the fourth.

Vaughan Has Big Inning.

Vaughan's antics, which assisted the Cubs to two runs in the first inning, began when, with one out, he gave Herman's grounder such a healthy kick that the runner was able to reach second. English's single to right was handled so speedily that Herman had to halt at third. Hornsby bounced to Vaughan and a double play seemed a cinch, but the young man threw wild to Piet. Herman scored, English went to third, and Hornsby to second. Stephenson tapped to short, and Vaughan also fumbled this one, but recovered in time to get Stevie at first. English scored on the play. Grimm ended it with a fly to Lloyd Waner.

Root was so wabbly to start the first inning that the boys in the bull pen went to work without waiting for orders, but the trouble was choked off with only one run across. Lloyd Waner opened with a single past English and hiked to third on Brother Paul's single to right. Vaughan made partial amends for his fielding blunders by thumping a hit to center, L. Waner scoring.

Stephenson Starts Rally.

The Waners got loose again in the third and the Pirates moved out in front by scoring twice. Lloyd Waner boosted a drooping single back of Herman. Paul slashed a two bagger down the right field line and his brother scored. Grimm took Hornsby's throwin and could have tossed P. Waner out at third, but overlooked the chance. That put Paul in position to run home on Vaughan's fly to Stephenson. Barbee then fanned and Suhr singled, but was nipped when he attempted to steal.

ENID WILSON IS VICTOR AGAIN IN BRITISH Ggolf

Furniture Maker Beats Scot Foewoman, 7-6.

BY EUGENE SPECK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAUNTON, England, June 2.—Enid Wilson, raw boned English golfer who makes furniture in her spare time, won the British women's amateur championship for the second consecutive year today by defeating the Scotswoman, Miss Purvis Russell-Montgomery, 7 and 6.

Miss Wilson won the trophy with a remarkable string of figures, including a 34 for the third nine in the 36 hole final. She blasted her way through the field during the six days of championship play, eliminating not only Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare in the third round, but Mrs. Louis Cheney, last remaining American challenger, in the quarter finals.

Halve Last Three.

Both of these women were beaten in the afternoon, when Miss Wilson plays her best golf. She was one up at the end of the first eighteen this morning after a spectacular round which established a record for a woman's championship. Both played four over fours coming home this morning, and nine straight holes were halved.

This afternoon Miss Wilson was six up at the 26th, having taken only two fives. The rest were all fours and threes, except a birdie two at the first. Then she won the 27th and was seven up and nine to play. The next three were halved.

Maureen Gets Cups.

The only American who won an award was Maureen Orcutt, who led the field in the qualifying round with a 151 for 36 holes. She took the Diana Fishwick cup for the year and a silver salver.

Malone Asked to Aid Baer in Levinsky Drill

Jock Malone, former middleweight fighter, has received an offer to train Max Baer for his 20 round bout with King Levinsky at Reno, Nev., July 4. Malone, who was one of the cleverest boxers in the ring, retired almost two years ago. He is working in a north side cafe.

Willie Oster will replace George Nichols, light heavyweight champion, against Joe Knight of Cairo, Ga., at Boston Monday. Nichols was removed from the card because he acquired a cut over an eye against Lou Scozza at Buffalo recently. Oster returned two weeks ago from Florida, where he defeated Ray Trambile and Johnny Roberts and gave Maxie Rosenbloom a close fight.

Mickey Walker will not fight Tuffy Griffith at the Chicago Stadium June 24, according to his Chicago representative. It seems that Walker's hand was injured again Paulino Uzcudun.

Jack Kilbourne will resume training at the Arcade gym today for his ten round match with Angel Cliville at Pittsburgh Monday. Kilbourne returned from Milwaukee yesterday where he made Martin Levandowski his seventh victim in eight starts since he returned from Australia early this year. Jack will leave for Pittsburgh tomorrow.

After his bout against Roger Bernard at Philadelphia June 15, Kid Chocolate, junior lightweight champion, will battle Johnny Farr at Pittsburgh June 22. Hymie Wiseman is to meet Jackie Wilson in a supporting bout to the Billy Petrolle-Tommy Grogan match at Pittsburgh June 15.

PERCY WILLIAMS STARTS TRAINING FOR OLYMPICS

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 2.—[Special.]—Percy Williams of Canada, double sprint winner in the 1928 Olympics, who is seeking a place on the Canadian Olympic squad this year, returned home today and went through a workout with Reg Brady, one of Canada's leading sprinters.

Williams, who arrived from Seattle, Washington, where he has been training under the direction of Hec Edmundson, University of Washington track coach, easily stepped away from his Canadian rival. The leg injury Williams suffered last year apparently has healed and he appeared to be in excellent condition.

Hartz Gives Billy Arnold Car in Which He Crashed

Indianapolis, Ind., June 2.—[Special.]—Harry Hartz, owner of the automobile which Billy Arnold has driven in the 500 mile Indianapolis race in 1930, 1931, and 1932, today announced that he has presented the car to the Chicago driver, who suffered a broken collar bone in the race last Monday. Arnold plans to repair the car and start a campaign on the dirt tracks.

Londos Gets a Hand from Hoover at White House

Washington, D. C., June 2.—[Special.]—Jim Londos, Greek heavyweight wrestler, who claims the world's championship, today visited President Herbert Hoover at the White House. Presented by Representative Royal C. Johnson of South Dakota, Londos shook hands with President Hoover, who said the wrestler had the physique of a real champion.

Helen Moody Enters French Tennis Finals

AUTEUIL, France, June 2.—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, America's queen of the tennis courts, today entered the final round for the women's singles championship in the French hard court tournament, where tomorrow she will meet Betty Nuthall of England or Mme. Rene Mathieu, France, who will play the last semi-final round match early tomorrow.

Although she did not flash the form that has carried her to the finals, Mrs. Moody easily won from Hilda Krahwinkel, Germany, in straight sets in their semi-final contest today. The scores were 6-3, 10-8.

Helen Jacobs Loses.

Mme. Mathieu entered the semi-finals by defeating Helen Jacobs of California in the quarter-final round today, 6-4, 6-4. Miss Nuthall gained the right to meet Mme. Mathieu when she triumphed over Cilly Assum, Germany, the defending champion. The match was defaulted after two sets.

Mrs. Moody, who already has won the women's doubles championship with Elizabeth Ryan, will be seeking her fourth singles championship when she appears tomorrow. She captured the title in 1928, 1929, and 1930. Mrs. Moody did not compete in last year's tournament.

Lee Conquers La Coste.

Rene La Coste, who returned to the courts after an absence of three years, was eliminated by H. G. N. Lee, England, 6-2, 6-4, 4-6, 7-5. La Coste was one of the favorites for the men's singles title after he had defeated Sidney Wood of New York in an early round match.

Gregory Mangin, the only American in the men's singles, was idle today, but will meet Henri Cochet, the leading French player, in the quarter-final round tomorrow. Cochet today defeated George P. Hughes, England, 6-4, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4.

MACCABEES AND BRICKIES WILL MEET SUNDAY

The Maccabee All-Stars, winners of the Joseph Triner trophy, will meet the Bricklayers for second place in the National Professional Soccer league at 19th street and Kilpatrick avenue, Sunday afternoon. It will be the last game of the season for both squads.

Two of the outstanding members of the Bricklayers squad, Coutts and Cuthbert, who were suspended recently, will again appear in the Brickies' lineup. The Brickies were runners-up for the Triner cup, having lost to the All-Stars in the final game.

The Mayor's trophy will be at stake when the Polish-Italians meet the Danish-Norwegians at 4600 West Fullerton avenue in an International league contest scheduled for Sunday. In another game the Swedes will face the Germans.

The annual meeting of the Illinois State Soccer Football association will be held tonight at the Palmer house. Officials for next season's games will be selected.

POLO STARS TO CLASH SUNDAY AT WHITE CITY

Outstanding polo players will face each other when the South Shore Polo club plays the 124th Field Artillery Remount Sunday afternoon in the White City outdoor stadium.

Lieut. Col. Richard Hunter is expected to start at No. 1 position for the 124th Remount team. Lieut. Romeo Mura, veteran of several national tournaments, will be pitted against Lieut. Louis Levine of the South Shore team at No. 2 position.

Lieut. Chris Schuh will be at No. 3 position for the Remount trio. Charles Roovaart and Edwin Hirsch will play with the South Shore club.

New Medicine Drives Rheumatic Poisons from Joints and Muscles

EASES PAIN FIRST DAY

Poisons settling in the joints and muscles cause rheumatism. You cannot get rid of rheumatic agony till every trace of these dangerous poisons is driven out of your system. That's why external remedies and pain deadening drugs only give temporary relief.

What you need is RU-MA, the new medicine; that acts directly on the liver, kidneys and blood, and helps expel through the natural channels of elimination the dangerous poisons that cause rheumatic misery.

No long waiting for your suffering to stop. RU-MA eases pain the first day and is one rheumatism remedy sold in drug stores everywhere with money back guarantee. RU-MA quickly and safely frees muscles and joints from painful stiffness, swelling and lameness.

So many terrible sufferers from rheumatism in this vicinity have been freed from their rheumatic agony in less than a week that Walgreen's urge you to buy a bottle of Ru-Ma today and begin now to get rid of all your Rheumatic aches and pains.

DENNY CLARK'S END.

DENNY CLARK, who committed suicide in Salem, Ore., Monday, became the "goat" of the Chicago-Michigan 2-0 football game of 1905 because of a play which would not be allowed under present rules.

Clark, essaying to run back one of the late Walter Eckersall's long punts instead of touching the ball down behind the goal line for a touchback as he should have done, came out beyond the goal line and then was forced back over the line by Badenoch and Capt. Marc Catlin of the Maroons. That constituted a safety and the only two points of the contest. Under present rules the ball would have been dead at the point where its forward progress stopped, which was inside the playing field.

While there is no reason to connect Mr. Clark's tragic act with an incident of 27 years ago, discussion of the game and its result exerted for many years, it is said, a most depressing effect upon him.

Naturally, many errors of judgment have occurred in football contests. What caused more comment on this error and kept it alive in reminiscence was that Michigan's defeat terminated a five year sequence of victories by Coach Hurry Up Yost's "point a minute" teams of 1901-'05, one of the most notable records in gridiron annals.

Here is Michigan's record for that period:

1901—Won, 11; lost, 0. Michigan points, 550; opponents, 0.
1902—Won, 11; lost, 0. Michigan points, 644; opponents, 6 [scored by Case].
1903—Won, 11; lost, 0; tied, 1 [Minnesota]. Michigan points, 565; opponents, 6 [scored by Minnesota].
1904—Won, 10; lost, 0. Michigan points, 567; opponents, 22 [6 by Ohio State, 4 by Drake, 12 by Chicago].
1905—Won, 12; lost, 1 [Chicago]. Michigan points, 495; opponents, 2 [Chicago].

So that is one reason why poor Denny Clark never forgot his tragic mistake.

American Women Golfers.

On the whole, American women golfers, after winning their team match against British women, performed disappointingly in the championship tourney. In qualifying they did as well as expected or better, with Miss Orcutt taking the medal for low score. But the disappointment came when our best players failed to progress farther in the match play rounds, even allowing for the unfamiliar course and the miniature greens requiring accuracy of pitch. The Wake will not be satisfied until some Yankee girl takes that British title. Our pros and men amateurs have already taught our British cousins how to take a golfing joke.

Sh! Dempsey's Girl Friend Is Lina Basquette

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., June 2.—Lina Basquette, dark eyed and exotic looking film star, today was identified as the "Rosita Gonzales" who went out places with Jack Dempsey in San Francisco and Reno recently. Her mother, Mrs. Ernest Belcher, admitted that Miss Basquette has not been in a southern California sanitarium as previously stated, but has been in Reno in Dempsey's company since last week, and has directed her mother to send her trunk there.

Mrs. Belcher confirmed that her daughter had taken the pseudonym Rosita Gonzales in her trips out of town after it was revealed that a large green sedan in which "Miss Gonzales" drove to Reno was Miss Basquette's automobile.

Mother Doesn't Like Idea.

"Yes, she has taken the name Rosita Gonzales and I wrote to her in Reno under that name," Mrs. Belcher said.

"I personally would prefer that my daughter's name be not linked with Dempsey's, as it has been, but Lina is of age and has her own life to live. I find that I cannot keep up with my little girl any longer."

It was stated that Dempsey may back a roadhouse cabaret in Reno and feature Miss Basquette as a dancer. She formerly was a danseuse in a New York musical comedy for Flo Ziegfeld.

IT'S NOT A ROMANCE.

Reno, Nev., June 2.—(AP)—All the mystery surrounding the identity of Jack Dempsey's pretty dark eyed companion disappeared today when the Manassa Mauler himself disclosed that she is Lina Basquette, film actress.

"But there's no romance involved," he hastened to add.

"I like Miss Basquette a lot," Dempsey said, "and I think she cares for me, too, but there's no romance involved."

Jack Thompson Quits Fighting; "Nothing in It"

Sacramento, Cal., June 2.—(AP)—Young Jack Thompson, twice holder of the world welterweight championship, announced today that he was through with the boxing game. The colored fighter stopped here en route to Los Angeles from Seattle, where he defeated Leonard Bennett last week.

Thompson said he could see nothing in the boxing game for him in the future. He plans to devote his time to handling his property affairs in Los Angeles.

Thompson engaged in 327 fights in the fourteen years he was a professional boxer. He defeated Jackie Fields for the world title the first time and later lost it to Tommy Freeman. Then he defeated Freeman to win back the title, but lost it to Lou Brouillard. Brouillard subsequently lost it to Fields, the present champion.

FRED FRAME TO DRIVE IN ROBY RACE JUNE 19

Fred Frame will continue his drive for the automobile racing championship at the new Roby-Chicago Speedway, it was announced yesterday by B. Ward Beam, operator of the track.

Frame, who won the Indianapolis 500 mile race, expects the 100 mile National Championship race at Roby June 19 to increase his chances for the title.

Frame is a veteran of 14 years' experience. Four years ago he began to receive notice as a big league driver when he came east and in his first race led the Indianapolis classic until he had to retire. Last year he finished second, only 42 seconds behind Lou Schneider.

PROS, AMATEURS RUSH TO ENTER STATE TOURNEYS

Champaign Meet Attracts Large Fields.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Early entries for the second annual Illinois professional and amateur golf championships, to be decided at the Champaign Country club, Champaign, Ill., June 13 to 18, inclusive, indicate that the tournament will be one of the best ever conducted in the state.

Leaders among the professionals who already have signified their intentions of competing are Horton Smith of Oak Park, Harry Cooper of Glen Oak, Frank Walsh of Bryn Mawr, George Smith of Onwentsia, Wally Chamberlain of Westward-Ho, Al Lesperance of Westmoreland, Abe Espinosa of Medinah, the defending champion; Jim Carberry of Shore Acres, George Knox and Gus Gustafson of Calumet, Jock Hutchison of Glen View, Ed Newkirk of Navajo Fields, Jim Wilson of Ravisloe, Eddie Garre of La Grange, Al Bluhm of Big Oaks, Eddie Loos of Lake Shore, Howard Davis of Ridgemoor, Gunnar Nelson of Rockford, Jim Noonan of Lansing Airport, Marvin Storm of Mattoon, Al Huske of Elgin, and Tom Robbins.

Amateur Field Large.

Among the Chicago amateurs who will attempt to keep Warren Dawson of Glen Oak from winning his second state title are Johnny Lehman of Olympia Fields, Chick Evans of Edgewater, Jack Westland of Sunset Ridge, Hank Bowbeer of Acacia, Art Sweet and Earl Jager of Ridgemoor, Russ Martin and Jimmy Garard of Flossmoor, Frank Justin of Edgewood Valley, Court Parish of Jackson park, Sterling Dawson of Lincoln park, Dave Adams of Medinah, Walter Leininger of Westward-Ho, Conrad Fryk man of Sunset Ridge, Ray Lundstrun and Jack Burns of Mission Hills, and Les Cooke of Exmoor.

From Bloomington will come Yontz Bonnett and Bob Baldwin, and Aurora is expected to send Don Armstrong. Chink Weems and Pot Fifer will head a delegation from Quincy, while Champaign will be represented by Ray Sparks, Dick Trevett, John Armstrong, Royal A. Stipes Jr., Lester Tilley, Burnham Harris, E. S. Cole and D. C. Dodds.

Official Family to Play.

The official family of the Chicago District Golf association, which is conducting the tournament, will also compete in the tournament. Among the officials who will play are John McKinlay Jr., of Beverly, president of the association; Harry E. Radix of Ridgemoor, vice president; and Harold Burnham, chairman of the tournament committee. Entries for the tournament may be filed with the office of the association, 236 North Clark street.

The Garfield Golf club has announced the dates for three important Cook county tournaments, all of them to be played at Garfield park. The open will be held July 7, 8, and 9; the amateur Aug. 18, 19, and 20, and the boys' tournament, open to players under 17 years of age, Aug. 4, 5, and 6.

Northwestern university will be represented in the national intercollegiate tournament, to be played at the Cascade Golf club, Hot Springs, Va., June 27 to July 2. A quartet composed of Capt. Fred Damaske, Jimmy Whitaker, Charles Casper, and Joe Nye will start driving to the tournament June 20. The Purple golfers finished third in the recent Big Ten meet and Damaske was fourth in the individual standings.

Chicago orchestra leaders will drop their batons and saxophones for brassies and putters on June 13, when they battle for the local championship of their profession at the Bryn Mawr Country club. Among those expected to compete are Charlie Agnew, Gus Arnheim, Earl Burtnett, Frankie Masters, Art Kassel, Joe Sanders, Jimmy Garrigan, Harold Stokes, Clyde McCoy, Maurie Sherman, Leon Adrian, Ace Brigode, Ted Cook, Mac McCloud, and Jack Russell.

Who's Who in Women's Golf

Betty Eckersall

MRS. ROSE LONG.

Lack of height has been no handicap to Mrs. Rose Long, who has held the women's championship of Jackson park for the last two years. She is exactly five feet tall. She is the low handicap player of the park, being rated at three strokes.

MRS. ROSE LONG.

She began playing golf six years ago at the suggestion of her husband. Mr. Long has been the victor in the annual family golf tournaments. He is invariably in the gallery when his wife plays.

In 1930 Mrs. Long was the runner-up for the public parks championship, losing to Edith Wallace, 2 and 1. She competed last year in the city tournament.

Mrs. Long has been working to perfect her game for this season. She said yesterday: "My approaching has never been as accurate as it should be, so, almost to the exclusion of the rest of the game I have been using my short irons. Putting has been another worry, but I have finally reached the point where I never take more than two putts to a green."

Mrs. Long is the shortest woman golfer in the park club, but hits a tee shot consistently 185 to 200 yards. In matches poor approach shots have ruined her score. This season she expects to correct that trouble.

Mrs. Long plans to compete in the city, Cook county, and Illinois state tournaments and will defend her parks title in September.

SONS LIKELY TO OUTSHINE DADS IN STAGG MEET

Pollard, Kanatzer Names Endure on Track.

Two youthful athletes whose fathers competed in the Stagg meet a generation ago, both with records which outdistance those made by their progenitors, will appear on Stagg field tomorrow for the 28th running of the national track and field interscholastic.

The second generation is represented by Fritz Pollard of Senn High and Harry Kanatzer of Hutchinson, Kas.

Young Pollard, one of the country's best hurdlers, tied the national prep record two weeks ago when he cleared the 120 yard high hurdles in 15 seconds to establish an Illinois record. His father, competing for Lane in 1911, was second in a 26.4 low hurdle race and the next year was third in a 25.4 race.

Holds Kansas Shot Record.

Young Kanatzer holds the Kansas prep championship in the shot put with a throw of 49 feet 9½ inches. His father placed second in 1909 in the discus, with 121 feet, and in 1910 was third with 116 feet 1¾ inches.

Every racing event in the meet is in danger of being toppled. At least three entrants, notable among them Randall Herman of Oak Park, have bettered the obstinate 9.8 mark for the 100 yard dash, which has been equaled since 1923 by George Simpson, Eddie Tolan, and Ralph Metcalfe, but not bettered.

Abilene, Tex., is sending a mile relay squad which holds a state mark of 3:25.5, more than two seconds better than the national record established by Wyandotte High of Kansas City Kas., last year. Greenville, Miss., will send a 3:32 team which includes three brothers—Tom and Hugh Payne, who are twins, and William.

State Champions Enter.

Illinois state champions entered are Herman of Oak Park, who tied the national record in the 100 and set a new state mark in the 220; Pollard, who tied the national high hurdles record and set a new state mark in the lows; Stephen of Joliet, record setter in the shot; Burnett, Libertyville, winner of the discus event; Meagher, De Pue, broad jump winner; Ray, Deerfield Shields, high jump winner; Miller, Des Plaines, who set a new 440 mark; Beltzner, Joliet, in the pole vault; Longman, Mount Morris, in the mile, and Pierce, West Aurora, also in the mile.

A final check on the entry list yesterday increased the number of competitors to 496, representing 131 schools. Several hundred early arrivals worked out on the field yesterday, including the strong squad from Fort Collins, Colo., and two of the leading hurdle entries, Sam Allen and Red Phillips of Bristow, Okla., both of whom are credited with :14.9 races this year.

Toss-up for Team Title.

The team championship is regarded as a toss-up, since it is not impossible that as many as 75 schools may participate in the scoring, which involves six places each in twenty events. Last year's title was won by the two man team of Bob Kennicott and Marsh Miller from Maine Township High in Des Plaines, who counted enough points in the 220, 440, and 880 races to lead the field. Oak Park is rated as strong as any this year, largely on the strength of Herman's marks in the two sprints.

Is Abe Hurt? Won't Know Until He Sees His Lawyer

New York, June 2.—[Special.]—Twenty-five persons were injured, three perhaps seriously, when a special train returning from the Belmont Park races struck an emergency tripper in Pennsylvania station this evening. Abe Attell, former world's featherweight champion, who was among those in the 1919 Black Sox world's series scandal, declared he had received a dangerous kidney injury, but refused treatment at the station hospital and said he would seek private medical advice.

Cyclists from 15 States in Olympic Trial Sunday

Riders from 15 states will compete in the Olympic bicycle trials which will be held over a 63 mile course starting on North avenue west of Elmhurst at 7:30 Sunday morning. Among the entrants are Gus Henschel of Chicago and Chester Nelson of St. Louis, Mo., who were members of the 1924 United States squad which went to Europe. The two riders making the best time in the event Sunday will be eligible to compete in the finals at Pasadena, Cal., on July 5.

Lynch Accepts Job as Coach of Badger Ends

Only 2 Waners with Pirates, So Cubs Win

in the fourth. He singled to left. Grimm flied out, but Hemsley tore off a double on which Stephenson stopped at third. Jurges singled to deep short and Vaughan threw to the plate, but Grace concentrated on blocking Stevie, so muffed the throw. Hemsley, who had gone to third on Jurges' hit, counted the second run of the inning on Root's fly to deep center.

Stephenson came up with one out in the sixth and this time walked to bring on another two run splurge. Grimm followed with a single to right and Stevie tore for third. Luck was with him or he would have been killed off. The throw hit him on the back. Hemsley walked to fill the bases and Jurges slipped a double over third to move Stephenson and Grimm home.

Cubs Pick Up 3 in Seventh.

The Cubs injected a double, pass, triple, and two singles into the seventh but only three runs were produced. English supplied the double with one out and the pass went to Hornsby. Along came Stephenson with a triple to the center field flag pole, English and Hornsby sauntering home. Stevie scored on Grimm's single to center. Chagnon went to the relief of Spencer and Hemsley singled, putting Grimm on third. Then excitement died. Grimm was thrown out at the plate on Jurges' roller to the pitcher, and a double steal failed.

Paul Waner ripped off his homer into the right field seats in the eighth. In the ninth Piet singled and was mopped up in a fast double play started by Herman. Then Grace singled, went to second and third without attracting attention, and home on a single by Brame.

PLAY TONIGHT.

The Norwood Park Sportsmen will meet the Jefferson Park Colonials in a twilight game tonight at the Norwood Park field, Natomash and Ardmore avenues.

Bob Smith Picked to Pitch Second of Pirate Series

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 2.—Bob Smith will pitch for the Cubs in the second game of the series with the Pirates tomorrow. George Gibson, Bucco manager, probably will decide that Steve Swetonic is as good as anybody else.

Burleigh Grimes' clubhouse slippers are a pair of moccasins which look as if they might have belonged to Chief Sitting Bull when he was a young man. The boys hid the antiques on a clubhouse rafter today. Burleigh stormed around until he located them.

Up to today the Pirates had won 11 out of their last fourteen starts, a splurge which in two weeks' time lifted them from eighth to third place. Their rise, however, hasn't caused any marked increase in patronage.

Paul Waner's two bagger in the third inning was his 29th of the season. That almost twice as many as boasted by the best two base specialist in the American league which employs a livelier ball.

When Stephenson slid into the plate in the fourth inning he gave his bum leg a severe twist. He limped to the bench and Gudat was sent down into the bull pen to stretch his muscles, but when the inning closed Stevie decided he'd get back on the job.

Gaelic Football Teams Play for Lead Sunday

The Mid-West Gaelic Athletic association schedule will bring together the champion Harry Bolands and Kickhams in a Gaelic football contest that will decide the leadership of the league at the Normal park stadium, 61st street and Racine avenue, Sunday afternoon. The Wolf Tones and the Thomas Ashe fifteen also will play.

THREE WOMEN REACH FINALS OF BILLIARD MEET

Miss Eleanor Heine of the Pioneer recreation, Miss Myrtle Olson of the Neva recreation, and Miss Georgia Veatch of Mussey's recreation last night qualified to meet in the final round tonight of the women's individual pocket billiard tournament at Mussey's Wabash avenue room.

Miss Heine reached the finals by defeating Miss Mary Fenton, Neva Recreation, 25 to 22; Miss Olson defeated Mrs. Hilda Stowell, Pioneer Recreation, 25 to 13, and Miss Veatch by defeating Miss Juanita Fry, Roseland recreation, 25 to 13.

These three players are the survivors of 24 who took part in the opening round Wednesday night.

Hafey, High, Roettger Get World Series Rings Sunday

St. Louis, Mo., June 2.—[Special.]—World series diamond rings will be presented Sunday to Chick Hafey, Andy High, and Wally Roettger, who were members of the championship St. Louis Cardinal team last year and who have since been traded to Cincinnati.

Jones Will Face Browns Today on South Side

The White Sox and the Browns will be back at it again this afternoon. Sam Jones will seek not only a victory but a restoration of some prestige he lost in a poor start at Cleveland the day the boys worked so hard helping Umpire Moriarty get to his feet.

Yesterday was Bruce Campbell's first appearance at Comiskey park since the Sox sent him to St. Louis in the Kress deal. Bruce, a Chicago boy, has been doing fine for the Browns. He may have been pressing for the home folks yesterday. At any rate he didn't make a hit in the five trips to the plate.

Milt Gaston, who drew the heaviest penalty as a result of the Moriarty brawl, is permitted to work out with his mates. During the term of his suspension, however, he must leave the ball park as soon as the umpires take charge of activities at game time.

Carey Selph's fielding recently has indicated he's in need of a rest, but he probably will have a hard time getting it, seeing as the team needs his hitting. He batted .600 yesterday, which isn't to be snubbed, even if he has made four errors and two other poor plays in his last two games.

Levey, Brownie shortstop, who has been attracting wide attention because he started hitting when recently he became a left handed batter, failed to make good on the ballyhoo yesterday. He didn't come close to poking out a safe one.

DEERFIELD HIGH TEAM FOURTH IN NATIONAL SHOOT

Washington, D. C., June 2.—[Special.]—Turning in a perfect score of 500 in the final match, the rifle team of Deerfield Shields High school, Highland Park, Ill., placed fourth in the third series of the national junior rifle matches of the National Rifle association.

The four high teams and their total points for the third series were: Western High, Washington, D. C., 1,470; Fresno, Cal., High, 1410; Central High, Bridgeport, Conn., 1380, and Deerfield Shields, 1350.

With 2690 points, Deerfield Shields was also fourth in aggregate points for all fifteen matches of the three series.

Wilson Hits 2 Home Runs as Dodgers Split

Boston, Mass., June 2.—[Special.]—Dazzy Vance held the Braves to five hits today and Brooklyn took the first game of a double header, 6 to 1. In the second contest young Bob Brown yielded only four hits and the Braves evened the day's score with a 5 to 1 victory.

Hack Wilson hit his sixth and seventh home runs of the season. The first circuit drive came in the opening game with two on base. The other prevented the 20 year old Brown from registering a shutout. Scores:

especially recommends the pines for a fighter in training.

"You know," Uncle Will said, pointing to the trees, "those pines are full of them stickers or Cohens or whatever you call them, and when they fall on the ground after a while they decay and then, boy, do they smell good? Get a whiff of that smell." Here Uncle Will whiffed deeply. "Well, when you whiff that smell it goes all over you, through your blood and lungs and up into your brain and makes you feel good. That's why we took Schmeling up here for his training, and, brother, when he gets through whiffing that smell for six weeks what chance do you think that Polak has got? Ah-h-h!" Uncle Will whiffed himself some more of the magic smell. "Go on, smell yourself some of that. It will make you feel good."

HELIANTHUS WINS BY 3 LENGTHS IN BELMONT STAKE

Masked Knight Second, Spinach Third.

New York, June 2.—[Special.]—Helianthus, four year old Sun Flag colt, carried the colors of the Brookmeade stable to a three length victory in the mile of the Maturity stakes, feature event on the program at Belmont today.

Masked Knight finished second, a head in advance of Spinach. Curate was fourth and Pilate, an added starter, was last in the small field. The winner earned $3,575 and paid 7 to 5. The time was 1:38.

Masked Knight Makes Pace.

Masked Knight sprinted into the lead with Pilate in second place on the outside. Helianthus was permitted to follow the pace, four lengths back. On the turn out of the backstretch Helianthus moved into second position. When straightened out in the stretch, Helianthus disposed of Masked Knight and completed the trip under mild urging. Masked Knight began to show signs of fatigue in the drive, but Jockey Knapp went to the whip and the colt just lasted to save the place.

The Belair stud's three year old filly, Laura Gal, and Jockey Mills proved a winning combination in the mile of the fifth event, which engaged thirteen three year old platers. Action, the early pacemaker, held on well to save the place, but could not withstand the challenge of the winner in the final drive. Dexterity, the favorite, closed gamely to finish third. The winner returned 12 to 1 and stepped the route in 1:38.

Microphone Is Winner.

Microphone, aided by the expert guidance of Jockey Robertson, led home Panetian by a half length, with Morsel a similar distance farther back in third position at the end of the six furlongs of the Ethelbert handicap.

N. U. OPENS GRID TICKET SALE; $3 TOP PRICE

Mailing of 16,000 football ticket announcements yesterday officially opened Northwestern university's 1932 grid season ticket sale.

A reduction of 50 cents each on two of the home games was revealed in the schedule of prices. Last year $3 was charged for all games. Only the Purdue and Ohio State games are included in the $3 class for next fall. The Missouri and Iowa contests have been reduced to $2.50.

The season ticket this year will cost $10, four less than last year. The sale which opened yesterday is for season tickets. Applications for individual game tickets will be accepted Aug. 15.

ADMITS ERROR IN RULING AGAINST NEGRO ATHLETES

Baltimore, Md., June 2.—[Special.]—Henry Iddins, John Hopkins university auditor, who barred four Negro athletes of Morgan college and St. John's school, Lawrenceville, Va., who had come here to compete in the Olympic trials, today said he "made a mistake" in sending away the colored youths. Iddins, in barring the athletes said there was a university ruling to keep Negroes from competing on its athletic fields. Today it was made known that the university has no such regulation. The Olympic tryouts will be held on John Hopkins field Saturday and the colored boys will compete.

BOATSWAIN DUE IN CHICAGO SOON FOR DERBY DRILL

Remember? He Whipped Burgoo King.

Boatswain, conqueror of Burgoo King in the Withers Stakes in New York, is heading west for the American Derby. He's due here most any day now and will come in charge of Trainer Preston Burch. He is to be campaigned at Arlington throughout July.

Jockey Gilbert Elston, injured in a fall in the last race at Washington Park on Wednesday, remained in a serious condition at St. James hospital in Chicago Heights last night. Attending physicians are hopeful of his recovery, but it will be many months before he is able to ride again.

M. L. Schwartz of New York has sent word that he is sending his colt Gusto here for the American Derby. Gusto, a son of American Flag-Daylight Saving, is to start in the Belmont stakes Saturday and will be brought here a little later by Trainer Max Hirsch. Word also came to prepare a stall for Mrs. J. H. Whitney's Stepenfetchit and Jockey Buddy Ensor is coming along to ride him.

It is strange how a horse's name will take now and then with the long shot players in a crowd. Albert Sabath started one called Ixnay in the third race yesterday and every long shot player climbed aboard. But the daughter of St. Henry couldn't run fast enough.

The number of nominations for the $70,000 Classic to be run at Arlington was increased to 114 yesterday when Brandon Mint's name was submitted as a supplementary nomination. He was fourth in the Kentucky Derby.

Chicago owners are getting a bit hoggish as to where the Washington Park purses should go. Four of the races run at Washington yesterday were won by horses representing Chicago owners. Volta Maid triumphed for L. M. Severson, Miss Melody for Stuvesant Peabody, Spanish Play for Dick Morris, and Princess Camelia for John Marsch.

KRONE ARRANGES SEATS FOR 25,000 AT MAT SHOW

Seating arrangements for the wrestling match at Wrigley field next Thursday night between Jim Londos and Gino Garibaldi have been completed, according to Promoter Doc Krone.

The ring, raised high off the ground, will be placed directly back of home plate and the high screen back of it will be removed. No seat will be more than 200 feet from the ring.

The choice seats will be the boxes, which will run a few yards past the first and third base lines. The upper deck will not be used. This is the first time the National league park has been used for wrestling.

There will be approximately 25,000 seats available.

The site will be home to Jim McMillen, who meets Milo Steinborn in one of the four supporting matches. Jim roved over the field while playing tackle with the Chicago Bears. Jim Clinkstock, giant Indian who meets Paul Harper of Texas, also has played football on Wrigley field.

Walton Manual Gives Big Choice of Lures.

BY BOB BECKER.

June is a marked month on the fisherman's calendar. To the trout seeker it is ideal for fly fishing. This sport always resolves itself into a question of which patterns are best. It is then that we turn to our old copy of Izaak Walton's "Compleat Angler" and, thumbing the yellowed pages, finally stop at page 429 to see what Charles Cotton, Walton's friend, has to say on the subject.

Cotton, the experienced fly caster with a deep knowledge of natural insects and fly patterns, has suggestions on June lures that should interest every fly fisherman. The quaint old names and expressions he uses are as interesting as his suggestions.

Owl-Fly for June.

The Owl-Fly is a June recommendation. This is the white miller. Then Cotton says: "We have another dun, called the Barm-Fly, from its yeasty colour. The dubbing is of the fur of a yellow dun cat, and a gray wing, of a mallard's feather." This word barm intrigued us. It was a new one. We found that barm is the yeast formed on brewing liquors.

Further excerpts from the "Compleat Angler" are:

"We also have a Hackle, with a purple body, whipt about with a red capon's feather.

"To these we have, this month, a Flesh Fly. The dubbing of black spaniel's fur, and blue wool, mixed; and a grey wing.

"We have likewise a Brown Gnat, with a very slender body of brown and violet camlet mixed, and a light grey wing."

Here's an Idea.

The Black Gnat fly also is recommended for June. Here is the way to tie it: "The body extremely small, of black mohair, spaniel's fur, or ostrich feather; wing of the lightest part of a starling or mallard's feather."

This pattern may give some bird fans who are indignant over the invasion of the starling an idea.

According to the "Compleat Angler," starling feathers are quite useful to the fly tyer.

Salmon Wins Coronation by a Head; Cameronian 3d

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 2.—Salmon, a 5 year old colt owned by Mrs. Arthur James, today won the Coronation cup at the Epsom Downs course. A head behind him was Goyecas, with Cameronian, winner of the English Derby last year and owned by J. A. De War, third. Eight horses competed for the gold cup and purse of about $4,000.

FAIL TO FIND TAX COLLECTION CASH IN CLOSED BANK

Trace $235,683 Payments to Bain Institution.

Tax payments amounting to $235,683, collected by the West Englewood Trust and Savings bank as an authorized agent of the county treasurer, were not on hand in cash on June 9, 1931, when the bank was closed, according to testimony yesterday in Superior Judge William J. Lindsay's court.

County Treasurer McDonough, through his attorney, Thomas D. Nash, is suing for the recovery of $884,433 of tax money collected by ten of the defunct Bain banks and not turned over to the treasury. Irwin T. Gilruth, receiver for the Bain banks, is opposing the suit on the ground that the county treasurer must be considered in the same class as any other depositor.

I. H. Besser, cashier of the county treasurer's office, testified yesterday that the West Englewood bank accepted $395,683 in tax payments between April 16, 1931, and May 16, 1931, and that only $160,000 of it reached the county treasurer. He and Gilruth were the only witnesses heard during the day.

For Tax Purposes Only.

"The money was received from the taxpayers for tax purposes, and it now appears that the depositors of those closed banks are trying to get a slice of it to offset their losses," Attorney Nash declared when the case was called. Attorneys Adrian Hoover and Dudley Jessup, for the receiver, said they would show that Treasurer McDonough directed the bank, as a deputy collector, to place the money in a substation account in his name, and therefore McDonough has no claim to priority of payment.

It was brought out through questions asked by Judge Lindsay that, even though he should rule in favor of the treasurer, there is no cash available to pay out. Receiver Gilruth told the judge that when he took over the assets of the closed bank there was only $54,404 in cash on hand and due from other banks.

Liquidation Awaits Market Turn.

When asked by the judge how long it would be before the other assets of the bank would be liquidated, Gilruth answered:

"Not until the real estate market improves. Any one's guess is as good as mine. It can't be done in the immediate future."

When Judge Lindsay asked whether it would take "two, three, four, or five years," Gilruth declined to say. He said he could not estimate how much additional cash he had realized from the assets since he took charge.

At the opening of the hearing it was admitted that the county treasurer has a claim against the Bain banks for taxes collected and not turned over, as follows:

Armitage State	$ 18,167
Auburn Park Trust and Savings	50,961
Chatham State	71,053
Chicago Lawn State	206,347
Elston State	59,154
Ridge State	21,109
Stony Island State	91,921
West Englewood	235,683
West Highland	116,641
West Lawn Trust	13,393
Total	$884,429

The Bryn Mawr and Brainerd State banks do not owe any tax money. Attorneys for the banks' receiver have made a point in their arguments that seven of the institutions involved are trust banks. This, it is said, may have a bearing on the final ruling.

Recalls 160 Tax Agencies.

Besser testified that Treasurer McDonough had designated 160 banks in the county as substations for collection of taxes. He received daily reports on the collections at each bank and he read aloud the amounts sent in by the West Englewood bank, which is to serve as a test case for the banks in the trust classification.

Attorney Nash asked Besser if there had ever been any bids asked or bond put up to secure the tax money, or a passbook ever issued, in an attempt to show that the tax money was not placed on deposit by the treasurer. The answer was no to all those questions.

Gilruth testified that unpreferred claims against the West Englewood bank amount to $3,389,283, and that there are 14,874 claimants. Excluding the county's claim, the preferred claims total $798,632. All other claimants would be prejudiced by granting the county priority in payment, Gilruth said. The hearing will be continued today when Treasurer McDonough is expected to testify.

AUTO PART TRADE HELD CAUSE OF THEFT INCREASE

Night Parking Defended Before Council.

BY HAL FOUST.

The city council traffic committee, in considering the repeal of the all night parking ban, heard testimony yesterday that the recent increase in automobile thefts was due to the ease with which stolen accessories and parts are sold, rather than to all night parking.

At the conclusion of the session a subcommittee was appointed to report on the question of repealing the ordinance. In the meantime the 200,000 Chicago car owners who leave their machines in front of their homes at night will not be arrested.

Parking Not Theft Factor.

"No one is more interested than the Chicago Motor club in reducing automobile thefts," said Joseph H. Braun, general counsel for the club, "since we write sixteen per cent of the car insurance in Illinois.

"We have made a careful canvass of the situation and have found that all night parking has nothing to do with the increase in thefts. We have found that the most effective weapon against the thieves is a statute regulating the sale of used cars, parts and accessories. Such a bill will be introduced at the next session of the legislature.

"There are places in the city where parking should be prohibited at night as well as in the daytime to facilitate traffic. But we are opposed to a blanket prohibition that would force an additional annual garage bill of at least $4,800,000 upon the motoring public."

Garage Men Silent.

In the committee room were officers of the Chicago Public Garage Operators' association, but they did not speak. Robert Nau, secretary of the Chicago Association of Commerce traffic committee, also refrained from testifying.

E. L. Richards, secretary of the National Automobile Underwriters association, said that insurance rates were raised 31.8 per cent last February due to losses from theft. He said he didn't know what caused the increase in losses, but had been hopeful that parking restrictions would reduce thefts.

Police Captain Matthew Zimmer of the stolen auto bureau was another who placed faith in the parking ban. He told of 34,957 cars stolen in the last eleven months and, although 90 per cent were recovered, most of them were stripped. In this time 287 thieves have been sent to the penitentiary, 812 to the house of correction and 53 to jail.

Subcommittee Members.

Ald. John Massen, chairman of the committee, appointed the following aldermen on the subcommittee to continue the investigation: O. E. Northrup [19th], Thomas J. O'Grady [14th], Frank J. Corr [17th], Frank A. Sloan [26th], George D. Kells [28th], James B. Waller [43d], and James R. Quinn [50th].

A hearing on an ordinance to modify the loop parking restrictions was set for 10:30 a. m. next Monday.

DR. H. C. SWEARINGEN, FORMER MODERATOR, STRICKEN ON TRAIN

Hastings, Neb., June 2.—(AP)—Stricken with heart disease as his train reached here this morning, Dr. Henry C. Swearingen, 64 of St. Paul, Minn., former moderator of the Presbyterian general assembly, died before aid could be administered.

DR. H. C. SWEARINGEN.

He was moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in 1921.

Dr. Swearingen was born at Hookstown, Pa., and was ordained in 1894. He was the author of a number of religious and historical pamphlets.

ATTORNEY FOR BLACKMER DIES UNDER TRAIN

New York, June 2.—[Special.]—George E. Holmes, a member of the law firm of Olcott, Holmes, Glass, Paul & Havens, attorney for Henry M. Blackmer, the Denver oil man involved in the Teaport Dome oil scandal, was killed today, under the wheels of a B.-M. T train.

The motorman of the train and another witness said they saw Mr. Holmes jump to the tracks. His business associates, however, were positive that he had not jumped but had suffered one of the attacks of dizziness which had been frequent with him since he was operated upon for sinus infection two years ago.

Mr. Holmes, an authority on income tax legislation, lived with his wife and his 17 year old daughter, Jane. A member of Mr. Holmes's firm, who identified the body, said the lawyer left his office in excellent spirits, for he had just completed the complicated income tax affairs of Blackmer.

FOUR CHILDREN HURT BY AUTOS ON SOUTH SIDE

Policeman Injured Aiding Boy Victim.

Four children and a policeman were injured in automobile accidents in the Englewood residential district late yesterday.

Joseph Carroll, 5 years old, 6907 Emerald avenue, suffered a skull fracture when he was struck by the car of Lad C. Horvath, 5538 South Ashland avenue, at 63d and Halsted streets.

Rescue Car Wrecked.

Policeman Sullivan picked up the boy and, with his brother, Robert, 7, started for St. Bernard's hospital in Horvath's car. At 64th street and Stewart avenue they collided with the car of Anthony Colby, 8331 Anthony avenue. Both Sullivan and Robert were severely cut and bruised. A third automobile took all three to the hospital.

John Swieriga, 5 years old, 7350 Aberdeen street, was struck at 74th and Aberdeen streets. The driver, Matthew Gannon, 7917 Champlain avenue, took the child to the Auburn Park hospital.

Irwin Glasser, 7 years old, 7312 Kenwood avenue, was struck in front of 1245 East 75th street and suffered a skull fracture.

Chicago Woman Killed.

Mrs. Katherine Bonnell, 47 years old, wife of Ralph A. Bonnell, chief engineer of the Congress Construction company, 506 South Wabash avenue, died yesterday in a hospital in Wausau, Wis., of injuries suffered on Tuesday in an automobile accident near there.

The Bonnells, with P. F. Smith of Chicago, also an engineer, had driven to the Wisconsin city for a fishing trip. The accident occurred when the Bonnell automobile was thrown into a ditch by a flat tire while Mrs. Bonnell was driving. Smith was slightly injured, but Bonnell escaped unhurt.

County Death Toll 466.

Two automobile deaths in Cook county yesterday increased the toll since Jan. 1 to 466. The victims:

William Kolka, 28 years old, 1926 South 56th court, Cicero. Died at the county hospital. He was injured Wednesday when the truck on which he was riding struck another car.

Mrs. Mary Harrington, 85 years old, of 4751 West Jackson boulevard. Died yesterday in the West Suburban hospital. She was struck April 2 in Jackson boulevard near her home.

Drake Brothers Sued for $275,000 by Stock Brokers

Tracy Drake and his brother, John B. Drake, respectively president and secretary-treasurer of the Drake Hotel company, yesterday were named defendants in the praecipe of a $275,000 damage suit brought on behalf of the Stein Alstrin & Co., stock brokers. The suit was filed in the Superior court by Attorney Robert Cantwell Jr. He refused to disclose any details except that the suit was the outgrowth of a stock transaction.

Louis Wurtzberg, 79, Dies from Fall in Hotel Room

HUGH CHALMERS DIES; ONE OF PIONEERS IN MEDIUM PRICED AUTO

Beacon, N. Y., June 2.—(AP)—Hugh Chalmers, pioneer automobile manufacturer and inventor, died today in a private hospital of pneumonia after an illness of several days. He was 58 years old.

He was stricken while motoring with Mrs. Chalmers from Detroit to Yonkers to visit friends and was removed to Craig house, operated by an old friend. His illness was complicated by a weakness of the heart.

The body will be sent to Detroit, where funeral services are scheduled for Monday in the First Presbyterian church.

Besides the widow, the former Frances S. Hauser, Chalmers is survived by two sons, Hugh Jr. and Bruce, and two daughters, Mrs. Harry W. Frost and Miss Peggy Chalmers.

Chalmers was one of the first of the small coterie of men to foresee a market for the medium priced automobile. He was once president of the Chalmers-Detroit Motor company and was a leading figure in the industry until his retirement ten years ago.

His early career was spent with the National Cash Register company in Dayton, O. He rose from office boy. He was born in Dayton and went to Detroit in 1907.

Gardiner Hammond Dies After Long Illness

Gardiner Hammond, 37 years old, died yesterday at him home at 1200 Lake Shore drive, following a long illness. He was a member of the brokerage firm of Babcock, Rushton & Co. Funeral services will be held this afternoon at the Graceland cemetery chapel. He is survived by his widow, Kathleen, and three children, Gardiner IV., 5 years old; Marguerite, 4, and Peter Rothwell, 2. Mrs. Hammond is the daughter of Andrew R. Sherriff, prominent Chicago attorney.

GARIBALDI'S WIFE IS BURIED WITH MILITARY POMP

ROME, June 2.—(AP)—The body of Anita Garibaldi, wife of the liberator, Gen. Giuseppe Garibaldi, was carried today to its final resting place on the high Janiculum hill here on the 50th anniversary of her noted husband's death. It was accompanied from Genoa last night by all members of the Garibaldi family.

On Saturday Queen Elena will dedicate an equestrian statue of Signora Garibaldi within sight of that of her husband, which overlooks the Vatican at the point where he directed the battle against the papal force.

Premier Mussolini, with bared head and all the members of his cabinet gave the Fascist salute as the white casket, borne by red shirted Garibaldians from the funeral train, went past. Bands played, the Italian troops saluted, and mass of people, including delegations from Argentina, Uruguay, Cuba, and Brazil, watched while the casket was placed on a fire truck and covered with the Italian tricolor. A procession of many thousands marched to the top of the Janiculum hill.

BURLINGTON ROAD AND CUDAHY VOTE DIVIDEND CUTS

Former in First Reduction Since Year 1895.

The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad and the Cudahy Packing company were among the leading corporations which voted yesterday to reduce dividends.

Directors of the Burlington voted the first downward revision of dividends since 1895 by declaring a semi-annual dividend of $3 a share. The road has paid $5 semi-annually, or $10 a year, since 1922, with extra distributions being made in several years during the period. The road is owned jointly by the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern and the reduction will mean a loss of revenue for both carriers. The action may mean a further reduction in dividends by the controlling road, it is believed in financial circles.

Colorado and Southern, controlled by the Burlington, yesterday voted to omit the semi-annual dividend of $2 a share on the first preferred stock. Common dividends were suspended last December.

Cudahy Cuts Dividend.

Directors of Cudahy Packing yesterday placed the common stock on a $2.50 annual dividend basis, as compared with $4 hitherto. A quarterly dividend of 62½ cents was authorized, payable July 15 to holders of record July 5.

At the same time the organization announced a second reduction of 10 per cent in all salaries and wages to take effect June 13. In connection with the announcement E. A. Cudahy, chairman, said that notwithstanding present conditions the volume of the company's business continues to grow.

"Unit sales in the first half of the fiscal year are substantially in excess of the corresponding six months of 1931," he said. "Earnings, on the other hand, as in 1931, have been affected by inventory losses due to the continued decline in prices of meat and other animal products. It has been two years since we bought cattle and 35 years since we bought hogs at the prices we are paying today. Our inventories based on these costs may show further losses, but it is reasonable that they will be inconsequential."

The financial position of the company is strong and all indications are that the company will close the present year in strong condition and with a reasonable margin of profit, he added.

Schulte Omits Payment.

Directors of Schulte Retail Stores corporation yesterday decided to omit the quarterly dividend of $2 due on the preferred stock at this time. The last payment on the stock was in January, 1932. Action at the March meeting was postponed.

Waitt & Bond Co. omitted the quarterly dividend of 20 cents on the class B stock, due at this time.

Industrial Rayon corporation declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on the common shares, placing the stock on a $2 yearly basis, against $4 previously paid.

Directors of Abraham & Straus, Inc., reduced the dividend rate on the common stock to a $1.20 yearly basis, compared with a $1.50 basis heretofore, with the declaration of a quarterly payment of 30 cents a share.

Deisel-Wemmer-Gilbert corporation omitted the quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock, due at this time.

Pays 35 Cents.

F. E. Myers & Bros. company declared a dividend of 35 cents on the common stock, payable June 30 to stock of record June 15. The company previously paid 50 cents quarterly.

The Niles-Bement-Pond company omitted the dividend on the capital stock, due at this time. Three months ago a 15 cent dividend was declared and previous quarterly periods 25 cents.

BANKS REVERSE POLICY; EXPAND CREDIT SHARPLY

Senate Tax Bill Held Confidence Aid.

BY O. A. MATHER.

With congress nearing the goal of a tax measure that will balance the national budget the banks of the country sharply reversed their recent policy and poured out credit in the last week. Close to 100 million dollars was utilized by the member banks of the federal reserve system in making loans and investments, judged by the weekly reports issued by the reserve board yesterday. In addition the reserve banks made available an additional $50,004,000 of credit by continuing their purchases of government securities.

It would appear that the claim of bankers that they were awaiting the clearing up of uncertainties attendant on legislation by congress before joining the reserve banks in a credit expansion movement were justified. At the same time it would appear that the banks have launched a movement to support the listed bond market as an initial move in restoring confidence.

Reduce Reserve Accounts.

The most striking item in the weekly statement of the federal reserve system was the one showing that the member banks had reduced their reserve accounts at the reserve banks by $89,699,000. This fact, coupled with an increase of $23,334,000 in borrowings from the reserve banks, clearly indicated that the banks have at last turned to credit expansion.

This reversal of policy is evidenced even more clearly in the statements for the weekly reporting member banks, which are the large banks of New York and Chicago. These New York banks increased their commercial loans by $45,000,000 and their collateral loans by $5,000,000. While they sold $4,000,000 of government obligations, they purchased $6,000,000 of other securities. The Chicago banks increased their collateral loans by $8,000,000 and their commercial loans by $4,000,000. They sold $18,000,000 of government obligations, but bought $6,000,000 of other securities.

Brokers' Loans Gain.

Moreover, a more favorable attitude by banks on collateral loans was indicated in the weekly report on brokers' loans. This showed an increase of $16,000,000 for the week, in spite of the decline in stock market prices. Such loans now total $409,000,000, which, however, is $1,130,000,000 below a year ago. The New York banks expanded their own loans by $19,000,000, while interior banks withdrew $3,000,000.

While all this evidence of expanding credit made for cheerfulness, the statements held some offsetting factors. The reserve board reported that the United States lost $101,000,000 in gold during the week as the result of continued European withdrawals. Gold reserves of the reserve bank declined $106,014,000. However, our monetary stock still totals $4,106,000,000, which is the largest supply held by any nation and exceeds 75 per cent of total money in circulation, which is $5,467,000,000. Of this stock of gold the federal reserve banks hold $2,751,067,000, which exceeds their note circulation of $2,564,399,000.

Money Shows Increase.

While total money in circulation expanded $57,000,000 in the last week, including an increase of $31,685,000 in federal reserve notes, this was attributed to the greater need for currency for holiday and month end purposes. It is probable much of the increase will return to the banks in the next week. Total reserves of the reserve banks declined $11,568,000 and the ratio of reserves to liabilities eased to 61.4 per cent, compared with 63.1 per cent a week ago.

The New York Federal Reserve bank made no change in its 3 per cent rediscount rate yesterday.

Atlanta Starts Campaign.

Atlanta, Ga., June 2.—(AP)—Big business in the southeast organized today to find jobs for idle dollars and idle men.

Eugene R. Black, governor of the Atlanta Federal Reserve bank, in announcing the formation of a committee to seek employment for the millions of dollars in potential credit made available by recent market operations of the reserve system, said lack of money was not the obstacle to business recovery.

"There is plenty of money," he said; "more than has been available in many so-called periods of prosperity. The question is how to put it to work."

Cleveland Takes Action.

Cleveland, O., June 2.—(AP)—Business leaders of the fourth federal reserve district, which includes Ohio and Kentucky and parts of West Virginia and Pennsylvania, were organized today to devise means of expanding credit. Fifteen of the district's outstanding industrialists were appointed on a committee to devise means for freeing credit and study all methods that might help put men back to work.

The committee was named by E. R. Fancher, governor of the Fourth district, after a conference yesterday in which Eugene Meyer, governor of the federal reserve board at Washington, said this is no time for "apathy, indifference and a state of general helplessness." Formation of the group is in line with similar movements in other federal reserve districts.

Bank Clearings Decline in Last Week of Month

Bank clearings for the week ended June 1 totaled $4,215,128,000, compared with $4,221,152,000 for the preceding week, according to Bradstreet's. The weekly index of wholesale prices established a tenth successive low point at $1.61 during the week ended May 31, a drop of 1.2 per cent from the previous week.

Railway Credit Pool Loans $21,944,217

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 2.—The Railroad Credit corporation as of June 1 had consummated or authorized a total of $21,944,217 loans to railroads to meet charges on fixed interest obligations, according to the monthly report filed with the interstate commerce commission today. Of that total $7,221,574 was in actual loans and $14,722,643 in commitments.

In a letter transmitting a copy of the monthly report to the chief executives of the various railroads E. G. Buckland, president of the Railroad Credit corporation, said that liability will, in due course, probably be reduced by $6,069,687.50.

Explains Still Further.

"The March, 1932, reports," Mr. Buckland added, "of emergency charges [accruing to the corporation in May] approximated $6,000,000 and, together with the relatively small June 1 requirements, made possible the building up of the cash balance available for loans in anticipation of July 1 needs.

"The revenues under ex parte 103 have been considerably below the original estimates. Assuming that net receipts are $5,250,000 during June, 1932, the cash available for July 1 requirements would be $11,700,000. According to present indications, this amount, together with the coöperation of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, should prove adequate."

Mr. Buckland said "the coöperation of the representatives of the government and the applicant carriers is substantially contributing to the stabilization of railroad credit."

Provides for Pooling.

In its decision in ex parte 103 the interstate commerce commission permitted certain increases in rates, the proceeds to be pooled and used for loans to needy carriers. The method of pooling the revenues, known as the marshaling and distributing plan, was proposed by the carriers and is administered by the Railroad Credit corporation.

By the terms of the plan under which the Railroad Credit corporation operates, and in according with the decision of the interstate commerce commission, loans by the corporation are restricted to the prevention of defaults in fixed obligations.

Mr. Buckland, testifying before the commission on May 25 in a proposal to make the increased freight rates effective in all states on intrastate traffic as well as interstate traffic declared that demand on the Railroad Credit corporation this year will approximate $100,000,000, compared with expected receipts of about $60,000,000 on traffic up to the end of October, the latest period from which funds will be available for the corporation in the calendar year 1932.

Overestimated Earnings.

The original estimate of additional revenues from the increased rates for the year 1932 was $100,000,000 to $125,000,000.

As the result of the further sharp decline in traffic for April, operating profits of the carriers for the month were reduced to a level representing the largest decrease from 1931 recorded so far this year, notwithstanding additional substantial slashes in operating expenses.

Reports received to date indicate that net operating income of all class 1 roads for April approximated $20,400,000, compared with $39,074,313 in the like 1931 period, a decrease of 47.7 per cent in comparison with April, 1930, when net operating income totaled $62,312,345, the decrease would amount to 67.2 per cent.

Gross revenues of all roads for April were in the neighborhood of $268,600,000, which would be a decrease of 27.3 per cent in comparison with 1931 results and a reduction of 40.4 per cent in comparison with April, 19[illegible].

I. C. R. R. Asks $11,000,000.

Washington, D. C., June 2.—The Illinois Central Railroad company today applied to the Reconstruction Finance corporation for a loan of $11,000,000 for three years to pay interest and security maturities. Of the total asked for $7,466,000 is for interest payments which the Illinois Central said would not be required from the Reconstruction Finance corporation if it got that amount of money from the Railroad Credit corporation.

Asks $759,000 Loan.

The Western Pacific Railroad company asked the interstate commerce commission to approve a $759,000 three year loan from the Reconstruction finance corporation. This would be the second loan for the Western Pacific, the road having already received a $2,102,000 advance from the corporation.

RAILWAY ISSUES LEAD BRISK RISE IN BOND MARKET

Many Leaders Gain 1 to 6 Points.

New York, June 2.—(AP)—After an initial outburst of selling the bond market rallied vigorously today. Many leading issues scored gains of 1 to 6 points for the day. The rally was the first to break the daily succession of tumbling prices which began in the middle of May. It was the sharpest rally since last March 22. Railroad bonds led the upturn, with utilities a close second.

Senator Smoot's statement that an early accord appeared likely on the congressional revenue bill lent a cheerful touch to trading. In addition, reports were current that a bank buying movement would shortly center in bonds as a means of stabilizing prices. Although unconfirmed, the bank report had earmarks of authenticity, and some of the day's buying was attributed to important investment institutions. Nevertheless, investors continued to look to Washington, D. C., rather than Wall street for an answer to the question in their minds as to whether the time might now be ripe to expect sustained improvement in the market.

Rail Liens Buoyant.

Railroad bonds derived their principal encouragement from the statement of the Railroad Credit corporation that sufficient funds were available to insure payment of all July 1 railroad interest coupons. Santa Fé bonds rallied 2 to 3 points. Other carrier liens which moved up 1 to 6 points included bonds of the Baltimore and Ohio, Rock Island, Erie, Hocking Valley, New York Central, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific, and Union Pacific.

Investors appeared to be seeking prime utility bonds. Gains of 1 to 3 points or so appeared in the more active issues of Columbia Gas and Electric, Detroit Edison, Philadelphia company, and Public Service Electric. American Telephone, Westinghouse Electric, and Interborough Rapid Transit bonds were also strong features.

United States government issues were irregular, with the Liberty group advancing, while some of the treasury denominations were off a little. Foreign governments were irregular with particular strength appearing in Argentine bonds. United Kingdom and French government issues were steady to firm.

N. Y. Curb Stocks Rally.

The New York curb market was finally able to accomplish a rally that held until the end of trading today, although not until further liquidation had been absorbed in the morning. Trading was active, according to recent standards.

Utilities met fresh selling in the morning, but came back strongly in the late dealings. American Gas and Electric closed up 2¾, after an early sag into new low ground. Cleveland Electric Illuminating, a lightly traded issue, dropped 3¾, and failed to recover. Consolidated Gas of Baltimore slipped 3 points, then came back. Electric Bond and Share touched a new low at 5, but rebounded to close at 6, up ⅝ net. A few preferred issues again broke widely in a thin market. National Power and Light 6 per cent tumbled 6 points and New York Telephone preferred, 8 points.

Oil closed with a firm tone. Gulf slumped a point, then rebounded. Standard of Indiana rose nearly a point net in a large turnover. In the mines special selling appeared in Mohawk, which dropped more than 5 points.

Niles Bement Pond recovered fractionally in a small turnover. The Swift stocks continued to recover, Swift International advancing 2 points. Sherwin Williams and International Cigar Machinery lost 3 points.

STANOLIND CO. WILL REDEEM 10 MILLION OF BONDS ON AUG. 5

The Stanolind Crude Oil Purchasing company, subsidiary of Standard Oil Company [Indiana] will redeem on Aug. 5, 1932, ten million dollars worth of its outstanding 5½ per cent gold bonds, series A, due Jan. 1, 1938. These bonds were originally issued by the then Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company and still bear the name of the company as it was before the full interest was taken over by Standard of Indiana and the name was changed to Stanolind.

Of forty-two million dollars worth of the bonds issued, approximately thirty-one million were outstanding on May 27, 1932. The redemption will be at 102 and accrude interest. Numbers of the bonds to be redeemed have been drawn and will be advertised. Payment will be made by the First Union Trust and Savings bank in Chicago, or the Chase National or the National City bank in New York.

Money for the redemption is being provided by Standard Oil of Indiana largely from funds acquired in connection with sale of its interest in the foreign properties of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport company.

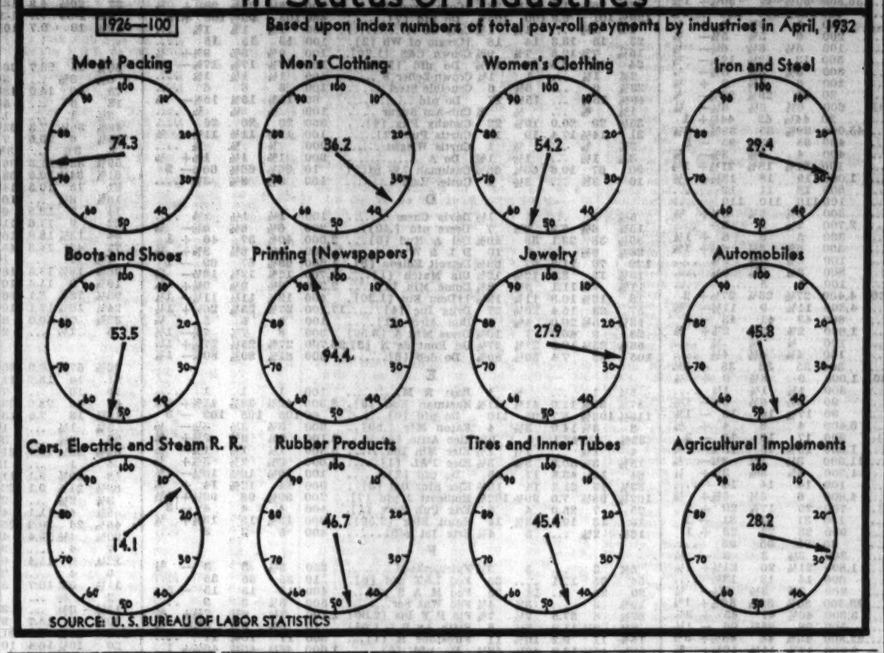
Government Report Reveals Wide Variation in Status of Industries



RECEIVER ASKED FOR MOBILE AND OHIO RAILROAD

St. Louis, Mo., June 2.—(AP)—A petition for receivership for the Mobile and Ohio railroad was filed in federal court here today by Gatch, Tennant & Co., an insurance firm. The petition was based on a claim by the insurance firm for $6,855, which it said represented unpaid insurance premiums.

Buses and Barges Blamed.

New York, June 2.—(AP)—Difficulties of the Mobile and Ohio railroad brought to light by a petition for receivership were laid to unregulated bus and barge competition and failure to negotiate a loan with the Reconstruction Finance corporation, Fairfax Harrison, president of the Southern Railway company, made that statement tonight. Barge lines operated by the federal government on the Warrior and Mississippi rivers, together with road improvements and consequent increased bus competition, had cut heavily into the M. & O.'s profits, the statement said. It was explained that the road could not produce such collateral as was required by the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

The Southern Railway company is the largest stockholder in the M. & O., although the latter always has operated as a self-contained property.

SENATE GROUP CALLS ANACONDA AIDS TO INQUIRY

New York, June 2.—(AP)—Representatives of the Anaconda Copper Mining company and National City company, investment affiliate of the National City bank, have been subpoenaed by William A. Gray, counsel for the senate committee investigating the New York stock exchange, to appear in Washington for questioning tomorrow. This was learned today.

Pool activity in Anaconda stock during later stages of the bull market was recently a subject of testimony before the committee, with Percy A. Rockefeller as one of the witnesses. It was testified that the pool had lost money in its operations. Anaconda shares sold as high as $174.87 in 1929. Their low for that year was $67.25.

Move Toward Liquidation of Pynchon & Co. Assets

The Composition Liquidating corporation, which will carry out the plan accepted by the creditors of the former New York Stock Exchange firm of Pynchon & Co., as approved by the U. S. District court, has been formed to acquire the assets of the firm for distribution to creditors.

TREASURY DEFICIT AS YEAR END NEARS IS $2,684,950,446

Washington, D. C., June 2.—(AP)—The government completed eleven months of the 1932 fiscal year with a deficit of $2,684,950,446. The treasury's month end statement, made public today, showed collections from all sources amounted to $1,770,269,398, while expenditures had mounted to $4,455,219,844.

Receipts for the eleven months last year were $2,684,438,387, while expenditures were $3,729,348,486. The chief contributor to the decline was income tax collections which this year amounted to $895,978,640, compared with $1,564,628,881 a year ago.

Miscellaneous internal revenue dropped from $517,817,379 last year to $457,008,526. Customs duties slump totaling $310,379,420 against $349,356,553 last year.

General expenses of the government totaled $2,311,798,321 for the eleven months as compared with $2,066,620,082 last year. The postal deficiency amounted to $170,018,810 against $119,017,315 a year ago and the reconstruction corporation required $500,000,000 to start operations.

The public debt increased $2,509,788,077 in the year from May 31, 1931, to last Tuesday. On that date it totaled $19,036,916,646 against $18,596,695,430 at the end of April.

On May 31 the total debt was little more than $7,500,000,000, less than the peak reached on Aug. 31, 1919, when it amounted to $26,596,701,648 as a result of the world war. In the last eleven months the government sold securities amounting to $8,598,328,726. The principal part was used to retire maturing debt which totaled $6,362,693,572.

PRIME STOCKS MOVE UP AGAIN IN LONDON MART

LONDON, June 2.—(AP)—Giltedged securities and Japanese bonds added further gains to yesterday's improvement, while other sections reacted on profit-taking. American and French favorites were adversely affected by unfavorable Wall street and Paris news. The closing was irregular.

Paris Market Dull.

PARIS, June 2.—(AP)—The advance on the bourse was checked by the irregular closing at New York yesterday. Royal Dutch and South American mining shares were lower and the market closed heavy.

Berlin Prices Lower.

BERLIN, June 1.—(AP)—Trading on the boerse today was quieter and prices declined about two points. The close was inactive.

Cut Swedish Rate.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, June 2.—(AP)—The Swedish bank rate was reduced from 4½ to 4 per cent today, effective tomorrow.

N. Y. Curb Seat Sells for $16,500; Lowest Since 1925

New York, June 2.—(AP)—Arrangements were made today for the sale of a New York Curb exchange membership at $16,500, a decrease of $2,500 from the previous transaction and the lowest price recorded since 1925.

Storage of Gasoline at Refineries Show Decline

Storage of gasoline at refineries at the end of last week totaled 44,337,000 barrels, a decline of 366,000 barrels from the previous week, the American Petroleum institute reports.

CHICAGO STOCKS SCORE GAINS IN LATE TRADING

Irregular improvement was made by stocks in yesterday's trading on the Chicago exchange. Further recovery in the Swift issues was a feature of the day. Weakness was shown by the utility stocks early in the day but toward the close buying lifted prices above or nearly Wednesday's final quotations.

An early break in U. S. Gypsum on unexpected selling carried the stock down to 10¾ but later support enabled the issue to rally and close the day slightly above its previous price.

Commonwealth Edison broke through to 48⅞ then recovered to finish a point higher at 52½. Public Service of Northern Illinois no par stock was steady but the $100 par stock fell 19½ points from its previous quotation after several days of inactivity. The $100 par stock shares alike with the no par in dividends and yesterday's price spread was a recognition of the recent decline in other stock.

Swift International showed unusual strength throughout the day and closed at 15. The issue is now selling at the price it brought previous to the bad break last week. Current reports on its business are favorable. The decline last week was caused by temporary unsettlement caused by the death of Edward F. Swift.

BROKER CLERKS PROTEST HIGHER TAX ON FUTURES

Passage by the United States senate of the tax bill, which includes a levy of 5 cents on each $100 "futures" trade in grains, cotton and provisions, was made the subject of protest yesterday by a committee of 100 employés of grain and provision dealers on the Chicago Board of Trade. The protest was addressed to Congressman Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois, who will be one to the house conferees to consider the bill, now before a joint conference committee.

According to the protest, there will be 100,000 jobs at stake by July 15. The present tax is 1 cent per $100, and the clerks point out that the 5 cent rate is an increase of 400 per cent. Action taken by the committee of 100 was followed by a message from Carl W. Gerstenberg, commander of the Chicago Board of Trade post, American Legion, containing the phrase that 50,000 ex-service men "demand the right to continue feeding their families!"

The clerks' message to Rainey said: "It has been estimated enforcement of the law will throw 100,000 men and women out of work by July 15, adding this number to the eight millions now tramping the streets in search of bread and butter."

Nation's Gold Stock Loses $20,523,600

New York, June 2.—(AP)—The loss in monetary gold today through exports and earmark account totaled $20,523,600. There was withdrawn for shipment to France $7,250,700, $1,100,000 to Holland, and $50,000 to Austria. Gold under earmark for foreign account increased $13,122,900. There were no imports.

It was reported in some quarters that the senate's action toward balancing the budget had actually resulted in cancellation of some export orders, but this could not be confirmed. In any case, no immediate check to the movement had been expected. The New York federal reserve bank reported in its monthly bulletin that foreign short term balances as well as foreign investments had been sharply reduced, which would seem to indicate, barring unforseen developments, that the further potential outflow had been greatly curtailed.

Banks Report Changes.

The weekly bank statements showed that the Bank of England, the Bank of France, and the German Reichsbank increased their gold holdings.

The dollar was unable to maintain fully its improved position relative to foreign exchanges today. European currencies displayed considerable easiness in the early transactions, but a late recovery gave most rates a firm closing tone.

French francs, which had been off slightly, finished unchanged. The Belga was down 1½ points, while guilders rallied. Swiss francs at one time were down a point, although the last transactions found them only a fraction off. Sterling cables, closing at $3.89½, were three-eighths cent net higher. German marks and Japanese yen both firmed.

Gold Export Decreases.

The day's loss of metal was less than half that of yesterday, when the net reduction in the nation's monetary gold hoard was $44,436,600. It was reported in some quarters that the progress in Washington in dealing with the nation's fiscal problems had resulted in cancellation of some orders to export gold, but this could not be confirmed.

The net loss in gold in the week ended yesterday was $102,705,000. The further reduction today brought the nation's stock of monetary metal down to $4,086,000,000, in contrast to the peak of $5,015,000,000 reached last September. The current level of monetary gold in this country is the smallest since 1923, but only slightly under the levels of 1928.

Dollar Improves Again.

The dollar had another interval of improvement in the foreign exchange markets today. The Belgian franc sagged for a time under the level at which further takings of gold at New York would be profitable, but the dollar lost some of its gain in the late trading. French and Swiss francs and Dutch florins still held above the outgoing gold points.

COURT NAMES RECEIVERS FOR BIG COAL CO.

New York, June 2.—(AP)—The Consolidation Coal company announced here today that receivers had been appointed for the company in Baltimore. The receivers named were Howell Fisher of Baltimore, Robert C. Hill of New York and F. R. Lyon of Fairmont, W. Va., and they were directed to continue operation of the business.

This company, organized in 1860, is one of the largest producers of bituminous coal in the country. It joined in the petition for a receiver.

EXPECT GERMAN $90,000,000 CREDIT TO BE EXTENDED

New York, June 2.—(AP)—It was indicated here today that the $90,000,000 general banking credit to the German Reichsbank which matures on June 4 would be extended for another three months. The credit was provided jointly by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, the Bank of England, the Bank of France, and the Bank for International Settlements.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 2.—Wall street felt better over budget balancing prospects today and demonstrated the fact with a fair rally in stock prices. The markups ran from a fraction to as much as 3 points.

The recovery was by way of being a "second thought" affair, however, the session having started in a bearish mood. It was well along toward noon, in fact, before the situation began to brighten. In the meantime a number of new lows had been registered and about all that remained of yesterday morning's tax bill rally was erased.

Rumor of Good News.

A rumor that something in the way of important good news was about to break in local quarters was the signal for the turnabout. The report finally narrowed down to an understanding that the young banker-industrialist credit group was about ready to announce the formation of a syndicate to support the bond market and up to the hour of closing this report lacked official confirmation. However, the episode had given the street something more cheerful to think about and cheer leaders on the bull side proceeded to trot out more optimistic views on the tax measure and work it to full account.

From the appearance of things, also, some artificial stimulant was applied to the list in sections where it would count most. Some short traders had gone in rather recklessly yesterday when the market was obviously very thin and they were crowded rather brutally when the tide began to turn today. Atchison, American Can, Auburn, American Can, Tobacco and stocks of that caliber were the chief media for punitive measures.

All Shares Advance.

Once set in motion, the movement attracted enough buying by traders sold on the idea that a recovery has been long overdue on technical grounds alone to carry it through to the close. The result was that final figures in the main were about the best of the day.

Nearly all sections shared in the improvement in some measure. Outside of a selected group of "personally-conducted" pivotals, the best showing was made by the tobacco, railroad and oil issues. Atchison gained 3½ points—after being kicked about in the early session; Union Pacific rose 2¾, Norfolk and Western 4, Illinois Central 1¾, and Chesapeake and Ohio 1¾ points.

Utility descriptions did not do so well. This group led the list downward in the early decline and never was able to get itself turned completely around. Peoples Gas of Chicago, which has been so conspicuous for the last few months, was still on the minus side at the close and such issues as Consolidated Gas, Electric Power and Light and the like were able to register only fractional gains. Speculation was to the effect which the proposed electric output tax on the earnings of power and light companies is reflecting on the shares of these corporations just now.

Oils Strike Snag.

The oils were going particularly strong until the announcement of the collapse of the international petroleum conference. This news slowed them up considerably, but Standard Oil of New Jersey, Standard of California,

PHILLIPS STATE BUYS UP COOK COUNTY TRUST

Plans Announced by the Purchaser.

BY AL CHASE.

Through purchase of $200,000 of preferred stock and 10,000 shares of common, the entire capitalization, interests identified with the Phillip State Bank and Trust company yesterday acquired the Cook County Trust company. Barnet L. Rosset, head of B. L. Rosset & Co., public accountants, and also chairman of the board of the Phillip State Bank and Trust company, has been elected president of the company just purchased.

C. A. Beutel, president of the bank, was made vice president of the company. In addition to Mr. Rosset and Mr. Beutel, Frank B. Lambert, S. Rogers Touhy, and Walter Shaw, directors of the bank, were elected to the board of the trust company.

Bought from Rosenberg.

The Cook County Trust company was all purchased from Moe Rosenberg, a west side Democratic politician, with the exception of a few qualifying shares held by his own directors, Harold Rosenberg and J. E. Sullivan. The same name and location will be used for the present. Later it may be combined with the trust department of the Phillip State bank or used as a downtown connection for that institution. It is stated that the receivership business will not be sought on the scale it was under the Rosenberg régime. Business, according to Mr. Rossett, will be along regular trust company lines.

Three Issues Called.

The protective committee for bond issues underwritten by the Straus Brothers Investment company yesterday called for the deposit of bonds on the following three properties: The Stanton apartments, 2108-10 North Kedzie avenue; Roselle apartments, Ainslie street and Magnolia avenue, and the Sherman apartments, 909 Sherman street, Evanston.

A tentative plan of reorganization of these properties announced several months ago by the Straus Brothers Investment company was not carried out and the committee was asked to come to the assistance of the bondholders, it was stated. The Phillip State Bank and Trust company is depositary for all these issues.

1430 Lake Shore Drive.

Negotiations for the refinancing of the twenty-four story coöperative apartment structure at 1430 Lake Shore drive are to be brought to conclusion within a few days by the building corporation and the Garard bondholders' protective committee, it was stated yesterday.

The plan, which has the sanction of the bondholders, provides for the issuance of new bonds in exchange for present outstanding securities, which total $1,090,000, according to William C. Cook, chairman of the bondholders' protective committee. In the new issue the interest will be reduced to 4 per cent for the first four years and 5 per cent for the remainder of the fifteen year term, the maturity of the loan being extended from Sept. 1, 1940, to March 1, 1947.

Under the original bond issue of $1,100,000, underwritten by the Garard Trust company in September, 1927, the interest rate was 6 per cent. Interest payments due March 1 and Sept. 1, 1931, are in default.

COTTON ADVANCES $1 PER BALE AFTER NEW LOW RECORDS

Cotton prices recently have declined $3 a bale to the lowest in years, and advanced more than $1 a bale yesterday. There were net gains on futures in Chicago of 22@25 points and in other markets of 20@24 points. Spots in New York advanced 25 points to 5.30c, with New Orleans up 20 points to 5.25c a 500 lb bale, while Galveston and Houston were 5c. Spot houses were heavy buyers all day, particularly in New Orleans. Crop reports on the whole were favorable. The failure of two Liverpool firms in the last two days led to a little selling at times, but offerings were well absorbed.

World consumption of American cotton in April is estimated at 1,078,000 bales, against 1,149,000 bales in March, and 1,004,000 bales in 1931. Prices follow:

WALL ST. PERKS UP AS BUDGET PROSPECTS GAIN

Pan-American Petroleum, Houston, and other issues were still up 1 to 2 points or more at the finish.

Preferred stocks had another poor day, especially the utility issues. Losses ranging from 2 to 10 points were noted in the following: American Can, American Ice, American Power and Light 6 per cent, American Water Works, Santa Fé, Atlas Powder, Brooklyn Queens Transit, Columbia Gas, Consolidated Gas, Cushman's 7 per cent, Eastman Kodak, General Printing Ink, Midland Steel Products, New York Shipbuilding, Standard Brands, United Corporation, United Gas and Improvement, United States and Foreign Securities, and Westinghouse.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, June 2.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil closed easy at unchanged to 8 points decline, ignoring the firmer cotton, grain and stock markets and unfavorable reports from sections of the cotton belt. Scattered liquidation and the disappointing lard market unsettled sentiment. Sales 17 contracts, equivalent to 2,550 barrels. Crude oil was nominal in the southeast and Texas, with sales at 2¾c in the valley. Bleachable spot closed, 3.25c; July, 3.60c; September, 3.63c; December, 3.78c; January, 3.83c.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 1,000; hogs, 19,000; sheep, 8,000.

The trend of live stock markets ruled strong to higher again yesterday. Hogs were inclined to drag some after the first brisk rounds of trading, but cattle held a good lead all day after forging ahead to a 15@25c higher start. Lambs met a good call on the bulge and finished right behind cattle. The new crop of lambs soared to $7.00, highest since the middle of last month. Top cattle brought $7.55. Hogs are still a drag on other live stock, the best yesterday stopping at $3.55. However, this price is 25c above the low day last week.

Brisk action in the cattle yards was a feature of the day. Supplies were short and there was a scarcity of choice grades. The scant supply of the latter went over the scales at the full advance soon after the start and toward noon buyers were out for "numbers." A surprisingly small proportion of the steer supply sold below $5.50, and only odd head of inferior grades had to sell for less than $5.00. The bulk of the run brought $5.50@7.00.

Yearlings Reach $7.40.

Yearlings averaging 994 lbs reached $7.40, and 1,311 lb beeves to New York buyers fetched $7.55, the top. Buying was brisk at other points, too. "River" markets reported top steers at $7.00@7.65. Trading in butcher stock also evidenced an improved tone. Grassy kinds were slow, but grain fed cows and heifers were wanted at advanced rates. A shipment of baby beef yearling heifers averaging 717 lbs brought $6.45, within 5c of the highest since the middle of last month. Calves were strong. A firm undertone was noted in stockers and feeders, but little business was transacted.

Competition in the hog alleys kept up as long as the meager supply of top classes lasted. The latter finished nominally firm, but trading in other grades cooled off toward midsession. The extreme top and general average prices remained steady at $3.55 and $3.25, respectively.

Numerous lots reached the peak price, while most high quality 220@250 lb butchers went over the scales at $3.30@3.50. Butchers weighing 300@350 lbs sold at $3.15@3.25, one string of 231 Nebraska butchers averaging 301 lbs going for local slaughter at $3.20. The rank and file of smooth 450@550 lb packing sows brought $2.50@2.65, with light butcher grades up to $3.00. Supplies have been unusually light since last week's close. The week's total at 11 points is expected to be smallest in two months.

Demand Is Brisk.

Smaller local houses were in need of lamb supplies today and buying converged again in the new crop, sending the best of these up mostly 25c before noon. Others followed at a slower pace and last year's crop dragged along at about steady prices. City butchers paid $7.00 frequently for closely sorted offerings, while packers went up to $6.50 for their top selections of the new crop. The bulk sold at $6.00@6.25. Yearlings, until this week classed as "fed western shorn lambs," were disposed of at Wednesday's quotations, the bulk of best grades going at $5.00@5.35. Five carloads sold to packers and shippers at the outside figure.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 1,000 cattle, 19,000 hogs and 8,000 sheep, against 1,294 cattle, 20,697 hogs, and 8,590 sheep the previous Friday and 3,217 cattle, 16,074 hogs, and 12,751 sheep a year ago.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, June 2.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was quiet today, but the undertone was steady and the only sales confirmed were 18,000 bags of Philippine to the import refiner at 2.58c and 28,000 bags of Porto Rican to an outport refiner for end of June arrival at 2.62c. Locally refiners showed interest at 2.58c for spots, but holders asked fractionally higher. It is reported that moderate quantities of Hawaiian sugars are arriving here and as these are shipped with the understanding that they be sold at the price on the day of arrival refiners show little interest in other sugar. Approximate sales, 15,300 tons. Prices follow:
